GIRL OVERCOMES

Deaf. Dumb and Blind, She Acquires Education.

HEAVY HANDICAP

Spartansburg, S. C.—A second Helen Keller is Miss Ruby Miller, twenty years old, a student at the South Carolina State Institute for the Deaf and Blind, in this city. The girl, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, of Columbia, was left totally blind, deaf, and dumb when three years old, by an attack of meningitis. For nearly six years she remained in a state of under-development.

She now can speak plainly, knit, do basket work, bead work, plain sewing, cook, read and play the piano, and has a speaking knowledge of Latin and French, both vocally and by the sign language.

The girl is unable to hear any sound, yet by training she has learned to use her vocal cords in intelligible speech. Although she cannot hear the pitch of her words, they have remarkable inflection and expression. She "hears" by a sense of touch in which she can tell by vibrations the words others speak to her. To do this she any more. places the fingers of one hand across the speaker's lips and her thumbs beneath the chin. Miss Miller has no recollection of sound, but says she can recall having once seen some cows pass the front yard at her home before her illness swept away both sight and hearing. In spite of her affliction the young woman is cheerful and full of fun.

to get anglicized for a hundred years in the United States, with only partial success. A word like "hangar" as the French speak it defies our vocal apparatus, so we frankly admit defeat and give it an American hang; but the Franco-American entente prevails in our pronunciation if it is any wise attainable. No "shofer" drives his car to the "gar-ji." The anglicizers of garage are courageous nonconformists. They have a perfect right to their choice in the court of lexicography, at the expense perhaps of being thought ignorant by the ignorant and, by others, eccentric.

Of Rasputin, evil genius of the Romanoffs, the story is told that when, on one occasion, he applied to the late Grand Duke Nicholas for permission to visit the imperial general headquarters, the grand duke's reply was: "Come, and I will have you hanged." According to L'Europe Nouvelle, Paris, Rodzianko, one-time president of the duma, in the act of compiling his memoirs, called upon the grand duke and asked him if he had really sent Rasputin that message "What was I reported to have said?"

"'Come, and I will have you hanged.' " The grand duke laughed. "Well," said he, "those were not my exact words." He refused to discuss the matter further, leaving Rodzianko to infer that they were "words to that effect."
