Hope That Beams Will Divulge Historic Dates

With saws and drills and microscopes, the specialists engaged in the beam studies are digging from the heart of ancient logs and beams a more accurate calendar of happenings in the southwestern United States than that which we possess for the civilizations of the Egyptians or the Mayas.

The work is built on the fact that every growing tree leaves in its trunk a ring for each year; and on the further fact that each one of these rings has an individuality of its own—a different width, definiteness, or character resulting from different climatic or seasonal differences.

Furthermore, all trees in a given region show the same ring sequence; and some of the rings, deposited in an especially characteristic season of drought or moisture, stand out so plainly that it is almost as if Nature had rubber-stamped the ring: "This is the year 1398 A. D."

The work was undertaken after expeditions of the National Geographic society had uncovered the ruins of Pueblo Bonito in New Mexico, one of America's earliest "apartment houses." Many interesting things were learned about the customs and culture of the 2,500 people who once occupied the great structure; but the date at which they flourished remained a secret.

Some of the old beams used in supporting the roof were well preserved, and when sawed showed characteristic rings. The idea was conceived of tracing a tree-ring calendar back from the present to the days when Pueblo Bonito's beams were growing.

Wisest Men Have Ever

Been Slow of Speech

People are likely to set too much store by "conversation." A very large proportion of it isn't worth 2 cents. It must be conceded that there is a kind of exhilaration in talking. One can even get headache by it; showing that it has a direct effect on the tempo of the heart and on the nervous system. The popular notion that one must talk "for the sake of relief" is probably bogus; because silence, once it is learned and practiced, gives a greater relief.

Keeping still is an interesting game, to the point of being, at times, delightful; especially when employed to keep out of a furious row under full headway. It is a difficult game, therefore the more inviting to play. One may suffer from the invidious implication that it is timidity instead of good sense that keeps him from participation, but let him remember that many of the wisest men within human knowledge were taciturn—"minded their own business," and we don't know but that the slow to speech get along about as well as the wordy and impassionate; some think, better.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Babson Comments Home Cooling Idea

Roger Babson, internationally famous economist, predicts that in the near future automatic cooling of homes will be recognized as a standard thing in this country.

"Experience with automatic heating and mechanical refrigeration," states a recent issue of Babson's Reports, "has developed to the point where new homes are now being built in which the temperature can be automatically controlled all the year 'round. This will also include keeping the rooms at the proper humidity."

"Automatic cooling has for some time been successfully operated in theaters and department stores. In extending it to smaller buildings, both industrial and domestic, it is simply applying and extending the principles of electric and gas refrigeration which are proving increasingly popular."

In line with this forecast, says the Holland Institute of Thermology, Holland, Mich., the latest development in the warm air heating industry is the "super-circulating" system which propels cool air through the house in summer as well as warm air in winter.

Washington's Cherry Trees

Mrs. Taft shortly after going into the White House ordered 80 Japanese cherry trees to be sent to Washington and planted. She had seen and admired these trees while traveling in the East. A Japanese resident of New York made her a gift of 2,000 of these trees. When they reached America they contained an insect that was injurious to American plants. For that reason they were thrown overboard. The city of Tokyo then gave the United States 3,000 of these trees. The water side around the Speedway and the Tidal basin in Washington have these trees in blossom during the early spring.

Honoring the Dead

Annual Decoration day is most enthusiastically observed by the Lower Yukon River Indians. Late last autumn fifteen families of Indians from Nulato and other villages met together to fulfill the custom of erecting houses over the graves of those who died during the year. The shelters of the old graves were given a fresh coat of brilliant paint.

Many of the unique mausoleums have windows and floors and contain rugs and other articles that were used by the departed ones.

Every western Alaska Indian tribe has a different method of protecting the spirit of departed ones.

Cumbersome Old Vessels

Galleon was a name formerly given to a large kind of vessel with three masts and three or four decks, such as those used by the Spaniards in their commerce with South America to transport precious metals. They were large, clumsy, square-sterned vessels, having bulwarks three or four feet thick, all of which were so encumbered with topmasts and so over-weighted in proportion to their draft of water that they could bear little canvas, even with smooth seas and light winds.

CLIQUEOT CLUB ESKIMOS AT EBENSBURG SATURDAY

For the second of the summer dances at the Cambria County Fair Grounds the Cliqueot Club Eskimos will appear Saturday evening, June 8th, at nine o'clock eastern standard time. The management of the dance pavilion have an exclusive contract for this district with the National Broadcasting and concert bureau which controls all the organizations operating over the great chain and as these units become available for outside dates they will be heard in Ebensburg. This will necessitate the setting aside of the usual set evening each week for the dances, as in order to secure the best available date they can be secured has to be taken. So great has been the demand for the services of the Cliqueot Club Eskimos, that they have been divided into two units to fill the dates that are clamored for by dance lovers. Clad in new Eskimo uniforms they will make their first appearance on a dance platform Saturday evening at the Fair pavilion.

Peter Van Steedan, more generally known as "Van" to the dance lovers, and radio listeners, will be in the baton role with the first unit of the Eskimos. They have started with a special de-quest program that will fill out the desires of almost any audience and they have received tens of thousands of requests from their admirers over the air they have been able to select a program that holds the highest percentage of numbers desired by music and dance lovers.

There are 12 men with the Eskimos and each one is a finished musician.

More Howlers

"A schoolboy's essay on Henry VIII included in the sentence: 'At this time King Henry walked with great difficulty, having an abscess on his knee.' A business man says that a short line in any commodity automatically raises its value.—This is doubtless the reason for the high price of evening gowns.

No Standing Still

Progress is essential in this life. But whether it shall be forward or backward is for you to decide. You cannot stand still. This is impossible. The world is only a stairway on which men go either up or down.—Grit.

For the LADY DRIVER

STERLING DEALERS everywhere have noticed the increasing number of women drivers who are demanding Sterling Gasoline.

WHY? Questioning brought about the answer—purely ninine—"because of its smoothness."

Smoothness is the one word that summarizes so many powers like these:

"It responds to the most delicate pressure on the accelerator without jerking."
"You hardly ever have to change gears with it."
"The engine works beautifully in traffic."
"There is no vibration when you start slowly from a stand-still."

Crystal clear Sterling Gasoline—smooth as the flight of a bird, powerful as the pull of a tug.

No Road Trouble

No father or husband wants the lady driver of his family stuck on the road with a breakdown.

Provide her with the most positive protection there is—a crank case filled with Sterling 100% Pure Pennsylvania.

No heat can burn it up. No friction can break it down. No dilution can spoil it. Film of protection. After 1,000 miles a greater factor of safety remains in this supreme oil than in many an ordinary oil at half the price.
