FAIR PLAY

"I told my son that he was not giving enough attention to the classics," remarked the conscientious parent. "I reproached him for not knowing the difference between the Iliad and the Odyssey."

"Was he properly apologetic?" "Not at all. He said nobody could know everything, and asked me if I knew the difference between crystal receptivity and a neurodyne."—Washington Star.

They're a Scream

Bob—Saw some funny pictures last night that gave me a good laugh. Bill—I didn't know there was a good comedy at the movies this week. Bob—Didn't see them at a movie. My girl and I were looking through an old family album she'd found in the attic.

HE RANG IN

Sister—Well, wint luck did you have with the latest belle? Brother—Oh, I succeeded in ring-

Other Things

The interne hung his shingle out Proclaiming him M. D. But from A. M. until P. M. His office was M. T.

Seeking a Test

"Why did you forbid him to see you again?" "He said he loved me," answered Miss Cayenne. "If that is really true, no little thing I can say will prevent him from seeing me, even if he has to pick a lock or climb a transom."—Washington Star.

A Cheap Triumph

Edwin—Don't you believe me, dearest, when I tell you that you are the only girl I ever loved? Angelina—Oh, yes. But that's not nearly as nice as it would be to know that I'd stolen you from some other girl.

HE'D GET THE CHANCE

He—I'd meet the most terrible danger, sweetheart, to make you mine! She—You'll have a chance to when you meet mother, dear.

"Just a Song at Twilight"

Every dog must have its day. And every cat its night. Even though when changing shifts They meet and start a fight.

Taking on Responsibility

"I shall say nothing but what I believe to be absolutely true," said Senator Sorgium. "But," said the practical friend, "if you stop to verify every statement how are you going to find time to make a speech?"—Washington Star.

Age

Wife—There was a poor woman here today after old clothes. Husband—Did you give her any? Wife—Yes; I gave her that ten-year-old suit of yours and that dress I bought last week.

Both Peacemakers

Policeman—I found them clutching one another and wrestling. One of the Prisoners—It ain't true, yer honor. We weren't fighting when he nabbed us—we were a tryin' to separate each other.

Overworked

"What's the result of the examination, doctor?" "You're all run down—my advice is that you give up got a while and get a good long rest at the office."—Happy Magazine.

Pulled in Two Ways

First Motorist—Do you know that motoring has increased my appetite wonderfully? Second Same—Well, that's good. "I'm not so sure. I can't afford to eat now."
