CHARTER NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the 15th day of July, 1929, under the Act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled, "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April 29, 1874, and the supplements thereto for the charter of an intended corporation to be called the PATTON COAL MINING COMPANY, the character and object of which is mining, buying, selling and shipping of coal and other minerals incidentally developed in manufactured or crude form, and the various by-products thereof; the acquiring, leasing, purchasing and holding in fee or upon royalty or rental, coal lands, coal mining leases, mineral rights and other properties, real, personal and mixed, and the selling, conveying, leasing, and releasing of the same, with the right to construct, have and hold as well as to dispose of such buildings and other improvements as are necessary and

DR. APPEL WARNS AGAINST OF BLASTING CAP EVIL

"One naturally associates the Fourth of July with possible accidents due to explosives. And quite properly so. Toy cannon, high powered fire crackers, and so-called, Mr. Hoffman is well known for his hotel activities on the Lincoln Highway at Bedford, Gettysburg and Lioniger, and he is director of the Hotel and Club activities of the Cressoretto Colony Club and Resort.

"The result is that Pennsylvania's share of casualties of this sort, cause a more or less fixed number of its young people to go through life with mangled faces, arms and legs, if indeed they are sufficiently fortunate to escape death itself. And the pathetic feature of the situation lies in the easy avoidability of such accidents.

"When it is understood that blasting caps contain fulminate of mercury—a quick and powerful explosive, the danger from them at once becomes apparent.

"Children should be warned by their parents never to tamper with such caps. They are highly sensitive and cause a violent explosion. The usual methods by which young people sustain injury from blasting caps are by striking them with a hammer attempting to extract their contents with a pin, lighting a lighted match to them or by thrusting them into a fire.

"However a warning to the children is not enough. It is plain that if the caps are not found by young people they cannot be injured by them. After all, the greatest obligation rests upon those who use them.

"A careful check on all blasting caps should be required. Under no circumstances should they be taken home or left in other places where children can get them.

"If the legitimate users of these explosives will exercise due care and parents warn their children of their dangers, the accidents and fatalities from this source in Pennsylvania can be materially reduced if not altogether eliminated. Protect the children against the blasting cap."
