MAIL TRUCK DRIVER HAS NARROW ESCAPE
 When the automobile of Ralph J. Hoover, Sankertown mailman, and a P. R. E. gasoline car met at the railroad crossing at Hastings Friday morning, there was no dispute as to which had the right-of-way, the smaller quite naturally bowing out of the picture, but Hoover demonstrated that not even a serious railroad crash can halt the delivery of Uncle Sam's mail.
 Dazed and cut about the head when the machine in which he was covering his route was tossed a distance of 25 feet, and then hitting a telephone, Hoover suffered himself to be extricated from under the overturned car by the crew of a machine that struck him and a few minutes later was on his way with the mail—in a badly-battered conveyance. Hoover, a 41-year-old star route carrier, said he was approaching the crossing at Hastings Friday morning, and though he looked carefully in both directions, failed to see the car.
 It was Garway-bound 9:05 train that had just left the Hastings station. It struck the mailman's car on the left and hurled it down the tracks. Hoover was pinned underpearth. He was reported resting well at his home, but was confined to his bed for a few days.

Mrs. Lamonica's household goods were also a complete loss, the total loss on building and contents being about $3,000, which was covered by insurance. It was the fifth call answered by the Nanty-Glo Volunteer Fire Co. in six days, including the call to Colver Saturday forenoon.

FREIGHT WRECK ON P. R. E. AT DYSART
 Traffic over the Pennsylvania Railroad through this section was tied up for some hours as the result of two cars of a freight train being derailed near Dysart about 5:45 o'clock Friday evening. One of the cars was loaded with package freight while the other car was empty.

FIRE NEAR COLVER CAUSES $35,000 LOSS. TWO FIREMEN HURT

Two Ebensburg Firemen Hurt When Ladder Collapses Two Buildings Are Destroyed
 Loss estimated at approximately $35,000 was caused by fire of undetermined origin which swept the business section of Bakerville near Colver, Saturday, destroying two buildings and 3 automobiles and damaging four other buildings. Two firemen—John W. McPadden and William Weimer, both members of the Dauntless Volunteer Fire Co. of Ebensburg—were painfully, but not seriously injured when a ladder, from which they were operating a hose line, collapsed throwing them to the ground.
 Firemen from Ebensburg and Nanty-Glo were summoned to fight the fire which was discovered by Miss Mildred Domenick at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning when she noticed the blaze in the rear of the building occupied by the Wadler Bros. clothing store.
 The flames spread rapidly, soon enveloping the Waxler building and the adjoining building occupied by Louis Govacchino's garage. Both structures, together with three cars stored in the garage, were destroyed. A building housing the store of N. Bertolami, next to the Waxler building, and the Govacchino garage were damaged badly as were stores owned by Sam Lagano and Louis Govacchino.
 Telephone and electric light service was wiped out when, shortly after the fire was discovered, the flames buried cables and wires Repair crews, however, restored both services by evening.
 Bakerville, located about a mile from Colver, formerly was known as Jewtown.

ASKS COOPERATION TO CUT MINE TOLL
 The State Department of Mines has reported a heavy increase in fatalities in Pennsylvania bituminous mines in January, as compared with December, while the anthracite mines showed a slight increase for the same period. In the soft coal fields resulted in 31 deaths in January, an increase of 17 over the preceding month. Anthracite fatalities numbered 48 in January as compared with 45 in December, an increase of three.
 Comments on mine accidents, Secretary Walter H. Glasgow, of the Department of Mines said:
 "The problem of accident prevention in Pennsylvania mines does not differ in any material respect with the problem of motor vehicle laws and regulations or industrial accident prevention for, in the final analysis, it is generally dependent upon the individual affected. Formerly years, Pennsylvania has enacted and enforced mining laws designed to prevent accidents, and has provided a large and competent mine inspection force to see that the mine safety laws are observed.
 "Pennsylvania mines are so regulated that the most modern safety methods and devices are employed, and every indication points to an even greater success for the Junior-Senior Prom.
 "The members of the geometry class, and the Mathematics Club, are busy drawing 'modernistic' designs for geometry. At the regular meeting of the club on Wednesday morning the designs were examined, along with many other geometrical designs. Prizes will be awarded next Wednesday to the students having the best designs.
 Miss Johnson was an Altoona caller on Saturday.
 Mr. T. T. Charlton, and Miss Helen Krumbine, both former teachers of the Patton High Schools, were visitors in Patton on Saturday, and they attended the Patton-Cresson basketball game on Saturday night.

BASKETBALL GAMES
 There is a rumor in the school, that there will be no more class basketball games. If this is true, the champions will go to the Sophomores with 1000 points.
 Three basketball games were played since the last edition of the Courier and the outcome of the games seem to be in the favor of the girls, and against the boys.
 On Wednesday of last week, the Patton teams played the Hastings teams on their own floor. In the opening game, the Patton girls easily outclassed the Hastings squad and added a 35-6 victory to their almost perfect record. The Patton boys could not keep up to the fast stride of Hastings, and lost their game 22-20. The Patton boys must be given due credit to the wonderful manner, in which they sprang to lift and tied the score in the fourth quarter. The score at the half was 13-8 in favor of Hastings for the boys' game and 19-2 favor of Patton in her girls' game.
 On Saturday evening the Patton teams motored to Cresson where they met their Waterloo. The Patton girls lost their second game of the season, and the Cresson boys won their's by a comfortable margin. The Summary and Lineups:

PATTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES OF THE WEEK

As Reported to the Courier by Jim Shannon of the Student Body.
 Report Cards were given to the students on Tuesday morning. Mr. Bosserman was fairly well pleased with the marks of the High School as a whole, and the majority of the students were equally as well pleased with their marks. There were a number of E report cards in each class during this period. The following pupils had E report cards: Senior Class: Clifford Yahner, Lorraine Tarr, Cecelia Zerbee, and Marie Williams.
 Junior Class: Retonah, Mabel Fitzpatrick, Elizabeth Sommerville, and Eleanor Thorburn.
 Sophomore Class: Henry Pregaly, Paul Long, Emma Brochi, Genevieve Stritmatter, Thelma Williams, Catherine Yahner, and Rebecca Kinkead.
 Isabel Semelberger is back in school again following a short period of absence. "The students are glad to have Isabel back in school, and they hope that Albert Crooks who is still ill will soon be with us again.
 Two of the members of the girls basketball squad were painfully injured in the Cresson game on Saturday night. Betty Greene and Ernesta Jenkins suffered severe sprains of their ankles. In spite of their injuries the girls came to the Vintondale game on Tuesday, played a fine game, and were instrumental in winning the outstanding game of the season.
 In continuing our series of classroom descriptions this week, we will describe the bookkeeping and shorthand room. The classroom is situated on the third floor of the building and is the room to the front and left of the building facing Beech Avenue. Miss Mabel Garnet teaches Junior and Senior Bookkeeping while Mrs. Bosserman teaches Senior Shorthand. The room is rectangular in shape. At one end of the room is a door which leads to the typewriting room. There are also two large French windows at this end of the room, which provide a view of the typewriting room from the bookkeeping room. This is extremely beneficial to the teachers, as they can watch over the people who are typing, and hold a class at the same time, without traveling from one room to the other. There are thirty seven, bookkeeping desks in the room. The desks have hollow tops which provide a place to keep books. Since we have used this room, we have sent contestants to the different commercial contests. Whether it is the teachers or the room, or both, that make the pupils work so hard we cannot tell, but we know that we old some of the winners of these contests in Commercial work.
 Miss Steele and Miss Hamilton motored to Altoona on Saturday.
 The members of the Junior Class wish to thank all of the people who patronized the dance on Friday night. The dance was a great success, and every indication points to an even greater success for the Junior-Senior Prom.
 The members of the geometry class, and the Mathematics Club, are busy drawing "modernistic" designs for geometry. At the regular meeting of the club on Wednesday morning the designs were examined, along with many other geometrical designs.
