FOR THE STREET

This smart street frock is of bottle green crepe. The large bertha collar that forms the sleeves, and is cut into a draped neckline in front, is an interesting new note.

"Be on your guard. Don't trust anyone you don't know intimately. Don't let a single piece of jewelry out of your sight for a moment. Watch your customers, especially strangers, every minute they are in the store. Count every item you display as soon as you finish waiting on a person. Honest people won't resent your care and crooks will see that you are alert and won't try any tricks on you."

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

By WALTER TRUMBULL

One of the best known figures in New York is Rev. Francis P. Duffy. Partly owing to the fact that he went overseas with the "Fighting Sixty-ninth," Father Duffy has many parishioners from that portion of the city commonly known as "Hell's Kitchen."

passed a group of them standing on the corner of Forty-second street and Broadway and stopped to speak. He was wearing a dinner suit with his black shirt, and felt that he looked rather well. Indicating his evening attire, he demanded:

"Well, boys, how do you like the scenery?"

"Father," said one, "you ought to know that patent leather shoes go with that uniform."

"Any other criticism?"

"Yes," said another. "White gloves should either be worn or carried in the hand."

"An evening overcoat should be folded over the left arm," volunteered a third. Father Duffy was becoming a bit nettled.

"Maybe you have some other suggestions," he said, a bit sarcastically. "Just this," came a drawing voice from the rear of the group. "If you will rig yourself up like that, you ought at least to take a taxi."

Father Duffy writes more letters to the police and fire commissioners than does the mayor. Every time a policeman or fireman gets into trouble, he seems to want Father Duffy to write a letter, believing that will straighten things out. He always asks what the difficulty is and always is assured that the worst and only thing which has happened has been the overlooking of some little technicality.

"No more than that?"

"Not a thing except that, Father." Among Father Duffy's prized possessions is a letter from a fire chief in answer to his request to know why a good man had been laid off for some trivial infringement of rules. The reply specifies in great detail sixteen separate counts on which charges had been brought for serious dereliction of duty. It will be long before he hears the last of that one.

When Father Duffy isn't trying to get somebody out of trouble or out of jail, he is getting him a job. One day, coming in on a trolley at the Pennsylvania station, a porter said to him: "Please let me carry your bag. I don't want any money."

"Why do you want to carry my bag?"

"You don't remember me," said the red cap, "but a couple of years ago I was down on my luck and couldn't get a job. I had a wife and family and I needed work. You gave me a letter to Mr. Egan, the station master, and I have been here ever since."

"Sometimes people give me money for the poor," says Father Duffy, "but what I really need more, is jobs. Say I can get a man a job at a salary of $1,000 a year. That's 5 per cent on $20,000. Isn't that better than giving him $10 or $20, which can last him only for a few days?"

Police Commissioner Mulrooney also told me of a porter, but this was a pullman porter. He had once been on the police force and he wanted to know what chance he had to get his job back. His total tips on a chair car run to Syracuse and back had been 75 cents. He had lost interest in the railroad business.

Rosita Forbes, traveler and novelist, has lost a bit of faith in charms. One night in Persia she came to the cave of a minor prophet who gave her a very superior snake's head, guaranteed to bring immediate and lasting luck. The next morning her car got stuck in the mud and it took five hours to yank it out. (© 1930, Bell Syndicate.)

"MODEL CITIZEN" KILLS FAMILY OF FIVE AND HIMSELF

Hits Each With Hammer and Cuts Own Throat With Razor.

Washburn, Wis.—George Froese, assistant postmaster for many years and model citizen of this quiet town, killed his wife and four children with a hammer during a melancholic frenzy and then cut his throat with his razor.

The killings were discovered when a group of citizens directed by Mrs. E. W. Olson, the school teacher, broke into the house. The dead are: George Froese, sixty; Mrs. Froese, forty-five; Neil, thirteen; George and Adelaide, eleven, twins; and James, six.

Killed as They Slept. Froese was believed to have killed his family while they slept. Mother and the children all were found in their beds. Apparently he first visited the room where his wife and daughter slept and struck them down. The condition of their bodies and the room indicated that in his frenzy he dealt blow after blow on them, although Deal Blow After Blow.

It was likely that the first caused death. After wandering through the other two bedrooms and killing the boys, Froese, it was believed, killed himself in the bathroom. He collapsed in the front room downstairs.

Boy Reveals Stayings. The first news of the slayings came to Mrs. Olson through Robert Thoreson, a classmate of the oldest boy. The Thoreson boy, as was his custom, called at the Froese home for his chum. No one responded to his knocks and he peeked through the front window.

What he saw made him run shuddering to the teacher. "I don't believe Neil will be in school today," he told her. "I looked through the window and there's something awful there. Mr. Froese was lying on the floor."

Mrs. Olson was not impressed until Neil Froese failed to come to school. Then she notified her husband, who called W. A. Robinson, the postmaster, and Chief of Police James N. Long. The four forced entry into the house. Froese had been a victim of nervous disorders for years.

Howard's four-month-old calf, Peter, has been getting thinner and thinner until he is only a shadow of his former self. Meanwhile Pal, his auldred dog, has been getting fatter and fatter. After feeding time, Peter occasionally would be heard moaning mournfully to the sky, even though his friend, Pal, was there to keep him company.

Captain Howard investigated and says he found the ground oats from Peter's feed box gone to swell Pal's avoidpouls.

One-Third of Reptile Kills Three Deerhounds

Kinston, N. C.—One-third of a rattlesnake killed three husky deerhounds near here, according to D. E. Wood, Kinston sportsman. The dogs were following hunters through the woods. They came upon a six-foot snake. It was shot. The body was cut in two. The hunters ran up to investigate the part including the head, and about 12 liches of the body.

They were bitten in rapid succession, Wood said. The head struck the dogs with machine gun rapidity. All of the dogs were dead within thirty minutes. The first bitten was the last to die, the last bitten the first.
