On the Funny Side

CANNY

A Scotsman approached an attendant of a bowling green and quietly handed him twopenny.
"What's this for?" asked the attendant.
"A game o' bowls, laddie," replied the Scot.
"Yes, but the fee is sixpence. Read that board."
"I'hae done, laddie," nodded the Scot with a wink. "It says fees for the green, sixpence a game, but I'm nae green."

WHAT IT STOOD FOR

Wife (sight seeing)—What does this monument stand for, dear?
Dumb Hubby—Don't you see it's so strongly built of marble it couldn't possibly fall!

Barbaric Gloom

The savage said, "I really find Mine is a gloomy lot; They loot me if I'm good and kind And shoot me if I'm not!"

For a Practical Test

The President—You told your class that a family on tour could live well on $718 a year. Are you sure of that?
The Professor of Domestic Economy—Absolutely. Reliable statistics prove it.
The President—I'm glad to hear it because we are cutting your salary 40 per cent for the coming year.

Zip

Mistress (interviewing cook)—Supposing I wanted you to cook an elaborate dinner for about fifteen people, would you be lost?
Cook—You bet! That's just 'ow the last folks lost me.—Humorist.

For His Own Good

"You must serve on the jury, Mr. Big Business."
"But, Judge, I am rushed to death."
"I know it. You need a rest."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WASTING TIME

He—Darling, I've been dreaming of this moment for months.
She—Then why waste more time now?

So Sudden!

"Dearest, I love you. Since the dawn of creation, since the birth of this world, since the beginning of time, I have known and loved you. Darling, will you be mine?"
"Oh, Tom, this is so sudden."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Well Trained

Coach—You say you can play football. Have you had any practice?
Football Prospect—Yes, sir, I used to be a floorwalker at the bargain sale counters in a department store.

Sweet Forbearance

Sambo—Look heah, woman, you know you'all done marry me jus' for mah gov'ment insurance!
Lila—Ah knows dat, honey, but ain't I been willin' to let you die a natural death?—San Diego Naval Air Station Trouble Shooter.
