

SAY FIFTY MILE SPEED LIMIT CUT FATALITIES ONE-THIRD IN STATE

Harrisburg.—Intensive enforcement of the state's fifty mile speed limit is credited by the State Highway Safety Bureau for a 33.3 per cent decrease in Pennsylvania traffic fatalities last year, compared to the 1937 toll.

The Bureau, an agency of the revenue department, reported the 1938 deaths from traffic accidents, totaled 1,570, against 2,564 for the previous year. Meantime, non-fatal injuries on the highways slumped from 61,445 to 46,161 and total accidents on the roads from 73,446 to 56,519, the bureau reported.

Analysis of 1937 highway casualty reports showed:

Motorists killed one person every 3-5 hours, injured one every one and one-half minutes and were involved in approximately 201 accidents daily.

One car of every 829 registered caused the death of one person and one vehicle out of every 14 involved in fatal accidents was from out of the state. One out of every 35 licensed operators was in a traffic accident.

The ratio between the number of adults to children killed was four to one, the ratio between the number injured and to the number killed was 24 to 1. The ratio between property damage accidents and fatal accidents was 12 to 1.

The state's motor vehicle death rate per 100,000 population was 25, against the national rate of 32. Half of the persons killed during 1937 in traffic accidents were pedestrians; 59.5 per cent were over 40; 20 per cent were less than 15 years of age.

Allegheny led the 67 counties with 11,391 accidents and 330 killed. Philadelphia county's 11,302 traffic injuries led the list.

October was the most dangerous month, recording 7,747 traffic accidents and 298 killed. Saturday was the most dangerous day with traffic during the final day of each week accounting for a total of 542 fatalities.

Intoxicated drivers were involved in 79 fatal accidents or 2.7 per cent of the total. Intoxicated pedestrians were in 198 fatal accidents or 15.6 per cent of the total involving walkers. Rural arreas had 35,933 accidents, 1,514 killed and 30,936 injured; city-borough areas, 37,533 accidents, 1,050 killed and 30,936 injured.

NOVENA FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY AT LORETTO

The first monthly novena for the year 1939, in honor of the Little Flower of Jesus, will begin at the Carmel of Loretto, Pa., on Sunday, January 22nd, and close on Monday, January 30th.

Many graces and favors were obtained during the solemn Christmas Novena. A special intention will be made in thanksgiving for the favors obtained, and also continued a supplication will be made for the sick, the afflicted, and those seeking employment. The Carmelites ask all to unite with them in fervent prayer during this first novena of the year, in order to draw down the blessings of God upon mankind during this year now beginning. The Carmelite Nuns extend their greetings to all, and beg for many graces and blessings for all who unite with them in prayer. Address all petitions to the Reverend Mother Prioress, Carmelite Monastery, Loretto, Pa.

WILMORE RAILROADER IS INSTANTLY KILLED

Struck by a fast west bound passenger train near the South Fork station on Saturday morning, Blair Shoff, 57, of Wilmore, a railroad trackman, was instantly killed. Shoff was engaged in cleaning snow from a switch when he was struck by the train. He had not noticed the approaching train.

Do You Know?

The Federal health authorities report that one-third of the people of this country made ill cared for when sick. The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania has canvassed the entire state to try to locate some of these "uncared for" millions. Except in a few isolated cases, this society could find no individuals who would come under the classification so blatantly spoken of by the Federal authorities.

Anatomy is the science of the structure of the animal body and the relation of its parts, while physiology is that science which treats of the functions of the different parts of the body. Therefore anatomy may be studied upon the dead creature, physiology only on the living.

Rules Giant 20 Times Its Size

Immense Colonial Empire Of France Governed on Small-Town Set-up.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The recent attempted general strike in France calls attention to the complex social and economic set-up that ordinarily runs the affairs of "fifty-million Frenchmen" and their huge colonial empire.

"As an individual European state, France is a compact geographic unit organized on the 'home town' economic model," says the National Geographic society.

"Few French cities have a population of half a million. Small scale and varied industries are widespread over the land, some 90 per cent of all French factories hiring less than 100 workers each. National activities, almost equally divided between farming and business enterprises, are largely in the hands of petty property owners.

Rules Territorial Giant.

"Yet this nation of proverbial 'stay-at-homes' with a reputation for caution, thrift, and domestic skills, is nevertheless the head and brains of a territorial giant whose members make up a foreign domain second only to that of Great Britain. Like the British empire, although little more than one-third the area of that colossus, French colonists and dependencies are scattered about the world's continents and most of its seas.

"France itself occupies an area of something more than 200,000 square miles. It is the third largest nation in Europe; while abroad, the tricolor flies over an empire more than 20 times the size of the mother country, including an estimated 65,000,000 people of many races, creeds and cultures.

"To France—handicapped at home by scarcity of coal and other raw materials—these far flung possessions present a tremendous reservoir of still-untapped economic wealth.

"The roll call of French possessions, dependencies and mandates around the globe reads like the index to a gazetteer. In north, central and west Africa are Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, the French Congo (or French Equatorial Africa), Senegal, French Guinea, the Ivory Coast, Dahomey, French Sudan, Mauritania, Niger, and Dakar—together with French Somaliland, a small patch of land on the east coast, and the major portions of former German colonies of Togoland and Cameroun, under the bulge of the Great west African shoulder.

"Under mandate, with promise of early self rule, are Syria and Lebanon in the Near East. In northern South America is rich, sultry French Guiana, with its penal settlement 'Devil's Island.'

"Such oriental tongue twisters as Pondichery, Karikal, Chandernagor, Mahe, and Yanaon are French specks on the map of India; while Cochinchina, Annam, Cambodia, Tonking, and Laos making up French Indo-China, plus Kwangchowwan, leased from China, are other Asiatic possessions.

"To all these far-flung continental regions must also be added a French island empire that dots open water from Corsica in the Mediterranean and New Caledonia and New Hebrides in the south Pacific, to Miquelon and St. Pierre in the North Atlantic, and Martinique and Guadeloupe in the Caribbean.

"Madagascar, off the coast of southeast Africa, is something more than an ocean 'dot' of French territory. Bigger than France itself, and world's fourth largest island, it covers an area of some 240,000 square miles, with more than three million inhabitants.

"In the French colonial empire are found most of the earth's products needed to carry on modern industry or warfare. During the World war her colonies contributed to France an estimated half million soldiers and workers, together with millions of tons of supplies.

"Today, France seeks one answer to pressing economic problems at home in new and intensified drives to tap the resources of her foreign domain. The French Colonial office, according to news accounts, is now carrying out plans to build up trade, improve local politics, provide for the empire's defense, and in general develop its vast potential wealth in materials and markets."

Well Drilled 25 Years Ago Now Yields Oil

MOUNT AUBURN, ILL.—Spurred on by the sight of oil rising to the top of the well casing, an oil prospecting crew under direction of George W. Nelms, San Antonio, Texas, is proceeding with work of opening up a well drilled 25 years ago on the old C. A. Montgomery farm, south of here.

The crew lowered a drill bit through the old casing to 2,000 feet and encountered no obstacles.

Nelms intends to bail the accumulated oil from the hole, plug the well and acidize it.
