REVOLT ON LABOR LAW BY A. F. OF L. UNIONS IS CLAIMED BY C. I. O.

Washington—The Congress of Industrial Organizations this week reported 13 American Federation of Labor unions in revolt against Federation-sponsored Wagner Labor Act amendments introduced by Senator Walsh, (D. Mass.)

Federation headquarters scoffed at the C. I. O. report. An A. F. of L. spokesman declared the "only revolt we find in the labor movement is by the auto workers, textile workers and other C. I. O. unions against John L. Lewis' leadership."

Senator Thomas (D-Utah), Senate labor committee chairman, said the amendment question had brought upon his office a deluge of pro and con appeals so heavy that he had not yet found time to determine what the correspondence showed.

Up to his elbows in the NLRB mail, Thomas said "anything anyone says about public sentiment on the issue would probably be true."

A. F. of L. unions listed by the CIO as favoring the act as is, or supporting the National Labor Relations Board by convention resolution, are the Hotel and Restaurant Employees, 175,900 members; International Typographical Union, 14,900, and the American Federation of Teachers, 22,100.

The Cambria County Game Protective Association last fall released 250 pheasants, 75 quail, 36 rabbits, and six coon. This year to date they have released 72 rabbits and will release some coon in the spring. Last summer they planted seven acres of corn and buckwheat which was fed to game.

TUNNELHILL CHILD CREMATED IN HOME

Patrick Reagan, 18-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Regan of Tunnelhill, was cremated in his crib shortly after 10 o'clock last Thursday morning in the Regan home while the mother visited at the home of a neighbor. Three other Regan children and five children of Simon Watson, Negro, who occupied the one-half of the double dwelling, were rescued by Sadie Miller, Negro housekeeper in the Watson home.

Mrs. Reagan had left the child asleep in the kitchen with her other three sons, William, three; Joseph, four; and Robert, five; when she went to the home of a neighbor. The father was at work. The fire is believed to have started from an overheated kitchen stove and the flames had gained great headway before they were noticed and an alarm sounded. The building was destroyed.

NEW 1939 FRIGIDAIRE MODELS NOW ON FLOOR AT BENDER ELECTRIC

One of the most important scientific and engineering developments made in recent years in the electrical refrigeration industry has been announced by officials of Frigidaire division of General Motors Sales Corporation, with the introduction of the new 1939 Cold-Wall models, now on display in the showroom of Bender Electric Co., Carrolltown, Pa.

This new model, representing a most unique application of a scientific principle, provides uniform low temperatures, very high humidity and eliminates moisture-ripping air circulation. These three important factors have been added without adding a single moving part to the mechanism. Foods are kept naturally moist and evenly fresh longer than ever before because these three factors are utilized in combination.

Equally interesting to the public, even if not so startling in character as the announcement of a new super value six cubic foot Frigidaire of conventional design to retail at a price under $150, a new all time low for a Frigidaire of this size. Although representing a major cut in retail price in comparison to previously available models, the new six will retain the meter - mizer type of compressor and freezing unit to be found in all models of the line.

The complete 1939 line of Frigidaire household refrigerators incorporated three basic series, known as Special, the Master and the Cold Wall series, all being exclusive of the new super value six, which has been produced as a single model of outstanding value in the six foot classification.

"It is no longer necessary always to cover cooked foods placed in the new Cold-Wall Frigidaire," according to Mr. B. A. Bender, Frigidaire dealer. "Extensive research has proved that many of them will retain their desirable qualities up to seven times longer than when stored in the ordinary type of cabinet. The fresh appearance of meats and vegetables is maintained and foods in general have no tendency to dry out."

"Fundamentally, this new Cold-Wall principle incorporates two basic methods of applying the results of mechanically produced low temperatures. The cabinet is divided into two completely separated sections by means of a solid glass shelf or divider, placed in the center and called the 'dew-fresh seal'. Between the upper and lower sections, there is no connection and there is no circulation of air from one to the other, the glass shelf providing a tight seal on all four sides.

"Concealed coils have been placed in the walls of the lower section, which accomplish the cooling function largely by means of the radiant principle of heat transfer. Because of this principle, the resulting tendency to practical equalization of temperatures in the entire section, and the impossibility of additional heat reaching the food compartment by reason of the concealed refrigerant coils, air circulation is reduced to an almost unmeasurable degree."

"The top section utilizes a standard freezing unit, providing plenty of ice cubes, dessert freezing and extra cold storage compartments. The conventional air circulation prevailing in the top section is utilized for refrigerating all foods in containers, bottles or cans, and those not affected adversely by circulation.

"An outstanding feature of this new model is the Meat-Tender which is a scientifically designed compartment providing the best known method for the preservation of meats in the home. It is located under the super freezing unit, where the low temperatures that meats require are provided, although without any alternate freezing and thawing, due to the design and construction of the container itself. The correct combination of 'directed' air circulation and humidity permits meats to retain their natural juices without drying or sliming."

The complete new 1939 line of Frigidaire refrigerators may be seen at Carroll Street, Carrolltown, Pa.
