

STATE TREASURER ROSS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT NANTY-GLO AFFAIR

State Treasurer F. Clair Ross was the principal speaker following a banquet of several hundred diners last Thursday night in the social hall of St. Mary's Church at Nanty-Glo. The program was in the school hall.

Judge A. A. Nelson of Ebensburg, served as toastmaster. Other speakers included Assemblymen Al O'Connor and Dennis L. Westrick, Sam DiFrancisco and others.

State Senator John J. Haluska of Patton, entertained the assemblage for quite a long period with a magician's performance and will and ably demonstrated that his talents are not along political lines only, but that he has "something in the bag."

Treasurer Ross brought many well defined thoughts to the listeners, and stepping entirely out of the political theme some of the excerpts of his discourse are as follows:

"Thousands of words are being spoken each day—and hundreds of columns are being written—across our great land, warning of the dual threat to the American plan of life contained in encroachments of Fascism on one hand and communism on the other.

"Dark and foreboding are the predictions of these observers—and not without good reason, perhaps, if we but look across the sea and inspect the contemporary history of half a dozen once mighty nations.

"Greed, jealousy, persecution—these, it appears, have come to be the motivating influence in a world run amuck in the hands of power-crazed leaders.

"The World War and its aftermath—the relentless advance of the machine age and its abundant problem of unemployment—the ever widening economic chasm which separates the hopeful but all-to-few 'haves' from the hopeless but plentiful 'have-nots'—all these things have contributed mightily to this demand for change in the social and economic order of the world mirrored in these and every scheme whereby restless peoples seek to improve their lot.

"We in the United States have not escaped the rumblings of this changing day. But fortunate indeed has been our lot.

"The last decade has brought to the United States one of the greatest changes in its social and economic order ever witnessed by any nation—and brought it orderly and without bloodshed, thanks to our democratic system of government and the wise heads which have been entrusted with its operation.

"We have fed our hungry, clothed the naked, sheltered the homeless. We have avoided the dole while providing special assistance for the aged and blind and incapacitated. We have set up great programs of public works in which needy men and women have been able to earn their keep and at the same time contribute to the national welfare by the enduring products of their emergency labor.

"I have boundless confidence in the common sense and abilities of our people. There is but one evil in all this changing plan strong enough to wreck American democracy—and that is intolerance.

"It is this arch-enemy of democracy against which we must ever be on our guard.

"Intolerance it was which brought the first colonists to our shores; intolerance it was which brought establishment of the Republic; and intolerance of one order or another, it is which down through the years brings the never ending flow of great minds, and strong backs, and aggressive idealism which goes into our own national melting pot—the melting pot from which we draw the best citizens in the world.

"If we continue to oppose intolerance in all its forms—whether racial, or religious, or economic—we have little to fear.

"Tolerance and charity are twin virtues, and where they dwell there is justice, and harmony, and good will.

In such an atmosphere neither Fascism, nor any of their offshoots, can long endure."

national welfare by the enduring products of their emergency labor. We have established a system of unemployment compensation to tide the wage-earner over temporary idleness.

"These and a hundred other great liberal advances have been our fortifications against the great surging advance of Fascism, Communism, and all other isms. These have been the great sinews of the American plan of life which has withstood all attack.

Many there are who fear for the future of the United States but, I am happy to report that I am not one of them.

"I have boundless confidence in the common sense and abilities of our people. There is but one evil in all this changing plan strong enough to wreck American democracy—and that is intolerance.

"It is this arch-enemy of democracy against which we must ever be on our guard.

"Intolerance it was which brought the first colonists to our shores; intolerance it was which brought establishment of the Republic; and intolerance of one order or another, it is which down through the years brings the never ending flow of great minds, and strong backs, and aggressive idealism which goes into our own national melting pot—the melting pot from which we draw the best citizens in the world.

DEPORTATION COSTS SOUGHT OF CAMBRIA

Cambria County Commissioners reported during the week they had been asked to pay the expenses of deporting 29 patients at the Torrence State Hospital who had been classed as aliens by the State Department of Welfare.

They said Supt. Theodore Wolluck of the hospital, informed them that the 29 sent to the hospital by the county had been found eligible for deportation. Wolluck asked the commissioners to pay passport costs and the expenses of an attendant.

The commissioners, who now pay the state $3 weekly to keep the patients at Torrence, said they would seek details concerning the costs before making a decision.

"SCHELL" SCHETTIG IS CANDIDATE FOR DEMOCRATIC PROTHONOTARY

Cresson Man Among First to Enter Name for Primaries in County on Twelfth of September.

SHELDON "Schell" C. SCHETTIG.

Sheldon "Schell" C. Schettig, Cresson, announces his candidacy for the office of Prothonotary of Cambria Co., on the Democratic Ticket. Mr. Schettig in doing so, says he has been urged by his friends throughout the county to enter the campaign and that he has been assured of support from both parties in the event that he is successful in obtaining the nomination this coming September.

He further states, upon making the rounds of the county, that he has been receiving considerable encouragement in his efforts to promote his campaign and that if the support he has been assured of will but follow through, he is confident of securing the nomination.

Although this is the first time Mr. Schettig, "Schell", has ever aspired to public office, he has within the past few years been quite active in the rank and file of the Democratic party.

Mr. Schettig was born in Altoona, Blair county, June 9, 1900, the son of Albert and Maude Nagle Schettig. When three years of age his parents moved to Cresson where his father engaged in the livery business, later in 1914 entering the automobile business in which he is still engaged.

Mr. Schettig attended the Cresson Public Schools and at the same time, while being employed at his father's garage, he attended the Altoona Business College where he took up a commercial course at night school which was further augmented at St. Francis College, Loretto, by a course in accounting. He has been engaged by various commercial enterprises in the capacities of office manager, accountant, bookkeeper and is thoroughly familiar with clerical work and office routine, so consequently feels that his is qualified for this position.

FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH OF LOOT STOLEN AT EBENSBURG

Clothing valued at $4,000 vanished from an Ebensburg store early Saturday to give Cambria county its second major robbery in which merchants reported finding their shelves virtually depleted of stocks in recent weeks.

Latest target for clothing thieves was the Enyeart & Thompson Store, which occupies the American Legion Building first floor. Employees opening shop at 8:30 Saturday morning found 250 men's suits to have been stolen along with a large quantity of sports clothing, boys' suits and haberdashry. Police were summoned immediately. A $200 reward was offered by the merchants for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thieves.

The thieves made entrance at the rear of the building.

Fire at Clearfield.

Fire swept the $145,000 State Highway garage under construction at Clyde, near Clearfield, last week, and caused damage estimated by firemen to be about $2,000. The flames started in an asphalt pile but the exact cause has not been determined.

Highway inspector C. A. Davis reported tarp paper roofing and asphalt expansion joints were destroyed but construction would not be delayed.

THE FARMER DOESN'T ALWAYS HAVE THE HEALTHIEST OF JOBS

The farmer's life seems so peaceful and secure.

But is it? Death from work accidents on farms in the United States last year numbered more than 4,300.

No other single industry had as many fatal work accidents.

Aside from these accidental deaths the farmer is forever exposed, in the summer, to chronic actinic dermatitis.

Sounds like some kind of a blight. That is just what it is. It is a blight on the skin of a farmer, due to unusual exposure to the ultraviolet rays of the sun acting on susceptible skin.

Chronic actinic dermatitis results from a speeding up of the aging of the skin due to exposure.

Those farmers with reddish hair and a tendency to freckle are most likely to suffer from exposure to the sun. Dermatologists, those physicians who are expert in skin diseases, see many cases in which over-exposure to the sun is harmful to the skin.

The skin of these susceptible individuals begins to develop changes in the early thirties and sometimes much earlier.

Such changes are generally in the form of keratoses, or horny growths on the back of the hands. Early growths may be removed. Advanced growths are more difficult to remove with x-ray or radium, and frequently develop malignant conditions.

The farmer's daughter may have a peach-bloom complexion. Her father's hands and face may be dry and cracked like old harness.

Chronic actinic dermatitis is the scientific way of saying leather-face.
