

TURNPIKE WORK IS NOW APPROXIMATELY AT HALF WAY MARK

Harrisburg.—Wages exceeding $2,500,000 had been paid by August 20 to more than 10,000 workers on Pennsylvania's super-highway, Turnpike Commission Chairman Walter A. Jones announced.

Fifty contractors on the 160 mile all weather route between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh on that date had provided work for more than 9,300 men in grading roadway, building bridges, boring tunnels, laying concrete.

At the same time the Turnpike Commission had more than 1,200 employees including engineers, draftsmen, inspectors, and office workers, with a payroll peak of $150,000 a month.

Payments by the commission to the contractors totalled $6,036,000, representing excavation of 8,300,000 cubic yards of earth and rock, placing of nearly 75,000 cubic yards of concrete and use of 12,000 tons of steel.

"This week the Turnpike Commission will reach the half way mark in the time limit allowed by PWA for the completion of our road," Chairman Jones said.

"At that time, the first 30 contractors will have completed about 50 per cent of their work, and the remaining firms will have made substantial progress.

Police authorities are now seeking Weatherwalk's companion. In his confession, Weatherwalk declared he and his friend were looking for work in Heilwood. He asserted they noticed the box car on a siding and that the door of the car was partly open. He admitted then taking 46 pairs of shoes and the wash boilers from the car.

The two men then drove about six miles west of Carrolltown where they had a flat tire. They unloaded the shoes and boilers from the car and hid them in some brush. The following Monday Weatherwalk asserted he and his companion took some of the loot to a second hand store in Altoona, where Weatherwalk asserted that he and his companion sold 36 pairs of shoes for $25. He asserted he kept two wash boilers and gave one to a friend. He kept one pair of shoes and the remaining seven pairs were kept by his accomplice.

DOG DAYS AND THE FEDERATION OF LABOR

The summer doldrums are with us again. All over the United States the hot, muggy weather hits everybody, falling on the just and the unjust alike.

But the effects aren't the same everywhere, nor do all people react alike. The AFL Executive Council and President Green, for example—they take it one way.

The CIO takes it another way. The AFL Executive Council, and President Green, have been doing some peculiar things during the current dog days. They have been trying their level best, apparently, to injure their own organizations in their zeal of hatred for the CIO.

The CIO is renewing contracts, extending its organization, chartering new locals in every field, meeting in lively, progressive conventions in a score of industries and industrial communities.

The CIO is going ahead. The AFL Executive Council is determinedly striving to push the labor movement back. Maybe it's the weather, but the same humidity falls on the CIO and on the AFL Executive Council alike. It's just the reaction that's different.

STATE DEADLINES HAVE AN EUROPEAN FLAVOR

Pennsylvania communities could have a crisis of their own without changing the datelines from European war danger points.

Within the state are Berlin in Somerset county, Dublin in Bucks, Freeport (Danzig) in Armstrong, Geneva in Crawford, London in Mercer, Moscow in Lackawanna, Paris in Washington, Rome in Bradford, Vienna in Washington, Versailles in Allegheny, and Washington in its namesake county.

TOURIST SAYS SIGN BOARDS HIDE SCENERY

Harrisburg.—Billboards along the highways of Pennsylvania have drawn the ire of a Washington, D. C., motorist, who complained to I. Lamont Hughes, secretary of highways, that she was unable to enjoy the scenery in the vicinity of Delaware Water Gap, because of signs.

"I have always wanted to see the Delaware Water Gap," she wrote Secretary Hughes, "and this summer took a trip there to be greeted by sign boards so large and so close together that I came away without seeing the Gap except from the back. The State of Pennsylvania is certainly short sighted in allowing its beauties of nature to be treated in such a way. I shall probably never try to see the Water Gap again, but I do think the Road Commission should do something

Neck and Neck Finish Can't Be Avoided

Something new, even for California, is this ostrich race in which the world's largest birds pull sulkies, something similar to those used in trotting horse races. Nothing was said about the supposed tendency of the ostrich to bury its head during a stubborn mood—perhaps allowances are made.

The highway department has no jurisdiction over signs except within its right of way. Orders have been issued for the removal of all illegal signs within the right of way of the Department and thousands already have been removed.
