GLORIA JEAN IDEAL AS 'THE UNDER-PUP' AT GRAND THEATRE

There's a great double bill ahead for theatre goers at the Grand theatre in Patton on Friday and Saturday of this week, the first picture being Tim McCoy in the best western he has ever made, "The Texas Wildcat." But in the second feature is there a thrill for you?

A new motion picture star, possessing a remarkable singing voice and a personality at once war-mand refreshing is born in Universal's "The Under-Pup". She is Gloria Jean, an eleven year old whose coloratura voice and natural appeal dominate a picture replete with romantic comedy and musical surprises. Gloria is by no means the whole show, however, nor is she the sole newcomer. One of the year's longest casts has been gathered, and all deliver in impressive style. This is the picture that has gained such wide recognition. Gloria Jean, by the way, is a Scranton miss. You will want to see her first film.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY LEN DE CAUX.

One thing that all humanity has in common is limited stomach capacity. With every aid to digestion, the richest potentate cannot stow away much more food than the lowest paid laborer. On the contrary, the needs and capacity of any hard working man should give him a decided edge over the average dyspeptic millionaire, so far as appetite is concerned.

Yet recent statistics show that, whereas, it takes $2,000 a year to fill the stomachs of one small group of Americans, there are some 13 million other families and individuals who have to get by on only $236 a year for food.

The figures are taken from the recent report of the National Resources Planning Board on consumer expenditures.

The report shows that one-third of the population of the United States have not enough income to cover food, clothing and shelter at even the most miserably level.

These millions of Americans had to go into debt to cover their barest family living costs of $563 on an average, in the year 1935-36, since their total income averaged only $471.

In contrast a small group of 178,000 wealthy Americans had nearly as much consumer income as all of the 13 million families and individuals in the lowest income group.

Such conditions are contrary to American principles of equality of opportunity. They deny to millions of Americans their full right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The organizations which are doing most to combat these un-American and subversive conditions are the great labor unions which make up the CIO.

The CIO unions have not restricted themselves to representing the higher-skilled and better paid. They have set out also to better the conditions of millions of the lowest paid workers, to make this country worth living in for all.

The Americanism of the CIO is not confined to flag waving oratory. It is patriotism in action, the patriotism of solid and continuous contribution to the welfare of our country and the people who dwell in it.

The proposal of American shipowners to have their vessels sail under foreign flags, with foreign crews, to get around the neutrality legislation, is one that must cause much reflection on the questions of patriotism, profit and equality of treatment under the law.

American seamen are not covered under the Social Security Act. They have no unemployment compensation coming to them when they are laid off.

Yet they interposed no objection to neutrality legislation which Congress deemed necessary in the national interest, though it would mean loss of jobs for them up to 10,000. All they asked was fair and equal treatment under the law, and that the Maritime Commission cease aiding anti-union shipowners to beat down their conditions.

But when the Commission apparently approves a plan to give their jobs to foreign seamen, in order that the shipowners may continue to rake in the full profits of war, it is getting a bit too thick.

Good News from Detroit.

The election of Edward J. Jefferies as mayor of Detroit is a resounding rebuke by the voters of that city to the tactics employed by Richard W. Reading, the anti-CIO mayor, who was running for re-election.

Reading devoted the closing days of his campaign largely to attacking the CIO and to urging people to vote against Jefferies because he was supported by the CIO.

Progressive labor has demonstrated its political power in Detroit, to the great encouragement of the progressive forces generally throughout the country.

Detroit should also provide a lesson for all candidates in coming elections, that labor baiting tactics are one of the most effective methods of inviting political defeat.
