

'TOM, DICK, AND HARRY'
NEW LAUGH-LADEN ROLE

Ginger Rogers' New Picture Delightful Romantic Comedy; Presents Star in Sparkling Role

Her first picture since winning the Academy Award for the best actress of 1940 with her brilliant portrayal of the title role in "Kitty Foyle," Ginger Rogers will be seen in "Tom, Dick, and Harry" which is scheduled for a showing at the Grand Theatre in Patton Friday and Saturday. George Murphy, Alan Marshal and Burgess Meredith, three of Hollywood's foremost leading men, enact the roles indicated by the title.

Directed by Guyson Kanin the current film is described as a romantic comedy generously sprinkled with fantasy and hilarious situations.

Ginger is cast as a highly imaginative telephone operator, who believes it is just as easy for a working girl to marry a rich man as a man in her own financial class. She has gone steady with George Murphy, a five-wire salesman, for three years, and one night under the spell of his enthusiasm, Ginger accepts his proposal for marriage.

But Ginger harbors a secret passion. He is the son of the town's richest man, and he sports a swanky car. Although she has never seen him, she has heard his suave voice over the switchboard telephone. And when she sees his expensive car drive up to the curb one night, she impulsively jumps in it, to the astonishment of the handsome driver. Thrilled beyond words, she accepts the young man's proffer of a date for the evening.

It is not until she has kept the en-agement that Ginger learns the driver, Burgess Meredith, is merely a garage mechanic who was driving the young man's machine. But he proves to be charming, if broke, and she is intrigued by his happy-go-lucky philosophy of life. Before the evening is over they are engaged.

It is inevitable that Ginger finally meets her secret passion, Alan Marshal, the rich socialite, who gives her the thrill of her life. In no time at all they, too, become affianced.

How the impressionable young lady manages to extricate herself from her romantic dilemma, is said to lead to the delightfully amusing surprise-climax of the story.

Johnstown Quota Club to Present Kryl and Orchestra

For the third successive year the Johnstown Quota Club has engaged a group of musicians for a public concert in that city. The Johnstown women's service group will sponsor the appearance of Bohumir Kryl and his symphony orchestra of 50 pieces October 9 in the Cochran Junior High School Auditorium.

Miss Claire Westerman, president, has announced that the Quota Club again apply the proceeds of the concert to a fund used to promote the welfare program of the organization. Deserving girls nine to 14 years old are sent to summer camps each year through funds raised by the club. The group provides camp clothing needed by the girls, pays for medical examinations, and furnishes transportation to and from the camp.

U. S. Cruiser Prepared for Launching

The U.S.S. Atlanta is prepared for launching at Federal Shipbuilding yard at Kearny, N. J. Launching was postponed because of recent strikes at the yards, but work was completed under navy supervision after the navy took over the yards. The Atlanta is a 6,000-ton cruiser, with a designed speed of more than 35 knots.

The tools for electric living are easy to acquire. Then, too, some of them actually pay for themselves in money saved . . . an electric refrigerator, an electric washer, and an electric ironer for example. And wherever time is money, any electric appliance more than pays its way.

How does your home rate electrically? If it isn't 100%, it will pay you to look into the various plans under which you may bring it up to par.

Phil Baker in his new Broadway show said he will feature a song on how to have a good time in a parked car. The song is titled "Thanks for a lovely evening, Mr. Ickes."

POLITICAL DYNAMITE

There was real political dynamite behind that letter President Roosevelt sent the Young Democrats convention in Louisville blasting Democratic isolationists as "obstructionists who are in the wrong party."

The scorching attack was a tip-off on undercover plans which may make next year's congressional elections the hottest in years.

Nothing has been said about it, but certain administration and Republican leaders have discussed uniting Democratic and Republican forces to oppose all congressional isolationists regardless of party label.

Under the proposed plan, Administration-G.O.P. backing would be thrown behind incumbent anti-isolationist congressmen whether they are Democrats or Republicans. Furthermore strong coalition candidates would be entered against isolationist congressmen seeking reelection.

One of the most significant things about the plan is that it has the hearty approval of Wendell Wilkie. Discussing it with a group of friends the G.O.P. standard bearer declared, "The people should have the opportunity in every senatorial and congressional election next year for a clear-cut expression of opinion on this all-important issue of foreign policy. This referendum should not be cluttered up with phony or inconsequential issues."

"In districts represented by isolationists we should put the strongest candidate in the field we can get, regardless of his party label or economic views. I'd like to see young men and women brought into this campaign. Let's get away from the old political hacks. Let's bring youth into this fight. It's theirs primarily and they should be in the lead in it."

"Personally, I am prepared to support anti-isolationist candidates regardless of their party affiliation or economic views. If they are right on the foreign issue, then I will be for them and will take the stump for them."

SMASHED PLANES

President Roosevelt didn't announce it, but there were two big reasons why Pan American Airways is taking over the ferrying of airplanes across the South Atlantic up the interior of Africa to the Near East.

One reason has since been published, the need of American warplanes to help the British in Iran and their protest Russian oil fields in the Caucasus.

The other has not been published—namely that the British had been wrecking an extraordinarily large number of brand new planes in flying them across Africa.

As a matter of fact, unpleasant fact, the British have been losing about 20 per cent of the planes we have been giving them.

This was partly because the British did not use their own pilots, but Czech, French, Poles and Dutch. These aviators, sometimes too full of the gin, and sometimes not so well trained in the tough job of handling fast war planes, have succeeded in scattering the wrecks over the heart of Africa.

Furthermore, central Africa is one of the most uncharted and difficult flying areas in the world. The hop across the Atlantic has not caused the casualties. It is the remainder of the flight, from Freetown on the west African coast, up to Egypt.

This is why Roosevelt finally called upon Pan American Airways to take over the African hop. Two pilots have done a brilliant job of pioneering the jungles of the Amazon and the peaks of the Andes. And Roosevelt figured that if anyone could fly over Africa, Pan American could do it.

'AMERICA'S ANSWER'

The OPM is just releasing for wide distribution its first post promoting its drive for greater production. Entitled "America's Answer—Production!" it is a masterpiece of power and drama. It pictures a branny arm twisting a monkey wrench fastened to the letter "O"—shaped like a machine nut—in the word "Production."

The artist is Jean Karlu, as free a Frenchman as ever worked with one arm. He lost his right arm fighting for Democracy in the first World war and, until the fall of France, was doing an expert left-handed job painting posters for the French government.

Recently arrived in this country, Karlu wanted to continue his fight for a free France. He submitted his poster idea in sketch form and OPM officials snapped it up.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Taking a cue from the German Stuka dive bombers, U. S. army engineers have included a powerful siren in the midget M3 tanks. Its shrill shriek freezes green troops, and the army is counting on its scare power, at a 70-mile an hour speed, to make advance breaks through enemy lines.

NEWEST KILDARE STORY COMING TO GRAND SOON

"Dr. Kildare's Wedding Day" Next Wednesday and Thursday at the Patton Theatre

Tense drama mingling with comedy and romance in "Dr. Kildare's Wedding Day," latest in the Dr. Kildare series, which will be shown at Grand Theatre in Patton on Wednesday and Thursday of next week with Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore, Laraine Day, and Nils Asther as guest stars.

The mystery is furnished by Asther, playing a famous symphony conductor who discovers himself gradually becoming deaf from some unknown ailment. Ayres and Barrymore tackle the problem. During this action the youthful romance of the older physician is disclosed. He loved a beautiful girl, a musician, who died, leaving behind her life work, a symphony. In the dramatic climax this symphony is played by Asther's orchestra. The music used is "Tablani Ruse," a symphony composed by a number of American symphony orchestras.

The counterplot deals with tragedy that befalls the younger doctor and his rescue from the clasp of despond by the older medic.

SHEEP

Wool shorn from sheep in Pennsylvania this year totaled 2,084,000 pounds, according to reports from the State Department of Agriculture. The amount, however, represents a reduction in the wool crop as compared to last year when sheep from this state produced 2,943,000 pounds. The figure is also considerably below that of the previous 10-year average which shows an annual production of 3,143,000 pounds.
