CONGRESSMAN PUSHES JOB-AFTER-WAR PLAN

Washington.—Representative Augustine B. Kelly, (D.-Pa.), Saturday introduced a bill to provide that no member of the armed forces could, without his consent, be released from active duty following the war, without having first "secured or had secured" for him gainful employment civilian life.

The measure would cover members of the various women's auxiliaries as well as men.

CHILDREN MUST NOT BE ON STREETS IN AIR RAID DRILLS, S. C. D. ASSERTS

Children who are on the streets when an air raid warning is sounded should be directed by wardens or auxiliary police to proceed to shelter immediately, the State Council of Defense has emphasized.

During the "blue" period, children should be sent home if they live near at hand, or to a public shelter if they are too far from home.

If they are found on the street during the "red" alarm, the period when enemy planes are overhead, they should be sent to the nearest shelter and detained there until the all clear, when their parents should be summoned to take them home.

INDUCTION FURLOUGH PERIOD THREE WEEKS

Men entering the armed forces during July and August will receive furloughs of three weeks instead of two immediately after induction, state selective headquarters has announced.

The three week furloughs, designed to give married men more time to arrange personal affairs, will be inaugurated on a staggered schedule, with that of the Altoona Induction Center becoming effective on August 16th.

OPA PLANS RATIONING OF COAL NEXT WINTER

Officials at Washington claim that the OPA is working on a plan to ration coal next winter.

An OPA spokesman said that such a plan was under consideration before the mine crisis, which has nothing to do with the plan.

If such a program develops, he said, it will affect the sale of bituminous coal, used in war industries, and anthracite, used for domestic heating.

cent examination was larger than cent examination, was larger than previously was believed, and that a rather severe system of control, particularly for soft coal, seems necessary.

NEW SUB-MACHIN EGUN IN MASS PRODUCTION

The War Department has disclosed that a new sub-machine gun, small enough to be carried in an ordinary brief case, is now in mass production.

Known officially as the M-3 sub-machine gun, the new .45 calibre weapon weighs less than nine pounds as compared to the 12-pound "Tommy gun." It is capable of firing 450 shots per minute.

The new gun is of all metal construction and has a collapsible metal stock instead of a wooden stock. When the gun is in a closed position its length is only 22 inches.

INCREASED INTEREST IN RABBIT RAISING

Add rabbits to chickens for more meat next winter.

A lively interest in backyard rabbit raising has led the Pennsylvania State College to offer for the first time a correspondence course in rabbit breeding, according to Professor W. R. White, in charge of agricultural extension correspondence courses.

The course covers breeding, housing, feeding, slaughtering, marketing and treatment of diseases.
