

NEW HYGIENE ACT BARS THE CANINES FROM RESTAURANTS

Customers of Pennsylvania's eating and drinking places will have to leave their dogs outside when patronizing such establishments under new restaurant hygiene regulations approved by the state advisory health board last week. Acting to implement the commonwealth's new hygiene law, the board also laid down these other regulations food and drink dispensers must meet before licenses will be issued to them:

No sawdust as floor covering except as an adjunct to sweeping; all places where food is prepared walls must be of light color; all places where dishes are washed, walls must be smooth up to the level of splash; all water must be safe and come from a source approved by the secretary of health. Oysters and clams in the half shell must be served in the original shells.

The board also barred the use of utensils of cadmium, lead or zinc in the preparation of food and ruled glassware must be free from chips, cracks or breaks. Garbage must be kept in separate watertight and flytight containers which must be washed inside and out each day. Where garbage chutes are used they must be impervious to seepage or leakage and be so constructed that they can be cleaned every day.

The rule against any animals inside restaurants was modified to exclude sight-seeing dogs belonging to blind persons.

Dr. J. Moore Campden, deputy health secretary, who announced the board's action, said the new regulations will also apply to itinerant restaurants such as company circuses and carnivals and they will have the force of law as soon as they have been promulgated by publication and copies have been sent to all boards of health.

The board also ordered all municipalities except Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, to send copies of reports of inspections for the purpose of licensing eating and drinking places to the State Health Department within 24 hours of the inspections.

Inspections, necessary before licenses will be issued, will be required every three months and must include bacterial tests of utensils.

HOUSEWIVES URGED TO START AT ONCE ON PEACH CANNING

Housewives will have to start home canning peaches early this year if they want an adequate supply of this fruit next winter, the nation's leading food distributor said this week.

Stressing the government warning that commercial pack of canned fruit available to civilians this year will be no greater than last year's limited supply, Mr. O. H. Weinert, vice president of the A. & P. Food store in this area, also pointed out that the heavy supply of the fruit this season would come from the South.

"Housewives should not wait this year for the late crop," he said, "and orchards in those states, with the exception of Illinois, were hard hit by severe spring frosts. However, the South has a bumper crop that is now coming to market and should reach its peak in about a week or ten days. The quality of the fruit is excellent and suitable for home canning with the use of a minimum amount of sugar."

Pointing out that home canning suggestions are now part of his company's established consumer information service, Mr. Weinert said A. & P. is telling housewives, through newspaper advertisements when supplies of any fruit or vegetable reach market in sufficient quantity for home canning. In addition, the company is also distributing free leaflets through its stores on approved canning methods. Included in the information on peaches are suggestions on the minimum amount of sugar needed for canning, also sugar substitutes.

NEW MUSICAL SPARKLES WITH SONG HITS

Mack Gordon and Harry Warren, Hollywood's top tune team, have written the best score of their careers for "Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe," the spectacular new 20th Century-Fox Technicolor musical, showing Friday and Saturday, July 6 and 7 at the Grand Theatre. The brilliant hit stars Betty Grable and Dick Haymes with an outstanding featured cast.

In the musical number "Acapulco," a Mexican fantasy, she sings the catchy tune and is at her most eye-filling best in the routine created for her by Hermes Pan. The excellent songs which Mack Gordon and Harry Warren have composed for Dick Haymes give him full opportunity to secure his newly won position in the zenith of screen stardom. He introduces two love songs—"I Wish I Knew" and "The More I See You"—that have every promise of hitting the top of the hit parade.

"Cooking Up A Show," gives William Gaxton, long-time Broadway idol, a chance for his inimitable interpretation. For the song, "The Old And The New," Beatrice Kay, Billy Rose's "Gay Nineties Girl," matches her Victorian numbers against Betty Grable's swing tunes. Betty sings to the accompaniment of Carmen Cavallaro, latest musical rage.

HIGHWAY BIDS

Harrisburg—The Pennsylvania Department of Highways will receive bids for nine highway improvement projects, totaling 12,550 miles, on Tuesday, July 10, Secretary John W. Shroyer announced today.

ALL TIRE DEALERS MUST REGISTER

"All tire dealers must register with OPA between July 1st and July 10th, 1945," OPA District Director Paul T. Winter of the Altoona District Office of Price Administration today reminded the trade. Any dealer who fails to register and report his June 30 inventory of tires and Parts B, is prohibited from transferring rationed tires after July 10th.

The registration requirement, Mr. Winter explained, "is part of the comprehensive OPA program designed to tighten controls over illegal transfer of tires and use of stolen and counterfeit certificates. The program will cover every level of tire trade, from manufacturer down through the retail dealer.

The appearance of increasing quantities of counterfeit and other illegal kinds of tire rationing certificates make it necessary for OPA to employ every available safeguard to conserve the civilian supply of tires in the critical months ahead," Mr. Winter said.

"While Army requirements continue at a high level, with the Pacific battlefront shifting toward the mainland of Asia, more and more of the civilian tires in use are approaching the end of their useful lives. Furthermore, we're now in the season when tire failures increase because of the hot weather. Civilian supply is still far short of the prospective requirements.

"The months ahead will provide a crucial test of whether we can keep essential wartime transportation rolling at home while we move vital war supplies to our fighting forces."

OBSERVANCE OF FARM SAFETY WEEK URGED

Harrisburg—Farmers of Pennsylvania were urged today by Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst to observe National Farm Safety Week, July 22-28, in an effort to reduce the approximately 8,000 accidents that annually occur on farms and in farm homes of the state.

Steering the observance of the second annual Farm Safety Week in Pennsylvania is the State Farm and Home Safety Committee of which Harrison S. Holt, Columbia, is chairman. Through the efforts of this committee various statewide and local farm organizations have requested their members to participate. The principal objective of the 1945 Pennsylvania program are to urge farm people to observe safety measures 52 weeks of the year and to teach them to recognize, guard against and eliminate the possibility of accidents.

In addition to the many other skills that farmers must have in order to operate a farm, the Secretary said that every farmer must be his own safety engineer. Most accidents on the farm occur in or about the home, and are largely from falls due principally to insecure footing and poor visibility. On the farm, machinery accidents are the most numerous. Most of these could be prevented by observing ordinary rules of "safety first," the Secretary declared.

Time for Late Planting.

Some root crops and sweet corn can be seeded until July 1st, and snap beans till July 20th, explain extension vegetable specialists at the Pennsylvania State College for the benefit of late gardeners, or those practicing succession cropping.

Use Disease Free Plants.

For the control of mosaic, a virus disease which hits both black and red raspberries, use only disease-free plants, and rogue out and burn all diseased steps, advises George Zundel, extension plant pathologist at the Pennsylvania State College.
