

HASTINGS MAN MAY GET LARGE AMOUNT IN OVERTIME WAGES

Strip Mine Operator Gets Fine of $1,500 for Submitting False Receipts

A $1,500 fine to a Pittsburgh coal stripping operator by a federal court in Pittsburgh last Friday was the result of failure to pay $1,307 in overtime to M. J. Holtz of Hastings.

The fine is one of the severest imposed in the district under the Fair Standards Act. Durhan A. McGraw, 29, of Pittsburgh, in the coal stripping business as McGraw and Bintlery near Hastings, is the defendant.

McGraw, who pleaded no defense, was charged by the Wage and Hour Division of the U. S. Department of Labor with submitting false receipts to the government to show that he had paid an employee overtime wages that he had not paid.

Subsequently when the false receipt was turned in and money was not paid Mr. Holtz, charges were filed.

"The man didn't want the money," McGraw told the court. "He was willing to work for straight pay and said he'd sign the receipt. I sent it in."

Edward C. Boyle, Assistant U. S. Attorney, suggested to the federal court that a fine be imposed and that restitution be made to Mr. Holtz.

"We would like to stop this practice in the area," Mr. Boyle stated. "It's not so much the size of the fine, but we want to defer violations."

Of the NEW CIVILIAN

During the past four years in our Armed Services "Young America" has literally grown up. Hence, it's common knowledge that most fellows couldn't wear their old "civvies" even if they wanted to! Besides when falling into brand new experiences in the business world, it's natural to want to begin with brand new clothes.

We have already solved the clothing problems of many of our returning G. I.'s to outfit them for a career, and we would be pleased to do the same for you.
