

GAP IS PROPOSED FOR TEMPORARY COLLEGE

Indianapolis Gap and the former Army reception station at New Cumberland may be used for temporary colleges.

Under the proposal made by the Governor of this state, ex-G. La. unable to enter the overcrowded colleges and universities, could go to schools there, operated either as extensions of present schools or as separate institutions.

State educators agree with Gov. Martin and have offered to serve on committees to determine whether the plan is feasible. It is estimated that between 10,000 and 12,000 students could be accommodated at the two installations.

Gov. Martin explained that for the most part, hundreds of buildings at Indianapolis have been vacated since the closing of the separation center there Mar. 1, leaving a comparatively few soldiers in the state-owned, U. S.-leased reservation, New Cumberland, owned by the government, still is a U. S. Army disciplinary barracks.

TIE-IN SALES BANNED BY PRICE ADMINISTRATOR

OPA District Director Frank J. Loftus of Philadelphia has stated that "tie-in sales are specifically prohibited on food, apparel, rent and most consumer goods."

The statement came as OPA offices moved to head off what is described as an "epidemic" of tie-in sales resulting from an incorrect interpretation of the U. S. Supreme Court ruling.

Loftus explained that many merchants seem to be under the impression that all prohibitions on tie-in sales have been lifted by the court ruling on the legality of compelling purchasers to buy unwanted goods as a condition for receiving scarce merchandise.

Legal action is planned against persons using tie-in sales to evade price ceilings.

AID TO NEEDY CHILDREN PLAN OF COLVER SCHOOL

A. W. Price, supervising principal of Colver Public School, has announced a "Bundle Day," set for next Monday, for collection of serviceable used clothing to be distributed by the Save the Children Federation to help children in disadvantaged rural districts of the Southern and Southwestern areas of this country and in five European countries.

Wearable clothes of all types and sizes, bedding and shoes are desired. Mr. Price asks that clothing contributors as part of the Fifth National Children's Clothing Crusade, sponsored by school superintendents, be clean and tears or weak spots mended, if possible.

NEW SHOE DEMANDS OUTWEIGH SUPPLIES

The demand for new shoes in this country is still larger than the supply, but it is expected that the situation will improve during the coming summer, according to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce.

Shoe leather will no doubt continue to be scarce, but it is reported that labor-management difficulties have improved. January shoe production amounted to 40,000,000 pairs, a 16.3 percent increase over the production in December.

MISS M'DONALD FINALLY PUT ON COUNTY PAYROLL

County Controller Elmer Davis Monday placed the name of Miss Mary McDonald of Ebensburg on the county payroll as a court stenographer.

NO PROGRESS IN MINE CONTRACT

health and welfare and safety proposals. "He said miners' committees "withdrew from the meeting until such time as the operators show evidence they are willing to meet and discuss these things which are just as important as the wages and hours."

The operators later issued a statement declaring Lewis "has refused to enter into any semblance of collective bargaining. Instead, he has engaged in the time-killing trivia with the obvious intent of stalling negotiations and creating a national crisis."

Lewis Hurls Many Charges
Lewis, before departing Wednesday night, made these charges against the operators:

"For four weeks we have sat with you; we attended when you fixed the hour; we departed when weariness affected your pleasure.

"Our effort to resolve mutual questions has been in vain; you have been intolerant of suggestions and impatient of analysis.

"When we sought surcease from bloodletting, you professed indifference; when we cried aloud for the safety of our numbers you answered—be content—'twas always thus!

"When we urged that you abate a stench you averred that your nostrils were not offended.

"Importance of Life
"When we emphasized the importance of life you pleaded the priority of profits; when we spoke of little children in unkept surroundings you said—look to the state!

"You aver that you own the mines; we suggest that, as yet, you do not own the people.

"You profess annoyance at our lack of public morality.

"You are smug in your complacency; you are ashamed of your shamelessness; you prate of your respectability; you are shocked at your lack of public morality.

"Scorn Toll of Miners
"You scorn the tolls, the abstinence and the perils of the miner; we withhold approval of your luxurious mode of life and the nights you spend in merriment.

"You invert the natural order of things and charge to the public the pleasures of your own indolence; we denounce the senseless cupidity
