CARD OF THANKS
We wish in this manner to thank all those who assisted us in any way in our recent bereavement, the illness and death of our son and brother, Cleophas Holtz, for the spiritual bouquets and use of cars at the funeral.

—Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Holtz and Family.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL
Charles Beckel of St. Boniface returned home Saturday from the Miners' Hospital, where he underwent an operation several days previous. His condition is good.

IS RESIDENT PHYSICIAN
Dr. B. L. Lovette of Spangler is now the new resident physician at the Memorial Hospital in Johnstown. His appointment was made recently.

Thrifty Turf Stifles Weeds
A sound management program which seeks to determine and correct the cause of thinning in turf to give weeds a start will promote healthy, vigorous growth of grass, keep down the weeds, and thus make weed eradication much less of a problem, say extension agronomists of Penn State College.

Take Care of Brood Mare
Well-balanced, clean rations, good pasture and lighter work for the brood mares as foaling time approaches will enhance chances for producing live foals. Livestock specialists suggest proper care rather than pampering for brood mares.

YOUR Health

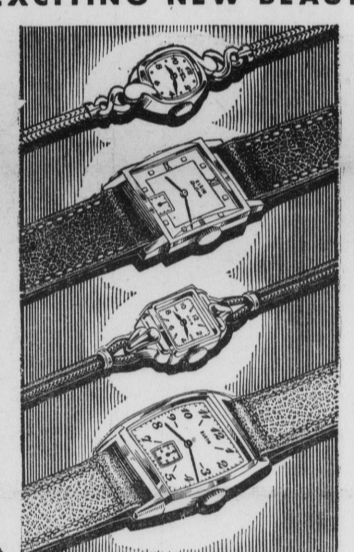

One million children in this country are suffering from some form of hearing defect. The totally deaf are not included in this figure. Medical authorities believe that half of these hard of hearing children can be improved by early detection and treatment.

A person may suffer up to a 40 percent hearing loss before it is observable. A child, therefore, may become seriously handicapped before anything is done to help him. Periodic hearing tests of school children are now required by law in 20 states. The hard-of-hearing child usually rates lower in leadership and is less aggressive than a child of normal hearing. He receives only partial benefits of oral classroom instruction and discussion.

He is capable of competing successfully with children of normal hearing only if given the proper help. However, he seldom receives any special instruction, whereas the totally deaf receive special instruction in institutions for the deaf. Children whose hearing impairment occurred at birth or in infancy will usually profit from special classes in lip reading. If speech defects come as a consequence of hearing impairment, the child should be trained in speech correction. Best results are obtained if corrective measures are given without concentrating the child's attention on his defect.
