Organization Candidates Win With Ease in Both Parties Statewide, Locally

In the Second Legislative District of Cambria County, present Assemblyman Michael C. Chervenak Jr. of Portage and Albert L. O'Connor of Loretto, and a newcomer, Lewis Evans of Colver, a well-known Colver Mine Board member, all with organization support, ran together in becoming the Democratic nominees.

Candidates for election as state committee and women in the county had no opposition. They are Geo. C. Hoppel Patton, and Madeline Buck, Gallitzin, Democrats; Walter R. Supper, Southmont, and Mrs. Gladys Evans, Ebensburg, are Republican nominees.

They have already secured permission from the Cambria County American Legion Recreation Committee, new owner of the grounds to use Building 8 to sponsor an exhibit patterned after the New York Sportsmen's Show.

The exhibit is to include representative types of local wildlife as well as animals from the western section of the United States. Four young wildcats and two coyotes already have been ordered, and efforts are being made to acquire a number of snakes.

To Stock Fish in Exhibit Plans have been made to construct a stream through one section of the building, the waters of which will be stocked with fish native to this area. Laurel and spruce will be arranged throughout to give the display an outdoors appearance.

Antique firearms and World War II souvenirs also will be featured at the handicraft of Ebensburg Boy Scouts.

At a meeting Thursday evening the AFL delegates to the organization asked for an extension of the OPA in its present form with no crippling amendment. They stated in part:

The OPA has controlled the cost of living in the United States during the war and saved us from a runaway inflation which would have destroyed the workingman's dollar and made all labor gains meaningless.

NEW SCOTT AIR PAK VIEWED BY COUNCIL

The Joseph A. Holmes Safety Council meeting at Barnesboro last week was the scene of demonstration of the new Scott Air Pak, a breathing apparatus which uses filtered compressed air.

The device, which may prove invaluable in rescue work, is now before the U. S. Bureau of Mines for approval.

Dennis J. Keenan, 15th Bituminous District mine inspector, spoke on precautionary work that should be taken before men enter the pits after a prolonged idle period.

Whether or Not Miners Return to Work in This Area Is Problematical

The U. S. Government seized the soft coal mines on Tuesday, but has no immediate assurances that the miners will continue to work on Saturday. In fact, in this section only a few of the miners have gone back to work at all.

Voicing the traditional "no contract, no work" sentiment, UMW locals in this area have indicated they will wait word from President John L. Lewis before returning to the pits which they left eight weeks ago.

James Mark, District 2 United Mine Workers president, has withdrawn his ultimatum on the government seizure of the mine due to lack of notification of the move.

It is customary for local unions to call special sessions to map plans for future action when there is an announcement like this, and some meetings already have been scheduled.

Says Conditions Look Black The sharpest reclamation in the new development, came Tuesday night when Mike Honus, secretary-treasurer of District 4, in Pittsburgh, said: "If the government looks over its shoulder and awakes orders from Lewis and will not act otherwise. Conditions in the coal region look mighty black."

The official seizure of the mines by the government came at 1:01 a. m. on Wednesday. It was the third time district mines have been taken over by the government since 1943.

Several locals have stated that they will await reports on the full terms of any agreement made between the government and Lewis before returning to the pits.

Memorial Day Services in Carrolltown next Thursday will begin with a high mass for the deceased war veterans of the area at 9 a. m. in St. Benedict's Catholic Church.

The band and fire co. then will return the children to their schools and the band will go to Fairview Cemetery in the school bus.

The officials of the Community Assn. of the Carrolls have announced that the public meeting of that group originally scheduled for Friday last week will be held this Thursday evening, May 23, at 8:30 p. m. (DST). The meeting will be held in the Municipal Bldg. in Carrolltown.

The purpose of this meeting will be the nominating of permanent officers and a board of directors for the organization.
