Roger Godfrey of Middletown, Pa., an employe of the U. S. Govt. on the Ohio River, has been a frequent visitor at the home of his father, Michael Godfrey, who has been critically ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Herbel were out-of-towners last Thursday evening.

It's a pretty ticklish proposition for Ann Sheridan, having her new leading man, Kent Smith, tickle her tummy, in his doctor's role and the peals of Sheridan laughter resounded on the set of "Nora Prentiss," the new Warner Bros. melodrama in which they are starred with Bruce Bennett, coming to the Grand Theater on Sunday and Monday.

Miss Sheridan, plays a nightclub singer, victim of a traffic accident outside of "Dr." Smith's office.

Kent, enacting a heart-specialist, with all professional aplomb and dignity, conducts a cursory examination of the beautiful Sheridan as she lies on the examining table in his office, where she's been brought.

"Any pain here?" he inquires, pressing a spot on her tummy, in a manner approved by the film's technical advisor, Dr. Paul M. MacWilliams, medical director of the studio, who stands by during the scene.

She shakes her head negatively, until a further probe brings out another outburst of laughter from Ann.

"Is that sensitive?" inquires Smith, seriously.

"No," giggles La Sheridan. "Just ticklish."

Reade Twp. Play Set Friday, Apr. 25

Play rehearsal is the order of the day at present among the students of the Senior Class of Reade Twp. High School.
