Rural Expansion Planned by Penelec

Over a million dollars has been allocated for the extension of the rural electric lines of the Pennsylvania Electric Co., according to a recent announcement by the company. Under the plan, during 1947 approximately 3,500 new customers will be served. Penelec's president, D. W. Jardine states that the company has earmarked $10,000,000 for construction this year and declares that about $400,000 will be spent in the construction of a new generating station and substation at Warren, Pa. The company has constructed 140 miles of rural lines during the past two years in the Southern Division, which takes in the local area. These lines serve 1,243 customers. And since 1944, Penelec has purchased 28 privately-owned distribution systems in coal mining towns in the Central and Southern Divisions.

Fred Soisson Jr. Plans to Be Priest

Although he displays some of the skill of his father in handling firearms, Fred Soisson, Jr., of Hastings, has made other honors for himself. Last week he was graduated with highest honors from St. Vincent's Preparatory School at Latrobe, leading his class for four years. He was awarded a gold medal at the commencement exercises. He is a member of the National Penn and Scroll Society and won membership for two years in the National Honor Society. He also served on the editorial staff and was assistant business manager of the prep school yearbook. Oldest of a family of seven, the young gentleman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Soisson of Hastings. Mr. Soisson is nationally-known for his expert marksmanship. Fred Jr. has been developing the skill of his father, and over the last week end took part with his father in a father-son shoot at Lancaster, Pa. But this is only a hobby as far as the younger Soisson is concerned. His ambition is to be a Benedictine priest. Next fall he will return to St. Vincent's to continue studies in preparation to entering the monastery. Officials at St. Vincent's have termed the lad as an outstanding boy. He excels not only in scholastic achievements, but has been a leader in all boyhood endeavors. He is a charter member of Boy Scout Troop 73, sponsored by St. Bernard's Church, Hastings.
