

Reservations Open For July Retreats

One Scheduled at St. Francis This Week End

Requests for reservations at the five sessions of the laymen's retreats this summer have not yet filled all space allotted. The Rev. John Joseph Welsh, T. O. R., director, has announced that there are a few vacant places for the first and third retreats. The former is scheduled for July 11 to 14, while the latter is on July 25 to 29. More space is available for the second, fourth and fifth retreats. Those desiring to make reservations are asked to write immediately to Father Welsh at Loretto, Pa., to make sure places are set aside. A $15 fee must accompany each reservation.

The Rev. Winifred McDermott, C. P., will come to conduct the five retreats this summer. He has had fifteen years experience in this work. Operating out of the Passionist Monastery at West Springfield, Mass., Father McDermott has been a retreat-master in Boston, Springfield and New York City areas.

His retreat work has included all types of laymen among the professional and labor groups. In addition, he has conducted clergy retreats throughout many of the dioceses in the eastern states. Besides retreats, Father McDermott has conducted parish missions in Massachusetts and New York states.

Northern Cambria May Get Golf Course

Cambria Co. Club Has Such Included in Plans

Northern Cambria Co. soon may have a golf course located within its confines, according to an announcement made by Fred McCann of Patton, president of the newly-formed Cambria Co. Club, located on the new road between Carrolltown and Ebensburg. The club at present is seeking a charter from the courts. It is reached by turning in near the Sterling Gasoline Station, a short distance south of the intersection of Route 219 and the road to Colver. Clubhouse facilities also are planned along with a seven-hole course. Tennis courts and a riding stable also are included in present plans.

The organization will be on a non-stock and non-profit basis. It lists assets as $300. Besides Mr. McCann, other officers are Robert Evans, Ebensburg, vice president; Peter J. Culliton, Johnstown, secretary-treasurer; John McCool, Ebensburg, and Stanley Azar and Harry Bowser, Johnstown, trustees.

Hi-Way Theatre Lists Stellar Star

The Green Tree Players, this week nightly present "Pursuit of Happiness" at the Hi-Way Summer Theatre in the Ebensburg-Cambria School Auditorium, Ebensburg. The many folks of this section who last week saw the presentation of "Dear Ruth" at this location, will surely want to see the second week's offering.

"The Pursuit of Happiness" is an American romantic comedy. It was produced with great success at the Avon Theatre, New York. It centers around the quaint old custom of building and is a romantic comedy with an American Revolution background. It is an intelligent commentary on American ideals and institutions.

Miss Sarah Kauch, who has been in the theatre for the past twenty years, will be featured in next week's production of the Green Tree Players, "Outward Bound."

She will play the role of Mrs. Clivedon Banks. She has played such parts as Krazhnya in "The Lower Depths," Marthy Owen in "Anna Christie," Mrs. Gardner in "Pride and Prejudice," Amelia Newcombe in "The Late George Appley," Aunt Kate Barnaby in "Personal Appearance" and Katherine in "Arms and the Man."

A regular matinee of these fine plays is given each Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 daylight time, and evening performances are started at 8:30 daylight time.

351 District Deaths Are Investigated In Co. In 6 Months

The Cambria Co. Coroners' Office investigated a total of 351 deaths—68 of them resulting from violent causes—during the first six months of 1947, according to a report from Coroner Paul Willis. Of the violent deaths, mine accidents led with 10. There were nine suicides. A total of 282 were from natural causes.

Other deaths were listed as: County traffic fatalities, eight; falls at home, seven; city traffic fatalities, six; industrial accidents, five; railroad accidents, three; airplane accidents, ephyxiation, burns, coasting, murder, suffocation, accidents while at work, and deaths resulting from traffic accidents outside Cambria Co., two each; carbon monoxide, exposure, homicide, electrocution, and fall in public building, one each.

Sixty-four deaths were investigated during June, with 51 of these reported resulting from natural causes. Other causes were: Mine accidents, two; industrial accidents, three; burns, one; fall at home, one; murder, one; suicide, one; county traffic fatalities, two; railroad, one, and electrocution, one.

Do You Know?

The effect of tragic news abruptly told can be a severe shock to the nervous system. Mendelssohn, the composer, lost consciousness at news of his sister's death. He never regained his health and died six months later at the age of 38.
