Nimrods from Northern Cambria Co., as well as those in all parts of the state, are busy these days getting their firearms in tiptop shape in preparation for the opening of small game season on Saturday, Nov. 1—just a little over two weeks from today.

Hunting licenses have been or sale at the courthouse and at local establishments for some time now, and with sales being up to normal and the opening day being on a Saturday, a record number of hunters is expected to be in the woods and fields the first day.

Woodcock season already is in full swing, having opened Friday, and will continue until Oct. 24. Hunters are allowed to bag four woodcock and 10 doves a daywith shooting hours from a half-hour before sunrise to sunset.

The question of how many rabbits and pheasants there are in the woods still is an unanswered one. However, state game authorities say that the numbers of small game throughout the state this year are not as high as in former years. However, they predict that hunting in Pennsylvania will be as good "as can be found anywhere on the continent."

When this world shall be ready, bother, Will your soul be ready, brother, Will you enter Heaven's door?
You will have no great attorney. To prepare and plead your case. There will be no time of recess, will you sould be no more, Will you ready and ready in the colled your sould for earthly treasures. Your redemption's price won't your your gudge, the Lord Almighty, on that final Judgment Day.
