

Hastings First-Aid Meet Honors Won By Penelec Team

David Harford, John J. Kruk, Harold Skavang and Bernard A. Hoover.

The second place Beaverdale team was composed of Edward Frank, captain; Richard Stagers, Stanley Belinda, Ross Hart, Matt Jeremias, Edward Roberts and Lester Bateman.

Members of the third place team from Marsteller were Warren Good, captain; James Laird, Joe Pesarchick, Peter Ladko, Walter Weakland and Mike Sherey. Marsteller also won the Tenth District honors, and in Dennis Keenan's Fifteenth District, the Barnes and Tucker No. 15 mine, Barnesboro, were winners.

A total of 38 teams from the districts of the State Department of mines in Central Pennsylvania participated in the affair. Mine rescue and first-aid teams were commended highly by state and mine officials for the outstanding work they performed at their respective operations and while under the heavy strain of competitive events.

Secretary Maize said he was happy to see such a great interest in mine safety work. He told the rescue squads they were very well trained for the difficult tasks they must perform deep under the ground when accidents occur.

Charles O'Neill, New York, the head of the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers' Assn., declared the operators are as much interested in first aid and safety work as the workers. He said operators are offering additional opportunities to young men by setting up mining classes in colleges. He cited the course at St. Francis Col-

Hoover, Carrolltown district; Earl Karheim, chairman, and M. W. Nedmyer, Beaver Valley district; Morris McNulty, chairman, and E. K. Ryan, St. Augustine district; Francis Zahner, chairman, and Gerald Hite, Chest Springs district; E. J. Farabaugh, chairman, and Frank Noel, Loretto district; Edward Jones, chairman and Irvin Brown, Wilmore district; John Pryce, chairman, John Bloom, district temporary director, and Harrison Jones, Ebensburg district; John Nealen, chairman, and Pius Kirsch, Nicktown district, and C. J. Beaser, chairman, and Aaron C. Leamer, Barnesboro district.

Local chairmen in nine districts have been elected by the stockholders in the districts to serve on the board of directors. The tenth director will be John P. Bloom of Ebensburg. According to the by-laws one-third of the Directors' terms expire yearly.

When an application was filed by Cambria County Farm Bureau for a charter from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, leaders indicated their desire to affiliate the Cambria organization with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, which serves as a purchasing, marketing and service agent for 27 similar local Farm Bureau organizations within the State.

Affiliation with the regional co-operative gives the local association the necessary purchasing, marketing contacts it needs to adequately serve its members and patrons but it does not affect the autonomy of the organization. Cambria County Farm Bureau will be fully controlled by farmers in Cambria County. More than 200 local farmers already have invested stock in the organization.

Ultimately, however, Cambria County Farm Bureau will become a part of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, thereby gaining a measure of control over this regional co-operative.

Many services made available in the areas where local Farm Bureau associations now operate have aided in participating farmers and their neighbors to gain greater measures of success in farming and have helped to raise the overall standards of living on the farms.

Membership in the organization is open to any farmer, regardless of race, creed or color. Cambria Farm Bureau will function in a truly democratic manner, according to its constitution and by-laws, now on file with the state.

Save Tractor Fuel
The average tractor can be adjusted to save one gallon of gasoline in ten, says C. H. Bingham, extension agricultural engineer of the Pennsylvania State College. This may mean 50 to 250 gallons of gasoline saved per tractor for the year. There are twice as many farm tractors in use now as in 1940.

Feed Sows Well
If fall litters are to be strong and well developed, the brood sows must be fed well during the last two months before farrowing. L. C. Madison, livestock specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, suggests some grain and animal protein to make a half to three-fourths pound gain each day.

Avoid Corn Injury
Too much 2, 4-D applied in the corn fields has made the corn brittle and subject to breakage from storms or during cultivation, reports G. H. Berggren, extension agronomist of the Pennsylvania State College, who urges use of recommended amounts.

WILL YOU PASS?
A New York teacher, annoyed with his clock-watching students, covered the clock with cardboard on which he lettered: "Time Will Pass. Will You?"

"I don't care for any mad-monster stuff. I just want something that smells nice."

Patton to Be Site '48 Fire Convention

Mrs. Whalen and Miss Glasser were unopposed. Mrs. Whalen has served as Patton fire chief for 17 years and Miss Glasser has been treasurer for the past 16 years.

Directors of the ladies' unit are Mrs. Bryant Bowser, Portage; Mrs. Simon Lantz, Spangler; and Mrs. P. J. Mash, Nanty-Glo.

Business Session Highlights
Excessive and often unnecessary speeding of fire trucks was a topic during the men's session. It was pointed out that drivers of fire trucks can break the law on the way to fires, but on return trips must observe all traffic regulations. Speakers were Harvey J. Mulligan of Patton and Ray Himes of Portage.

Mr. Himes and Oscar Zane of Richmond Twp. gave reports of the residential fire statistics and Mr. Zane reported on last year's state firemen's convention.

Over 600 delegates attended the annual banquet held Wednesday evening at St. Bernard's Church Hall, The Hastings High School. Guest speakers at the affair, led by the delegates, included the mayor of the town to the hall. The meal was prepared by the Hastings Fire Co.

Hastings auxiliary unit at the same time prepared and served a meal to more than 350 women at the Moose Hall.

Joint meetings of the Patton and Hastings fire departments were held Wednesday morning in the Hollywood Theatre, with Rev. J. Eldon Matlock, Hastings Methodist Church, presiding at the memorial address. The rolls of the deceased members of their groups were read by A. F. Baker and J. H. Himes, Patton, and Rev. Father More Herald, OSB, assistant pastor of St. Bernard's Church, also delivered an address.

What's Ahead For Young Men Of Draft Age?

Here is what's ahead for young men 19 through 25 who are called up under the new draft law.

Preinduction: Your draft board orders you to report to a joint Army-Navy-Air Force induction center. There you will receive a complete physical exam and classification test to see where you will best fit in the service. Afterward, you return home to await orders while the induction board notifies your draft board of the results. You pass, your draft board includes you in their list of draft eligibles.

Induction: When the Army has need of you, you will report at an Army induction station to get another "rapid" physical check. You and your fellow draftees then will be divided among the three services, according to quotas.

Processing: Upon arriving at an Army training center, you will be assigned to a barracks, receive another physical exam and be inoculated against certain diseases. Your physical defects will be corrected. You will complete the Army aptitude test, make out your pay allotment, take out insurance and make a will.

Classification and Assignment: Some will be sent to combat units in this country for basic training. Others will train at a training center. If you were in the service before, you escape this. After eight weeks of basic training, you may be assigned to an overseas post, sent to units in this country, or sent to school for specialized training.

We're All Peculiar In Some Way, Says Noted U. S. Author
Society is composed, not of "average" people but of people who are abnormal in one or more respects. So states Dr. Roger J. Williams in "The Reader's Digest," appraising the "deep seated" physiological differences that make each of us act, think and feel differently from everyone else." Dr. Williams is director of the Biochemical Institute, University of Texas. The article is condensed from his book, "The Human Frontier."

In such everyday sense reactions as taste, smell and the stimulus of color, wide differences between individuals have been demonstrated. Marked variations in reaction to drugs are known to exist. Sleep requirements vary from "almost none" for some people to many hours daily for others.

Contending that such physical differences indicate a comparable range of variance in mental abilities, Dr. Williams says that humans cannot be justly classed as dumb or intelligent. Each human mind is a mixture of perhaps 300 distinct mental abilities and traits, any one of which may be possessed in high or low degree.

Idiot-savants, who are very weak in certain mental resources, very strong in others, are simply extreme instances of you and me. The author cites the unusual mechanical ability of one man who, by ordinary intelligence tests rated as a low-grade moron, arranged as a low-grade moron. Another, other feeble-minded individual was able to memorize the city telephone directory. Such an acknowledged genius, Albert Einstein was backward in arithmetic when in school and, as a child, unusually slow in learning to talk.

Educators have not sufficiently recognized these human variations, Dr. Williams believes. The importance of considering each as an individual with widely different aptitudes has been obscured in our school's mass-production methods of teaching.
