Carrolltown Children To Halloween Parade
Under the sponsorship of the Carrolltown Lions Club, Fox-Peale-Fost American Legion and the Carrolltown Fire Company, a masked parade for the children of the Carrolltown community will be held on the evening of Friday, October 23rd, and all children entering the event must be present at the Fire Hall at 6:15 on that evening. The parade will start at 7:15 sharp, and will traverse the streets, winding up at the Carrolltown High School Stadium, where the football game between the Altoona J. V.'s and the Carrolltown High School Mountaineers will be the attraction.

All children entering the parade will receive free candy and noisemakers, and in order to take part all children must be masked. Prizes for the best dressed entry will be $5.00 for first, $3.00 for second, $2.00 for third and five more prizes of $1.00 each. The same list of prizes will be awarded for the funniest dressed.

Judging of the parade will be held at half time at the Stadium and the Judges are as follows: Mrs. Ligouri Lacey, Mrs. W. E. Sharbaugh, Miss Ann Murphy, Mrs. Fred Fees and Mrs. John Emerick. Children of St. Benedict and Bakerton are cordially invited to take part in all festivities.

On Saturday, October 30, free movies will be shown for the children at the Carrolltown Fire Club.

The annual Halloween Party of the Auxiliary of the Carrolltown Fire Co. was held on Monday evening of this week in the Fire Hall, and the affair was in the form of a costume party.

Handkerchiefs, neckties, strips of shirt or rope can be used to tie up a splint.

Wrappings should be snug but not too tight, else they will shut off the blood supply.

If an arm or leg is broken, the splint should be long enough to extend all the way along the limb.

A wrist or hand fracture should be splinted in much the same way and splinted only as far as the elbow.

How to determine if the accident victim has a broken limb? A broken arm or leg hurts badly, and any attempt to move it causes pain.

The victim cannot lift his arm and it may appear crooked.

The splint, tied above and below the break, prevents the broken ends from moving.

A broken back is a much more serious condition and calls for the greatest care, else the injury may prove fatal.

The victim should be left until a stretcher or solid frame like a door is obtained and then he should be gently laid on this and an ambulance called, or if unavailable, a truck or some vehicle in which the stretcher may be placed.

It is much better to consider the possibilities of further injury to the victim of an accident than to rush him into a car.

YELLOW SCHOOL BUSES
The vehicle code of this state requires that all school buses must be painted orange, but in order to standardize the color, there has recently been selected a national school bus chrome, and half of the new buses in Pennsylvania are painted this yellow color.

Nature is consistent. She never makes an egotist without giving him plenty of tongue.

RED CROSS HOLDS CLINIC
Cambria Co. Red Cross chapter held a home service clinic last Tuesday at Ebensburg. Current financial assistance policies and provisions of government agencies for financial benefits were reviewed. Volunteer home service workers from the six branches of the chapter attended the session.

When to Plant
Spring, not fall, is the best time to plant strawberries in this state. So says J. U. Ruff, extension fruit specialist of the Pennsylvania State College.

Inventor Sweats Out Patent To Prevent Hat Band Stains

Right to Jaw Will Slash Throat With New Knife
Men no longer need tolerate sweat-stained hat bands, and children can learn the alphabet by working puzzles.

Trapped but living muskrats or beaver now may be strangled easily without being touched by human hands.

Elementary music teaching may be simplified with a wire-strung device on which colored notes can be slid back and forth in various compositions.

These are among the latest of wonders to be registered with the U. S. Patent office.

A Philadelphia man has invented a replaceable absorbent pads to be clipped onto a hat sweatband, and, if desired, to the inside of the crown.

New Yorker has come up with an alphabetical and numerical jig-saw puzzle. Sections to be cut out along dotted lines bear the letters of the alphabet and numerals up to 10. Idea is for you to cut them out for the children, who will then become familiar with the letters and numerals by properly reassembling the various pieces.

Killing a trapped, living animal without damaging its pelt is as easy as something of a chore. A Pennsylvania's answer is a pair of arc-shaped, spring-operated steel jaws on the end of a pole. Pressing the device against the animal's throat releases a trigger and the jaws choke off death.

The music-teaching device looks something like an abacus, has sliding notes. Its Illinois woman inventor arranged it so the lines are of one color, spaces of another. Notes of one color for each line or space slide into position on wires and detachable sharps and flats may be inserted as desired.

A versatile West Virginian has come up with a quick-killing field dagger and a new children's marble game.

The one-piece knife is stitched to the back of a combat gantlet with the blade projecting parallel with the user's fingers. The idea is that a good, low right hook, if executed correctly, could mean a deeply gashed throat.

Considerably more complicated the marble game somewhat involves rolling one marble on top of another with the aid of a long, grooved piece of wood. Object is to get the precarious marbles in two separate, cagily placed holes.

Yes—and a Louisiana woman has invented a handy little peashooter that slips right on the finger tip like a thimble.
