Individual Fines For Gambling Here Cost Less In '48

The cost of gambling fines is going down, as shown by records at Ebensburg during the past year—but arrests are up.

During 1948 the number of gambling arrests in the county was more than double the 1947 total, but the county's "take" in fines increased only about 2 1/2 percent.

cards, lice, and horseshoe bookies. This was more than 100 percent over the 56 cases in 1947. Ninety eight fines were imposed netting the county $9,360. In the cases where the same defendant was arrested twice for the same offense, the court fined him on one charge and suspended sentence in the other. This accounts for 20 cases in which no fines were imposed.

Personal Property Tax Forms Mailed By Co. Last Week

Tuesday, Feb. 15, is another tax deadline in Cambria County. Personal property returns must be filed with county commissioners by that date.

About 5,000 personal property return blanks were mailed out from the commissioners' office last Friday. The blank forms also may be obtained at the courthouse or from any borough, township or ward assessor.

Every person in the county who owns taxable personal property is required to make a return. Such property includes mortgages, stocks, bonds, promissory notes, judgments, articles of agreement and similar investments. Government bonds, postal savings and savings accounts are excluded from the taxable list. Likewise, stocks or bonds held in Pennsylvania corporations that pay a five-mill tax to the state are not taxable by the county.

The return blanks provide a space for owners to list any holdings about which they are in any doubt regarding whether it is taxable. If not taxable, they will be excluded when the returns are checked in the commissioners office.

The four-mill tax on personal property netted the county $43,809 last year.

Owners of taxable personal property were reminded that the law prescribes penalties for any person who willfully fails or refuses to file a return containing the required information. Failure to make a return calls for a penalty of a fine up to $500, a jail sentence of not more than six months or both.
