Rust Stains On Cloth Removed By Oxalic 'cid

Rust stains on cotton dish towels are a nuisance, but they can be removed with a 5-percent solution of oxalic acid. The acid is poisonous and should be stored out of children's reach.

The stains should be soaked in the oxalic acid at least 15 minutes. Two thorough rinsings in clear, warm water should follow and then a third rinse, adding a few drops of household ammonia. The same method will remove rust stains from any colorfast, washable fabric.

FACTORY EMPLOYMENT DROPS

During January the number of workers employed in Pennsylvania factories fell 1 per cent. This followed two months of recovery from the steel strike. Biggest employment gains of any area in Pennsylvania were chalked up by Altoona, where activity in railroad repair shops boosted the total number of workers by 35 per cent. Johnstown, on the other hand, showed the effects of the coal strike by a 6 per cent drop in factory employment. Other outstanding changes were in the Pottsville area with a 5 per cent decline, and the York-Adams area with a 5 per cent gain.

An Important Message from General Marshall

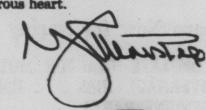

A STRONG RED CROSS means a stronger America.

With its host of volunteers the Red Cross brings relief to the victims of disaster . . . gives comfort to the hospitalized soldier and veteran . . . helps relieve the anxieties of the serviceman and his family ... provides, in many communities, life-giving blood to the sick and injured.

Each year the millions who need help and the millions who want to help are brought together through the Red Cross.

This voluntary effort in behalf of our neighbors strengthens the fibres of democracy.

So I ask you to respond to the call for help this year as you have always responded before—with a kind and generous heart.

You, too, can help through Your RED CROSS GIVE NOW!
