The endeavor of the Union Press-Courier is to sincerely represent Organized Labar in all efforts to obtain economic freedom. Material for publication must be signed by the writer as an evidence of good faith.

The Union Press-Courier gives its advertisers the advantage of combined circulations of two largely-circulated weeklies and has a reader coverage that blankets Patton and all major mining towns in Northern Cambria County.

Industrial Committee On Ball

Patton is still seeking new industry to locate within its confines. and although the work going on does not appear on the surface, a report of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee head, "Chick" Welty, that his group during last month alone made over 80 contacts with various firms who are seeking to expand their facilities and contemplating moving into this section.

Recently the group received encouraging information from a well-established shoe manufacturer located near Lancaster that he was going to expand and might consider Patton as a site for a factory employing around 200 persons. Both personal and written contact were kept with the owner of the firm and the ted got wise, too, and agreed to expand the shoe firm's plant there at considerable cost to the populace. So the owner took them up on the deal.

The problem the smaller community has in enticing industry is made somewhat greater by the fact that a good percentage of the cities in the state are building up what might be called "suns, took and greater by the fact that a good percentage of the next funds to be used in the construction of plants and inducing new industries to locate there. One nearby city, for instance, is reported to have a goal of one million dollars by the end of this year in such a fund. Playments into it are voluntarily, of course, but each type of business, large or small stores, garages, beauty shops, or what have you, as well as professional.

The local Chamber of Commerce committee deserves a pat on the back for the work it is doing. At times it must get discouraged waiting for something concrete to break. But the moment it does, they'll be in there pitching. May that "break"

Not Uplifting Educationally

The quarterly sessions of criminal court in Cambria County are not the most wholesome for any witness, jury or audience. In fact, in recent years most of the cases that come to trial seem to be those of infractions of the moral code, and the testimony offered in many instances is such that makes even the most hardened, decent adult blush for shame. Few of the officeholders and court attaches who erty Spangler. Edward Mitchell, Mr. and M. are not required to be present at these hearings, attend them.

Yet, when a spicy, revolting sex case is tried before the courts of Cambria County, the seating capacity, the galleries, and even standing room is taken up. Folks from many sections of the county come to "see and hear" the principals, and seemingly take much delight in the smuttiest of testimony. The practice is all the more deplorable when the "audiences" display a much greater number of women visitors than men. And some of them come back day after day.

But even a more deplorable factor is indicated in that several vin Bakerton; Shirley Brown, But even a more deplorable factor is indicated in that several high schools throughout the county 'pick' criminal court time as the visiting period of their classes to come to the courthouse, jail, and other county establishments. During the March term of court-on one of the most stormy days of the past winter—Ebensburg was crowded with school buses, and with a couple of hundred high school students—boys and girls. It so happened that on the same day one of the most revolting sex cases to be tried in the court room was some time was in progress. Result was that the court room was crowded with these boys and girls—and, we presume, many of them crowded with these boys and girls—and, we presume, many of them MATERNITY

Of course it is all well and fine for the various school authorities to acquaint their high school students with the processes of the courts and the county government in general, but surely a great reform could be made if the periods set for such visits would be during the time of civil court trials. Even a murder would be during the time of civil court trials. Even a murder case is less impressionable on the youthful mind than some of the sloppy, obscene sex cases that must, by law, be tried in the courts of our land.

We feel certain that if some of he parents of the young men and young ladies attending high school actually knew the exact words they heard during the time they were in the courtroom last March, they would be embarassed beyond measure. There are many better ways to impart knowledge of the baser instincts of mankind. of which some people are afflicted, than by hearing the raw details

There'll Be No Fooling

There are so many things developing upon this globe of ours 15 that are demoralizing, and somehow or other, after having suffered the penalties of two recent wars, no one wants a third. But appar-Barnesboro, son, Apr. 15.

ently in time of peace we must prepare for war, and down at Wash-Mr. and Mrs. Paul Artley, Andrew ington such preparations are being blueprinted, if worst comes to worst. It means that Uncle Sam will have the power to tell you where and how long you would work, whether you could switch jobs, how much you'll be paid, where you would live, what you would for any worst. Lieb, Careat and wear, how you could travel, what you could do with your rolltown, son, Apr. 17.

in return, Uncle Sam would try to be generous. He would foot the bill if you shifted jobs, he'd see that your wages were adequate, he'd hold down your cost of living, he'd give you a sympathetic hearing if you felt you were mistreated, and he'd do all he could to protect you from the Russians. But he'd expect you to realize that it was total war.

War controls undoubtedly would control the labor market and sliminate non-essential jobs; cut civilian production 25 to 30 percent, at the outset; virtually eliminate civilian construction such as spartness houses, homes, stores, etc.; impose strict rationing; freeze prices, wages, rents, and eliminate duplication of products, near-haplication of retail outlets, and so forth.

By ROSE MARIE HUBER

Rev. Father Emeric Prister of St. Vincent's Archabbey, Latrobe, was a visitor in town among relatives this past week.

The government would take over most of the nation's ricets. Government purchases immediately would go above the 5 billion mark. Taxes would rise. Industrial planners dislike term "labor draft." They prefee an indirect approach, but it is up to the same thing. Non-essential jobs would go. Wages longer could be used as a hiring device. Everyone, including the Sam, would hire through the U. S. Employment Service. appropris would be told how many persons they could use—not by sittled workers, but management, office help, etc.

The National Security Resources Board's manpower plans anticipate the establishment of both employment ceilings and hiring controls. They would freeze every essential worker for an indefinite pariod. They are determined to eliminate wasteful "labor piracy." During World War II nine million workers crossed state lines; the movement from job to job within states was many times greater. If there is another war, virtually every mature man and woman will be in the war effort in some degree whether they like it or not. Another war would mean either the survival or the complete fall of the United States of America. May our world be delivered from it.

It Happened Five Years Ago

Five years ago last week Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, died and Harry S. Truman, Vice President, took over the job as chief executive. Mr. Truman expressed the thought that he had not wanted the job, asked the prayers and well-wishes of the American people, and took over the tremendous tasks that a nation then involved in wer had confronting it. These have been a trying five years on a chief executive—the most trying in all our national history—aside from actual war years.

The rank and file of the American people had faith in Harry ruman and demonstrated it by returning him to the Presidency. Its sacendancy to the office came by virtue of the fact that he ras the vice president. In looking backward, now, and in condering the future, the good American people can thank the ord that when a vacancy occurred by the death of President tonsevelt, the vice president was not Henry Wallace. We can hank the Almighty for Harry Truman.
