RABBIT REPELLENT
Gardeners have found several rabbit repellents to be effective. Among them are dried blood, fine tobacco dust and Rotenone. And when moth crystals are sprinkled around the borders of small garden plots rabbits usually stay outside of them.

CRANE MAKES A LITTLE WHOOPEE
WITH JUST 36 WHOOPIING CRANES left in the world, "Josephine" has good reason for whooping it up. Last Spring, as shown here, "Josie" produced two eggs at the Arkansas Wild Life Refuge, near Corpus Christi, Tex. They proved infertile. Honeymooning with a new mate, "Crip," she has just made news for bird lovers by laying another egg—which may become a 37th whooper-doooper. (International Soundphoto)

V. A. Will Assist War II Veterans In Business Deals

The Veterans Administration has advised the World War II Veterans Compensation Bureau that it will do everything it can to complete preliminary settlements for home purchases and other business transactions by veterans whose original discharge papers are being processed with applications for the Pennsylvania veterans bonus.
The same assistance will be given if the veteran has lost his discharge.
Clyde E. Rankin, director of the bureau, discussed the matter with the chairman of the Loan Guaranty Section of the Veterans Administration, a spokesman said.
In all cases, the bureau said, the VA must have the original discharge or a certified copy in lieu of lost discharge. It will accept certified copies of service which the federal agency itself will obtain from the armed services involved.
"All veterans whose discharges are temporarily tied up with application for the Pennsylvania veterans compensation or who have lost their papers are urged before negotiating a home purchase to contact the Veteran Administration's Loan Guaranty Section, at Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.
No veteran need worry he may lose his down deposit because his original discharge is temporarily out of his hands, the Bureau declared.

Form Honor Group At Spangler High

Upon recommendation of the newly organized student council, Spangler High School this year instituted the first Spangler Chapter of the National Honor Society. This organization seeks to honor those students who have achieved a degree of excellence in their scholastic work and who are outstanding examples of student character, leadership and service.
Ten per cent, or nine members of the class of 1950, were chosen by the special committee set up for the purpose, as also were four members of the class of 1951. The members include Nancy Boothman, Joy Flanagan, Louise Flory, Lawrence Gregor, Celine Kirsch, Anthony Marella, Ruth Marshall, Helen Patrick and Leonard Zelick. The juniors are Betty Chechok, James Lokey, Richard Taranto and Donald Verchick.

Spangler Senior Holds Perfect Attendance Mark

If Louise Flory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Flory, of Spangler, keeps up her attendance until May 26, she will have completed her entire grade and high school career without missing one day of school.
Miss Flory, a 17-year-old senior, began her studies in Spangler about the middle of the first grade, after her family moved from Clymer. Since that time, she has not only been perfect in attendance, but has never been on the tardy list.
The Spangler miss will complete her scholastic work in the commercial field. School authorities rate her an outstanding student. She is one of the nine members of the class chosen for the first Spangler chapter of the National Honor Society. Much of her spare time is occupied with her work as co-editor of "The Spangler," the school's newspaper, and served on the committee supervising artwork for the yearbook, "Memoria."
Miss Flory hopes to become a nurse.

ANTI-RUST PROTECTION of RD-119—Sinclair's Miracle Anti-Rust Chemical

Gasoline doesn't rust metal. But moisture does. And moisture from condensation collects in every gasoline tank; causes rust and corrosion in your whole fuel system if you use ordinary gasoline. See the heavy rust coating on steel rod at left after prescribed laboratory test in ordinary gasoline, containing small proportion of water as does your gasoline tank. But see how RD-119 in new Anti-Rust Sinclair Gasoline stopped rust on other steel rod, tested under identical conditions.
