Estimate 6 Million TV Sets To Be Sold In 1950 Last year almost three million Americans bought television sets. Estimates are that more than twice that many are planning to buy them this year.

At present there is much talk among educators about whether TV is good or bad for the young. Like with movies or radio, or the comics, the answer is that too much of any form of amusement isn't good—either for children or for adults.

TV isn't a new challenge to mothers, but just another angle to the old one of where to draw the line and when.

SHORT STORY Ina's Revenge

By Richard Hill Wilkinson "I'M GOING TO GET EVEN with that man if it's the last thing I do!" Ina Carlton's eyes were blazing, cheeks flushed.

"I presume," said Marlene Dale, "that you refer to Boylston's famous bachelor, Phil Bacon?" "You know very well whom I mean! You were there. You saw him snub me! Right in front of all those other girls! Oh, I can't tell you his hideous, laughing face!"

Marlene sat down on the edge of the divan. "You're a little idiot to act this way, Ina. And you're not playing fair with Phil. He didn't snub you. He merely treated you as he does all the other girls in town. We all like him, we'd all like to know him better. The fact that he's trying to stay a bachelor until he gets his real estate business built up, doesn't justify your anger."

This from her best friend, was small consolation. Ina began to scheme for revenge. Secretly she loved Phil Bacon.

An idea came abruptly. It took form slowly, but by the time she had reached home, she had formed a definite plan. Early the next morning Ina entered the office of Phil Bacon & Co., Phil, good looking, friendly, greeted his visitor warmly, though with a certain reserve.

"Good morning," said Ina brightly. "I'm Ina Carlton. Perhaps you remember that we were introduced two days ago at Mrs. Whipple's party."

"Indeed I do remember, Miss Carlton. Is there anything I can do?" His business-like tones were discouraging. "Yes, there is. You see, we have a piece of property—an old house—out on the Mendon road. Last night father decided to dispose of it and asked me to drop in and see you about the matter."

Phil's eyes shone. "Miss Carlton, I believe I can dispose of that property for you within two days. A man was in here yesterday and asked about it. Do you think $10,000 would suit your father?"

"I think," said Ina, "that would be fine."

Phil smiled. "I'll get in touch with my prospect today." And he looked deep into her eyes. "I'm mighty grateful to you for this opportunity, Miss Carlton. I'm glad," said Ina, "of the opportunity to help you."

YNA LEFT the real estate office and went in search of Marlene. She felt the need of congenial company. But Marlene wasn't home, and so she strolled out on the Mendon road. Her thoughts were disturbed.

The seriousness of what she had done, now that her anger had cooled, began to develop in her mind. After all, she thought, it was only her own selfishness that prompted the idea.

By the time she had reached the old colonial house, Ina had about made up her mind to swallow her pride and confess to Phil.

She shuddered at the thought, and then suddenly her heart ceased beating. Phil's roadster was in the drive. Moreover, there was Phil himself talking with a stranger in the front yard.

Ina ran up the drive. Phil turned at sound of her cry, left his companion and came to meet her. "Phil—Mr. Bacon! Don't let him buy! Don't let him be arrested!" She was breathless. "I wanted to get revenge because you snubbed me, so I—"

Phil stared at her. "I don't believe I understand."

"Don't you see! Father doesn't own this place! I merely said he did so you'd sell it and get in trouble with the real owner. It was a mean, silly trick. I'm sorry."

Phil's features relaxed. "Why, I'm glad you told me, Ina—Miss Carlton. And about that snubbing, too. I really wanted to know you better; but—well, it didn't seem possible that such a pretty girl would be interested in me."

"But—but—then you haven't sold the house?" "Well, not exactly. I bought it myself a week ago. That man you see up there is my architect. I was explaining to him some changes I wanted made."

New Man-Made Lake Construction Started In Shawnee State Park

Pennsylvania is going to have its lakes on a new scale, and if necessary it will build them. And this is precisely what is going to happen in Bedford county.

Plans are under way for the scooping out of a proposed lake bottom at Shawnee State Park near the town of Bedford. And they're not only going to scoop out the lake bottom, but they're also going to build a few islands and beaches.

Morals Case Again Continued By Court Indict Klier On Count Against County Ward

A second continuance has been granted in the scheduled trial of H. S. Klier of Johnstown, who is under indictment for an alleged morals offense involving a ward of Cambria County.

The Cambria County Court agreed to a second postponement of the trial because of the illness of Attorney Bruce A. Sciotto, associate defense counsel. The court was told that Attorney Sciotto became a surgical patient at a Boston clinic yesterday.

The trial originally was scheduled for March. It was postponed because of withdrawal from the case by Attorney Philip N. Shettig, who was to have been an associate defense attorney. It was rescheduled for the week of June 19, but the latest developments will set it back until the September term.

The first continuance was granted over the protests of District Attorney Samuel R. DiFrancesco and his first assistant, David C. Wolfe. Monday they told the court they would not oppose the new request for continuance if the court felt that the delay would not be detrimental to the welfare of the young girl involved.

Judges John H. McCann, Ivan J. McKenrick and George W. Griffith were on the bench when the continuance was granted.

When the case does come to trial, it probably will be presided over by a judge from another county. Upon petition by Mr. DiFrancesco—and with the county court's approval—the State Supreme Court appointed Judge Elmer L. Evans of Erie to hear the case. He was to have presided

Bet You Don't Know This About Advertising by Susan

Quiz No. 10 What does it cost to advertise a quart of milk? 3¢? 5¢? 7¢ a quart?

Answer: It costs less than 1/10¢ a quart to advertise the best known brands of milk.

That's only half the story. Advertising lowers your cost two ways: Cuts the selling costs. And by helping make mass production possible, lowers the production costs, too.

So advertising saves you many times the cost of that 1/10¢ per quart.

Spangler Man Gets 6-Month Minimum Sentence In Prison

Francis A. McCombie, 39, of Spangler, pleaded guilty Monday in Cambria County Court to an involuntary manslaughter charge. He was the driver of a car in which his aged aunt—Sister Mary Zita Welch of Erie—was injured fatally on Mar. 21.

The court imposed a sentence of a minimum of six months and a maximum of 23 months in the county jail. The sentence was imposed by Judge John H. McCann, who was joined on the bench by Judge Ivan J. McKenrick.

The charge against McCombie was filed by state police of the Ebensburg detail following an automobile accident on Route 219, about three miles north of Johnstown. McCombie was driving the 76-year-old nun to Johnstown to visit relatives when his car collided with an auto driven by Walter T. Berriman, 19, of Ebensburg.

Pfc. Albert Pfadt of the state police said McCombie was driving on the wrong side of the road and that he apparently was under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Pfadt said his investigation showed that McCombie had been drinking in a taproom located a few miles north of the scene of the accident and that, while driving his car, he had forced three other motorists off the highway.

McCombie suffered minor injuries in the crash. His aunt died while being taken to the Johnstown Mercy Hospital after the wreck.

Game Commission Now Operating Zoo

The State Game Commission has now entered the zoo business—at least it is moving in that direction. The Commission has announced that it has officially opened a large conservation exhibit at the famous Hershey Park Zoo, not far from Harrisburg.

The Hershey Zoo, closed since the war, is being reopened, and the Commission exhibit will consist of more than 20 major displays each on one or more species of wild life, and every one presented in its natural environment.

The entire exhibit has been planned along educational lines and should appeal to farmers, sportsmen, bird and nature lovers, and to scouts, farm youth groups and school children.

He was admitted to the Miners' Hospital, Spangler, for treatment of back injuries and possible internal injuries.

Officers from the Ebensburg state police detail, said the motorbike crashed into a car operated by L. W. Lowman, 46, of Spangler R. D. 1. Damage to both of the vehicles was estimated at $75.
