Pat Marquette, basketball coach, in his talk stressed the value of teamwork and cooperation in sports, as well as in later life and stressed the value of athletics in bringing out the qualities of a person.

He stated that a coach has a peculiar life but also one that has something to contribute to the boys in their charge. He stressed that football emphasizes three important phases in human development—moral training, health and the ability to get along with one's fellow man.

Ralph Lutzinger, former PHIS grid star, who was on the St. Vincent squad this past season, and Paul Kmetz, co-captain of the Bearcat team, also made remarks.

John Barnard, high school principal, in behalf of the school, thanked all those who helped in the activities and in promoting the athletic Banquet.

Edward Donahue, accompanied by Mrs. Mack Shannon, gave two renditions and John Francis Matigzcek gave a very humorous sketch of a GI in the last war, as well as some very clever impersonations.

Robert Forsythe, who was very active in promoting the banquet, expressed his appreciation to all
