Driving Reaction Demonstration With Special Car Here On Friday

Students of Patton High will have an opportunity at 1:35 p. m. this Friday to see for themselves how the false impression and sense of security that a driver of a modern car gets, car and does often lead into trouble, when they participate in a series of driving tests.

The tests, which will be in two parts, will be given under the direction of Ed Evans, supervisor of safety and safety engineer of Farm Bureau Insurance Companies.

The first section will be a lecture and movie in the school while the second will be a demonstration on N. Fifth Ave. Mr. Evans also will demonstrate correct and incorrect driving habits.

High point of the demonstration will be when driving tests are made with various students and teachers in the specially equipped car of the Farm Bureau Insurance Co. Three revolvers are mounted on the front bumper of the car and will fire yellow paint bullets to indicate the distance required to stop the car in an emergency.

The driver being tested will be signalled to stop by a red light mounted above the radiator. The first paint bullet will be fired automatically at the same instant the stop signal is flashed. The second will be fired automatically when the brake is applied and the third when the car halts. Distance between the spots of paint will then be measured to determine the reaction and braking distances.

Tests will be limited to 20, 30 and 40 miles per hour. The demonstration and test is being brought to Patton under sponsorship of Joseph D. Horne, local agent for the firm. The public is invited to attend.

First two officials of Ebsenburgh Coal Company, Colver, to benefit under a new pension plan entered retirement last Saturday.

Andrew P. Westrick and Thomas J. Brown, veteran employees of the Cambria County mining firm, are the first supervisors entered on the company's new pension setup.

Westrick served as shop foreman and Brown was maintenance supervisor. Both are residents of Colver.

The new retirement plan for supervisory workers was instituted by the Ebsenburgh Coal Company on Feb. 15.

Westrick and Brown were honored at a last Saturday noon dinner of supervisory workers in the Wissinger Inn, Ebsenburgh. The affair marked the regular quarterly meeting of supervisory personnel.

In remarks at the dinner Thomas L. Aitken, vice president in charge of operations, paid high tribute to the two retired officials for their service to the company.

Fellow supervisors of the firm presented each of the men with a watch.

Westrick began working for the Ebsenburgh Coal Company on Sept. 24, 1917. Brown began his employment with the company on Nov. 5, 1916.

The contributory retirement plan set up by the coal company will benefit supervisory personnel who are not covered under the retirement program of the United Mine Workers.

James H. Stratton Discusses Missions At St. Benedict

James H. Stratton, superintendent of the St. Benedict Presbyterian Church Sunday School, spoke on the subject of missions at the monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the church last Friday evening.

Mrs. Clair Caldwell, president, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Gust Anderson, chairman of the program committee, conducted a brief devotional service.

Mr. Stratton discussed how missions are related to the church school. He opened his remarks by giving a definition of missions, saying that we are not all called to be missionaries, but that all Christians do have an obligation to the missions. Thus all are obeying the injunction of Jesus, who said: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

A missionary society in a church, he said, is an indication that there is a missionary "spirit" in that church.

Mr. Stratton also spoke a word for the church school, saying it is a training school for the church and all adults should give more time to it. Leadership is needed.

"We have a great tradition to live up to in the Presbyterian Church in the USA the entire church is thought of as a missionary society. This was expressed in the following words by the General Assembly of 1887: 'The Presbyterian Church is a missionary society, the object of which is to do all in its power for the accomplishment of this object.'"

A social period followed, with refreshments served by Misses Jane and Shirley Hunter.

They also visited the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Friday evening, the youth saw the Radio City Music Hall show.

They were accompanied by Rev. Warren Swank of Bakerton.
