The manager of the Union Press-Courier is to sincerely represent Organized Labor in all efforts to obtain economic freedom. Material for publication may be signed by the writer as an evidence of good faith. The Union Press-Courier gives its advertisers the advantage of combined circulation of two large, general weeklies and has a reader coverage that blankets Patton and all major mining towns in Northern Cambria County.

There Were Two Papers Here

Last week one day the Johnstown newspapers were in contact with our office seeking information about Conrad M. Richter, who is a Pulitzer Prize winner of 1950 for his novel "The Town." Mr. Richter got his first newspaper experience in Cambria County, in Johnstown, as a lad of 19, and the same year lists himself in his autobiography as having been editor of The Patton Weekly Journal for a few months. Nothing in the files of the Patton Courier indicates he ever was a member of its staff, but since his own mention of the "Journal" has been made, the problem solves itself.

Back in the early 1900's there were two newspapers in Patton—at least for a short time. There evidently were certain citizens who didn't either like the management, or the policy, of the Patton Courier and inaugurated an opposition newspaper. It was the Patton Journal. A couple of years ago someone around town unearthed one of the copies of this short-lived paper—the only one we've ever seen. Apparently Mr. Richter was the editor, and all reminiscences presently by older citizens are that the life-span of the "Journal" was less than a year.

Our recollection of the paper was that there was but little advertising—the lifeblood of any newspaper—in its columns. Quite likely the promoters were glad to close shop. It is amazing how few of our oldtimers even remember anything about the newspaper. But Patton has the distinction of having had at one time residing in our midst a Pulitzer Prize winner of today.

"Patton" Will Change Name

Remember a few years ago, when Patton entertained the County Firemen's Convention here, the company that came the longest distance was the "Patton Township Fire Company" of Allegheny County, and the trip was made to Patton either because we were their namesake, or they ours. Anyway, they were accorded a fine reception here, and the visiting firemen indicated that they enjoyed themselves.

Patton Township, Allegheny County, has been growing in population by leaps and bounds, and the 1950 population shows it with 7221 souls. Because of this rapid growth, neighboring townships have been grabbing populous sections of their territory, and so, to prevent this, on January 1, 1952, the township will become a borough. When that happens it will lose the name of Patton and will become the Borough of Monroeville.

Without question, were it not for our own town of Patton, the folks over in Allegheny County would be glad to continue their present name. But two "Pattons" in Pennsylvania don't jibe with the postal and freight people.

A Fish Commission Project

Some weeks ago this column contained quite some lengthy comments on the proposition of the improvement of the Duman Dam in Patton Township, and while all due credit was given the state for its financial interest in the improvement, we did get off on the wrong foot solely in eroding the Department of Forests & Waters with the government.

As for the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, headed by C. A. French, executive director, that has taken over the Duman Dam project and which has authorized the advertisement of bids for the construction work. That means it is the funds of the Fish Commission and not finances allocated to the Department of Forests & Waters that will pay the bill. We were caught napping when we stated the credit should be given the Department of Forests & Waters. We know better.

The Issue Is Not Political

Reading newspaper comment on the justification of the removal of General MacArthur from the Pacific command constantly tends to invade in the minds of the reader that one political party is of the belief that his removal was justifiable—the other major party is not of that belief. It's too bad that it seems that partisan politics separates the spirits of the case. The other day we presented an editorial written by the Rev. Father Francis Reed Hoy, in the Altoona "Register," and it struck us as mighty sensible. Here it is, in full:

"When the incident and the shouting die over the ouster and return of General MacArthur, it may be possible to judge the matter and its consequences coolly and rationally. Then judgments made in haste and colored by emotions of the moment may look foolish when time has allowed first impressions.

The extraordinary tributes paid to the hero of Iwo Jima by his countrymen, mortally by his illustrious deeds, his long career of service to his country, and the inspirational genius he displayed in directing our Pacific efforts during World War II. His exceptional accomplishment in transforming and rejuvenating Japan from a foe of an enemy to that of one of our most potent friends in the Orient and his successful outwitting of Communist influence beyond Japan stamp him as an accomplished administrator as well.

Although there seems to be universal agreement, at least in the United States, over the justification of our entrance into the Korean conflict, it can hardly be shown that the pursuit of our "peace policy" has been entirely prudent. Unbiased observers of the United States and elsewhere are of the opinion that our present position has been failed to outline clear principles and objectives in the light.

Whether MacArthur's plan of action could bring a speedy termination to the struggle remains to be decided by more competent minds than our own. His dismissal on the grounds of insubordination was certainly correct, military procedure. But it seems to us tragic that it was taken from his Japanese administrative post, where he is a symbol of freedom and America's good will to the peoples of that land.

Perhaps the best analysis of the situation that we have seen appeared in the Sun-Herald, the national Catholic daily paper. The editors there point out that "no real victory is possible until the Chinese stop fighting." They fear that "the General is the only man in command in an endless and fruitless war in China and a peace would be based on the back of his assumption and opinion." No enemy has ever been able to overrun and subdue the Chinese millions before, and we should have more sense than to sustain a conqueror and materials against a people who would not be our enemies.

Neither we should measure our strength for a possible showdown with the Communists in the Pacific. Whether or not we should send our troops to the Communist from Korea, we cannot afford to send our troops to the Communist from Formosa or any other island in the South Sea to Communist domination. This would be the surest way of bringing about a Communist victory in the Far East, but it is not a strategy that cannot be overcome with force. To invade war, without creating peace, gives the name of "peace" to a "cold war" and gives to peace the sinister meaning of the Russian word, "order prevails in Warsaw."

Neither we should admit that, in the reality of the Korean situation, the pre-Christian edging "if we go to war, may be called also in honor of our great and noble Christian." We must add that we must prepare for peace, but peace is at all times, the light of simple reason if nothing else." We must resist the temptation of being that ideas cannot be overcome with force. To invade war, without creating peace, gives the name of "peace" to a "cold war" and gives to peace the sinister meaning of the Russian word, "order prevails in Warsaw."

"AS I SEE IT . . ."

By STATE SENATOR JOHN J. HALUSKA

This week we shall just briefly analyze some of the past happenings; not for the reason "I told you so," but, just to keep the record straight.

Several weeks ago, which may be termed as MacArthur's "hey-day," we stated that President Truman would "go down" in history as the greatest of the great. That was during the time that MacArthur has just returned from Japan; the bands were playing, the flags were waving and the people were cheering.

Our remarks, at that time, were possibly very unpopular but, now, as each day goes by our prophecy of that time is becoming a reality. Only this week, Ray Tucker, Washington's famous analyst and a man who happens to be a bitter Truman hater, stated that the GOP has, once again, muffed the ball by putting their eggs into the MacArthur basket.

Such a statement by Tucker, will have a great bearing upon the policies of the Republican Party in the days to come. Outstanding Republican leaders throughout the nation are disagreeing with MacArthur's all-out war program.

These Republican leaders realize that the American people want peace—not war—and, if MacArthur's policy, if instituted, would bring an outright war immediately that would last years and ruin not only this generation but generations to come.

General Marshall brought out important facts at the Senate Hearing, in Washington, recently, that prove, without any shadow of a doubt, how wrong MacArthur was.

It took a great deal of courage to act as Mr. Truman did and because of his courage and sincerity and timely action, we again repeat that President Truman is the "man of the hour" and will go down in history without a parallel.

We think the Korean War will be forgotten in a few months. Then it is our duty to fortify the Western Hemisphere with all the equipment necessary, along with proper man-power, and then have a definite show-down with Red Russia. This we expect to happen before too long.

Personally, we do not think we will be involved in a Third World War because General Eisenhower is so conducting himself, along with the Allied Nations, that Russia realizes we are not shadow boxing nor fooling; she cannot risk being involved in a World War after realizing that, as every hour goes by, we are getting stiffer and stiffer fortified.

This week will see the show-down on Gov. Fine's Tax Proposal. His entire program will be tested upon to raise sufficient monies to meet the requirements for the commitments made for the next biennium. We predict, and we humbly state, that we will vote for Governor Fine's entire Tax Program, with the exception of the State Income Tax.

At the present time of writing, the two teams balance in this manner: 20 Republican Senators and 20 Democratic Senators. It takes 26 votes to pass any measure. Twenty Democrats are opposed to the State Income Tax; six outstanding Republican Senators have joined our forces. If they stand by, the final vote on the Income Tax will be 26 against and 24 for the measure. And, if MacArthur's hope, at the moment, that will be the final outcome and a great victory for all Pennsylvanians.

We have always taken the attitude that such matters should be voted upon and looked upon not as Democratic nor Republican Bills but, Bills that affect the mutual welfare of the public. We always felt that the integrity of men is far superior than personal politics.

If these six Republican Senators stand by the 20 Democratic Senators, we will have a credit to the Democratic Party and an everlasting credit to those six Republican Senators for their courage and convictions.

Then, if the issue will be closed this week and we shall soon know the outcome.
