Salary Board Gives Pay Hike, Increases Travel Allowance

The Cambria County Salary Board Monday granted one pay increase but turned down another. At the same time the board increased the travel allowance for some county employees from 6 to 8 cents per mile.

The salary board went to Miss Dorothy Hayden of Johnstown, who will take over the duties of Mrs. Emma Radebach as juvenile court stenographer for the probation bureau. Mrs. Radebach resigned about two months ago.

Miss Mayden's pay rate was boosted from $185 to $218 monthly. A motion that a similar increase be granted to Mrs. Lillian Baumgardner, also a probation office employee, failed to receive a second. Both motions were made by President Judge John H. McCann as the court's representative on the board.

Members of the board explained that Miss Hayden's pay increase was granted because she is taking on new duties and is entitled to the same pay as her predecessor. Except for such instances as promotions to more responsible positions, the county is not granting pay raises at this time, board members said in commenting on the motion pertaining to Mrs. Baumgardner.

The eight-cent-per-mile allowance affects all county employees who use their private automobiles on county business except the sheriff and deputy sheriffs. The mileage rate for the sheriff's office is fixed by law at 70 cents per mile.

Barnesboro Hires High School, Grade School Teachers

Two school instructors were named Monday evening at a meeting of the Barnesboro School Board. Morton Bretz of Indiana was elected to teach art in the high school and Miss Marjorie Wagner of Barnesboro will serve as a substitute first-grade instructor.

Mr. Bretz, a graduate of Indiana State Teachers College will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Margaret Blosser. Miss Wagner, a graduate of Lock Haven State Teachers College, will fill the first-grade position in the absence of Miss Emily Swansboro, Barnesboro, who is ill.

A discussion was held on the traffic problems at two Barnesboro intersections. Board members feel a hazard to school children exists at Philadelphia Ave. and Chestnut Street and Philadelphia Ave. and 12th Street.

Board members also voted to purchase new uniforms for Robert Gobrecht, band director, and his assistant, Henry Stange. Other action included selling two lots adjoining the high school athletic field to two Barnesboro men for $350 each.

Social Security Interviews Cancelled for Labor Day

Wiestling, manager of Johnstown field office of the Social Security Administration, has announced that the social security interviews will not conduct his weekly session next Monday in Barnesboro American Legion Home. Hoover to Resign As Cambria County Probation Officer To Become Associated With Private Concern

Regis A. Hoover of Ebenburg Tuesday confirmed a report that he will resign as Cambria County probation officer.

Mr. Hoover did not make his future plans known except to say that he has received an offer to become associated with a private concern.

"I have not formally submitted a resignation," Hoover said on Tuesday, "but I expect to do so."

In regard to the date of his proposed departure, Hoover said that it is indefinite. "I will remain on this job for a reasonable time," he said. "I'm not planning to leave on short notice unless they are satisfied to have me leave."

Hoover referred to the three judges of the common pleas court who are his immediate superiors as head of the probation bureau. The report that Hoover was intending to resign first circulated in the Courthouse on Monday when the three judges met in a closed session with the salary board was advised of Hoover's anticipated resignation at that time.

Hoover indicated Tuesday that he will remain as probation officer until the judges can make other arrangements for direction of the bureau. However, he said that this did not mean he would remain indefinitely.

"I am not prepared to make any statement at this time regarding my future plans," he said.

Mr. Hoover has headed the county probation bureau for the past year. He was appointed to the $3,540 position on Aug. 25, 1950, as successor to Mrs. Lola M. Bennett who resigned after serving more than 20 years as the probation officer.

Prior to taking over the probation job Hoover had headed the Federal census-taking staff in the 26th Congressional District comprising Cambria, Indiana and Armstrong Counties. He also a former sheriff and a past secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Sterling Mine No. 6 At Bakerton Gets Federal Inspection

With the adoption of a few additional safety measures and operating conditions the Sterling Coal Co. No. 6 mine at Bakerton can be brought into full conformance with established safety standards according to a report released this Thursday by the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

The mine employed 126 men and produced about 500 tons of coal daily when it was examined earlier this month by Inspector David K. Kreischer.

Inspector Kreischer recommended that only permissible blasting units be used to fire shots, tests for methane be made before and after firing each shot, all shot firers be certified, and that men blasting get in a safe place around a corner.

He recommended that more air be directed to one set of entries, several shelter holes be made higher, overload protection for locomotives, approval plates for two electric coal drills, rock drilling with percussion drills be done wet, and the use of special protective clothing by most of the employees.

He praised safer storage of explosives underground and noted that an electric coal drill was provided with an approval plate and all mining machines had cutting chain locks.

Former St. Benedict Man Builds Up Huge Auto Business In Two Years

Alex Maxwell, a former St. Benedict man, really has what it takes to make good.

According to the recent issue of the "Ford Dealer Magazine" Alex has built up a $10,000-a-month repair and parts business in only two short years.

This is in addition to sales of some 700 Ford cars and trucks annually.

Mr. Maxwell is remembered in Patton, too, having graduated from Patton High School. He was employed by Stoltz Motor Co., local Ford dealers, until about 1935.

In 1949 he inherited a feeble service trade and prospects for back-of-dealership sales that "hit bottom" when he acquired the Ford franchise in Bergerfield, N. J., and set up Maxwell Motors. The garage was located on a main corner, with other garages on the other three corners, and the dealership had been closed during World War II.

The garage then had only a total of $2,000 service and repair sales in a month. Now he has so much work to do that he has to farm much of it out to his former competitors.

Just recently, Maxwell set up Fort Lee Motors, another Ford garage, which taps the traffic of the George Washington Bridge into New York—the main traffic artery. In conjunction with this stand, he also operates a parking lot for bridge commuters.

He also is said to own a firm which sells transit buses.

Much of Maxwell's success is said to be due to a plan he drew up of providing continuous service on his new cars for two years or 25,000 miles. This is to take care of six but standard maintenance care and normal wear. It costs $20, and brings back 90 percent of his car purchaser for service. With the service comes 25 coupons, each good for definite maintenance work.

Another wrinkle he has is to provide no rest room at his garage service stations, forcing the customers to walk through the display room to get where they want to go. He said this has been responsible for selling four or five new cars.
