

State's Democrats Flay Fine, Martin At Policy Meeting

Platform Includes No New Taxes In State

Stephen A. Mitchell, new Democratic national chairman, predicted that 1952 registration figures will swell to an all-time high, with the edge going to the Democrats.

"If we get them registered, we'll get more than half of them in the urban areas," he told a 325-a-plate dinner of the Democratic State Committee in Harrisburg Saturday night.

Mitchell, who flew in from Denver for the Pennsylvania campaign opener, lamented the decline in Democratic voting in Pennsylvania between 1936 and 1948. In 1936 he said 58 out of each 100 voters went Democratic; in 1948, that figure was whittled down to 47 out of 100, he said.

Mitchell said to Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee believes that Pennsylvania is the "keystone" in the Nov. 4 general election.

"The important question of Pennsylvania in this election cannot be over-estimated," said the Democratic leader.

In another speech, former Judge Guy K. Baird lashed out at Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.) for voting to give titleland oil rights to the states.

By doing so, said Baird, Martin passed up an opportunity to help Pennsylvania schools.

Baird, Democratic nominee opposing Martin's bid for reelection, asked if Martin "truly represented" Pennsylvania in voting to give all the revenue from titlelands oil to three states instead of to all 48 states. Proposals have been made to earmark the oil money for federal aid to schools, Baird added.

The 113-member Democratic State Committee, in an afternoon session, unanimously adopted a 4,000-word platform which promises no new state taxes if a Democratic Legislature is elected in November. The platform also criticized the Republican administration of John S. Fine and U. S. Sens. Martin and James H. Duff.

The executive committee also filled seven vacancies on the legislative body created by withdrawals or failure of write-in candidates to pay a filing fee.

St. Boniface Lady Falls From Window

A St. Boniface mother of four children was taken to the Miners' Hospital last Friday after a fall out of the window in the second story apartment in Mrs. Octavia McConnell, wife of Walter McConnell.

Mrs. McConnell was found by a five-year-old neighbor girl, Kathryn Louise Thomas, who informed her mother, Mrs. Alvin Thomas, of the accident. Mrs. Thomas summoned help and the injured woman was taken to the hospital by the Patton Fire Co. ambulance.

Mrs. McConnell told hospital attendants that she can't remember how the accident occurred. Her husband is a welder in a steel company in Johnstown, was at work at the time.

Mrs. McConnell was treated for cuts of the face and bruises of the left arm. Her condition is listed as satisfactory.

Unity Is Sole Hope, Lewis Tells Labor In Annual Message

American Labor Faces Danger Era, He Says

John L. Lewis issued a Labor Day message on Monday telling other labor organizations they all had better unite or eventually they would be destroyed.

It was the latest move by Lewis to persuade trade unions to unite in order to accomplish their joint aims.

"American labor faces an era of danger and of threats to its very existence," said the message issued by Lewis and the United Mine Workers' other international officers.

"There are those politicians beholden to reactionary interests, and those who are still advocates of the institution of human slavery, who would take from us the only effective weapon we have in our struggle for a better America," the message said.

"There are those intellectually corrupt corporate interests in this country who would sell a free, democratic and progressive America down the river in the mad gamble for unchallenged control of the economic future of our great nation."

The UMW statement said labor union members wanted a unified labor movement, but that "it is being divided against itself" because various union leaders were jealous of each other and would not agree to unite.

"The spectacle of the segments of organized labor in America heaving and shoving in all directions—or in no direction—gives aid and comfort to those who would destroy us and institute their own modern version of serfdom," Lewis said.

The statement said that after five years under what it called the "iniquitous Taft-Hartley slave statute" labor organization leadership has been stopped and the unions left "weak, disarmed."

"We have no choice but to capitulate or fight back," Lewis said. "We cannot fight back effectively without unity or single-mindedness of purpose."

Lewis, Philip Murray, CIO president, and William Green, AFL president, have gone through the motions many times of trying to merge forces into a single labor federation, but they have never been able to accomplish it.

M. J. Strittmatter, Carrolltown, to Be In Greyhound Ads

When Greyhound Lines launches its "Meet the Man" promotion next week the star attraction—in a three-month, nationwide advertising campaign—will be M. J. Strittmatter of Carrolltown.

"Stricky," as he is known to his friends, is connected with the Westrick Motor Co. and is a director of the AAA. He has been a Greyhound representative for 22 years and can take a lot of personal credit for a part in the development of a great transportation system. As a tribute to his efforts, Greyhound will devote its local and national advertising for the next three months to his recognition and that of thousands of fellow agents by describing how important their services have been to the firm and to the communities in which they live. Greyhound agents as a group will be featured in national magazines and TV advertising and Mr. Strittmatter will be featured in the Greyhound fall advertising in this newspaper.

"The spectacle of the segments of organized labor in America heaving and shoving in all directions—or in no direction—gives aid and comfort to those who would destroy us and institute their own modern version of serfdom," Lewis said.

Were to Have Been Presented At Rally

Oldtime coal miners in the area who have compiled accident-free records on the job will be paid special recognition.

Richard Maize, secretary of the State Department of Mines, has disclosed that citations will be presented to all members of the Pioneer Club of Miners. A requisite for membership is 40 years or more without a disabling mishap.

The text of the commendation follows:

"This citation is awarded to you in recognition of the many years you have worked without an injury in the bituminous coal mines of Pennsylvania.

"His excellency, the Honorable John S. Fine, governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I, as secretary of mines, extend our thanks and appreciation to you for your excellent record.

"It is records such as yours that have made it possible for Pennsylvania to have the safest coal mines in the United States.

"Wishing for you and yours continued good health and happiness."

Mr. Maize originally planned to present the citations to the veterans diggers at their rally week before last in Ebensburg. However, he was detained and arrived too late for the meeting. Therefore, the citations will be mailed to the men.

Penelec to Improve Facilities At Colver

Pennsylvania Electric Company recently purchased the Colver power plant of the Ebensburg Electric Co. and will supply area requirements from its transmission network.

Since 1911 the small Colver plant has generated power for Ebensburg, Ebensburg Electric Co. and, in recent years, also provided power for Bethlehem Mines Corporation.

Sale of the Colver plant to Penelec followed a two-year period of intensive study of the power problems involved. Penelec will dismantle the Colver plant, will erect modern facilities to provide power to Ebensburg Coal Co. and Bethlehem Mines Corp.

Currently, Penelec is putting in a new transmission substation at Revick, to handle the power problem posed by the dismantling of the Colver plant.

Penelec will provide enough power daily to Ebensburg Coal Co. and Bethlehem Mines to meet the power needs of a community of 10,600.

Frankies Facing Tough Schedule During Season

With his outlook for the fast-approaching football season very bleak, Coach I. V. Davis of St. Francis College, Loretto, Pa., faces one of the toughest schedules in the state.

A Frankie mentor has ever confronted the Red Flash.

Of the eight squads the Red Flash battled a year ago, five have been re-scheduled while two newcomers also have agreed to meet Loretto-men on the gridiron. Last year's three opponents who fail to appear on the Frankies' schedule this fall are St. Bonaventure's, who blasted Davis' pupils, 65-6, Wilkes College, 13-7, and the South Eastern Kings College, 13-12 losers at the hands of the Frankies. Four of the Loretto school's five old foes took their late camp last year, with Ray Maroon and White's lone victory coming over perennial rival St. Vincent's College, by a 26-21 count. John Carroll University administered a 24-0 shutout. Youngstown a 26-8 setback, Wayneburg a 26-0 humiliation, and the Cresson University a 40-19 trouncing.

"The college among the pines" begins grid relations this autumn with St. Michael's of Winooksee Park, Vermont, and Indiana State Teachers College of Indiana, Pa. Neither will be pushovers, especially the lads from Vermont who copped the New England title last year. The Indiana tilt may be the beginning of a sectional rivalry between the two schools, since a comparatively short distance separates them. The Davis-men hit the road for both encounters, meeting St. Michael's under the lights at Burlington, Vt. on September 27th, and clashing with Indiana in a daylight affair on November 8, at Indiana.

Lake Rowena Area Has Long List Of Don'ts For Present

Ebensburg Borough recreation board has taken over the Lake Rowena recreation site there, but for the time being there won't be much activity at the lake site.

On the recommendations of the Ebensburg council the recreation board has set up a list of "don'ts" that just about eliminate any activity at the state-built $130,000 lake site.

Among the published regulations are these:

"No swimming, no boating, no fishing, no lighting of fires, no ice skating."

At a glance the strict regulations would seem to forbid all recreation with the possible exception of looking at the water from a distance.

But this is for good reason, it was explained. The regulations are not permanent ones. It is the plan of borough officials to limit activities at the lake site until further improvement plans are realized. Under the regulations it is expected that regulations will be relaxed when conditions warrant it.

At present the north and west shores of the lake are being graded. Timothy and wheat will be planted to provide a suitable sod.

10 4-H Clubs Have Exhibits At Fair

An outstanding array of exhibits by 10 Cambria County 4-H Clubs is one of the features of the Ebensburg Fair last week.

Included are club vegetable products entered by the entire membership of four clubs—Putnam-St. Lawrence, Hastings, Rager's Corner and Nicktown, range from 10 to 20.

Some 50 boys and girls have entered 72 steers in the baby beef contest—a new record in both the number of individual competitors and the number of animals in this division.

Thirty-seven 4-H members entered 51 pigs in that division and 11 others entered 20 animals in 4-H dairy competition.

Pig and beef schedules will be held on Friday. The bulk of the judging took place Tuesday.

Five High Schools To Train Drivers

Twenty-one district high schools will offer a driver-training program this year under the sponsorship of the Johnstown Motor Club. This is three more than offered the course last year.

Fourteen already have the course under way, and in the north of the county Barmesboro High School is one of them, with Ray Grillo Bros. as instructor. The car is furnished by Grillo Bros.

Another is the Cresson Joint High School, with Robert Primel as instructor. The car is furnished by Cresson Motor Co.

Among schools which will offer the course later this month are Ebensburg-Cambria High School, Gallitzin High School and the Hastings High School.

Newer Treatment For Miners' Asthma Listed By Medicos

A new treatment for silicosis or "miner's asthma" has been announced by doctors at Jefferson Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia. The physicians term it the first major advance in treatment of the occupational disease.

The system used, as outlined by the physicians, works this way:

A nebulizer—a device by which the miner breathes drugs into the respiratory tract—is used to set up a fine mist of medication. But some silicotic miners have such congestion in their lungs they are unable to inhale the drug satisfactorily and something more is needed.

Dr. Hurdley L. Motley, director of Barton Memorial Laboratory at Jefferson and one of the leaders in the development of the process, combined the nebulizer with an intermittent positive pressure cycling valve—a device developed by the club force to treat fliers suffering from lack of oxygen at high altitudes.

The valve does the breathing for a person and pumps oxygen into the lungs and then gently sucks out the waste carbon dioxide. Combined with the nebulizer, the valve introduces the drugs into the respiratory tracts which would otherwise be reached otherwise.

The hospital said at the same time it has received a grant of $502,000 from the Anthracite Health and Welfare Fund for the continuation of research for the treatment of the disease. The money is to be spread over a period of four years.

Area 4-H Summer Programs Ended

September brings the closing of the official 4-H Home Economics Club program. However, many of the clubs continue throughout the winter months with such get-togethers as taffy-pulls, making Christmas gifts for mothers, etc.

During the 1952 club season there were 20 Home Economics Clubs in Cambria County—Blandburg, Fallentimber, Patton East Road, St. Augustine, Ashville, Loretto, Munster, North Ebensburg, South Ebensburg, Colver Junior and Colver Senior, Nicktown, Ragers Corner, Sallis, South Fork, Cresson, Nanty-Glo, Spangler, Wilmore and Ebensburg—with 458 girls enrolled. These clubs were conducted by 52 local adult leaders and 10 junior leaders.

Of the 458 girls enrolled, 392 or 85 percent completed their home projects. Three hundred sixteen of these girls were enrolled in various types of clothing projects and 119 in foods with 23 in entertaining projects. Although only three projects were represented in this county, there are 10 projects from which girls may choose their summer's work.

Josephine Kuzmish Weds John Ewanek

Miss Josephine Kuzmish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kuzmish of Spangler, became the bride of John Ewanek, son of Frank Ewanek of Hastings at 9 a. m. last Saturday, Sept. 6, at St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church in Barmesboro. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Wolosnyk Kowal, pastor.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, John Kuzmish. Miss Joyce Leone was the maid of honor and Paul Kostura served as best man. Miss Elizabeth Kovalek was bridesmaid and Bill Kuzmish, brother of the bride, was usher.

A wedding dinner and reception were held at St. Boniface Church Hall. Following a wedding trip to the New England States, Mr. and Mrs. Ewanek will reside in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Ewanek, a graduate of Spangler High School, was employed by Phillips-Jones Corp. Her husband, a graduate of Hastings High School, is a veteran of service with the U. S. Army.

Children Starting To School Facing Variety Problems

A new army of 2,500.00 is taking to the field.

Children going to school for the first time comprise this army. Some who have been babied at home are likely to be homesick for awhile.

Others will feel immediately at ease in school.

Some will be apt to learn rapidly, while others lag behind, dull and uninterested.

Very often, a latency in mental functioning is traceable to a physical and correctable disorder. Defects in hearing and vision, and malnutrition, are among imperfections that retard children.

Defective vision is the disability most often noticed when the child enters school.

This fault must be attributed to the parent who has neglected to obtain treatment for the child whose eye deflection could have been corrected earlier in life.

Progress in school work is hard for the child with an eye defect. Hearing defects, too often overlooked by parents, make it difficult for a student to keep up with others in a classroom.

During the first year in school, children are especially susceptible to communicable diseases.

The child who is free of correctable defects and protected against communicable diseases, has a good start toward making a success in his life at school.
