School Picture In State Alarming

By Pennsylvania News Service
Harrisburg—The complex educational picture becomes even more complex when it is realized that in Pennsylvania by 1960 a total of 17,190 additional classrooms will be needed to take care of the expected increased school enrollment.

This was learned this week by Pennsylvania News Service from the Department of Public Instruction which noted at the same time that this classroom schedule does not include replacements or present school buildings.

In other words, if Pennsylvania is to keep step in providing adequate school facilities, the tidy sum of close to one and three-quarter billion dollars will be needed.

A step in that direction is being taken by Pennsylvania, as indicated by the past that current expenses in support of public schools in the Keystone State last year totalled $527 million as compared with $162 million ten years ago.

The seriousness of the situation and just how it will affect the pocketbook of each and every Pennsylvanian, whether on farm, or in the city, is illustrated by this comment from a department official:

"It would appear that for the next three years our local communities and the General Assembly must face squarely the problem that increased expenditures in public education must follow a similar pattern of increases as that during the decade which we are just concluding."

Mrs. Burr Heads County Rebekahs

CRENSHAW—Mrs. Mary Jones Burr, of Ebensburg, was elected president of Cambria County Union of Rebekah Lodges at an all-day session Saturday in IOOF Hall. She is a member of Ebensburg Lodge 337 and a past state assembly president of the lodge.

Mrs. Burr first vice president last year, succeeds Mrs. Lena McCordell of Cresson in the top office.

Other officers are: Mrs. Virginia Stuckey Brown, Johnstown, first vice president; Mrs. Mary Murray, Johnstown, second vice president; Mrs. Flora Bricker, Glasgow, third vice president; Mrs. Arvilla Montgomery, Cresson, fourth vice president; Mrs. Kathryn Rudolph, Ebensburg, secretary; and Mrs. Elizabeth Shaulis, Johnstown, treasurer.

New officers will be installed something this fall at a meeting in Ebensburg.

Approximately 150 persons from the county met and lodged in Bellwood, Hollidaysburg, Clearfield and Coalport attended the meeting. Several state assemblies of officers also were present. The afternoon and evening

Be Sure Your Eye Glasses Are Right For You

"Why did you trump my eye in that last hand, partner?" queried North.

"Couldn't see the card clearly and thought it was a deuce," replied South.

South needs new glasses—and ophthalmologists might likely recommend trifocals, to replace the bifocals.

Persons past middle age are subject to presbyopia which is a lessening of the power of accommodation from loss of elasticity of the lens of the eye, causing the near point of distinct vision to be moved further from the eye.

Not only card players, but desk workers, musicians, housewives with ironing after age of about fifty, suffer this blurred intermediate zone between good reading and distant vision offered through bifocals.

Trifocals increase the range of useful vision so as to give clearness at arms length and beyond and since they are precision instruments, they must be perfectly fitted.

New developments in lenses include more than trifocals, which are not a recent creation but have come into more extensive use in the past ten years.

Plastic lenses offer many advantages over glass lenses, being lighter, safer, resistant to fogging and also resistant to a wearing and grinding splatter.

Because they are as hard as glass, plastic lenses are more likely to suffer from scratch, although with care they will last several years.

Contact lenses have been improved so considerably that it is estimated 85 per cent of prospective wearers can be fitted satisfactorily.

Fluid is no longer required, making insertion of contact lenses easier and the wearing time longer, upwards of 12 hours.

A rare type of microscopic vision and telescopic lens is now available for those with subnormal vision.

And hope of natural vision to those without lens of the eye is offered with insertion of a plastic lens at the time of cataract extraction, a benefit not possible with previous conventional lenses.

—Blair county is the only county to be named for a local resident, John Blair.
