

Facts About Cambria County

By MARLON BAUMGARDNER
Ebensburg, Pa.
CARROLLTOWN AND CARROLL TWP.

The ancestors of Dr. Lawrence F. Flick came from Alsace, in France, and landed in the State of New York for a short time. They were ardent admirers of the Prince-Priest, Gallitzin, and finally landed in the Gallitzin settlement and made their home there. Their children married and several moved to other places.

This was true of George P. Flick, for he and Miss Elizabeth Sachsbacher were married by Father Lesmke.

Dr. Lawrence F. Flick was born in Carrolltown on Aug. 10, 1856, in a brick house that still stands back from the highway a short distance away from what is known as Strittmatter's corner on the road from Carrolltown to Ebensburg.

Dr. Flick was a student of tuberculosis, then called consumption, and he himself fell a victim of it and could not practice his profession. He went west as was advised to victims. While there he studied what he thought was possibly a cure—fresh air, exercise and lots of rest. Others were later aided.

His results eventually wound up with three sanatoriums in Pennsylvania—one the state sanatorium at Cresson in his home area. He was a hard worker in the matter and did great service to the cause. It would be fitting if a memorial were erected at his old birthplace, and a marker pointing to it placed along the highway.

The house, now over 100 years old, is located to the east of Route 219 and should be preserved in memory of this illustrious doctor and the work he is noted for nationally.

He was a devout Catholic and wrote much about Prince Gallitzin. Let us wake up before it is too late; preserve his home and reverse his memory.

Carroll Twp. is quite famous because it has a railroad tunnel at the curve of the highway not far from Carrolltown. This township is equally famous for having been the place where the German trader rested his horse and slept at Hart's Sleeping Place. It was on the old Kittanning Path which comes into Cambria County just above a Horseshoe Curve on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Carroll Twp. is rich in old history. We should be familiar with these old historical landmarks. We may spend too much of our time in travel, yet we are rich in the things that count at home.

St. Joseph's church is in the area of Hart's Sleeping Place and still is the original building, although the logs are now covered with weatherboarding and shingles.

A cemetery surrounding this church holds the remains of the defender of Gallitzin, John Weakland, and his wife. The writer of these articles often has visited this church and admired the legends that are told of it. He has been in the loft and in the little apartments which Prince Gallitzin occupied while ministering to the people. The church is being disgraced by the surrounding land being subjected to strip mining. Business makes little consideration for what others have admired and placed in their trust. My plea is that we reverence these places of dignity and preserve them rather than see them fall heir to the destructive forces which tend to destroy.

This territory is very much steeped in fine old history and we should keep it fresh in the minds of our youth. Local history is a living history. No nation is greater than its inhabitants make it.

The name of Emericus Bender thrills me, for he served others and was a promoter of the good things of life. He was one of the early petitioners to form a new township but he failed in his attempts, but stave to make things better. I was going to write about the division of Carroll Twp. into two townships—East and West Carroll—on Sept. 5, 1910. These were the last townships formed in Cambria County.

Simple Budget Dishes

By ALICE DEMHOFF
HERE are some simple dishes that are easy on the budget. Salmon-and-Macaroni Casserole makes a good luncheon or supper dish. To serve 4, combine 1 c. cooked macaroni, 2 tsp. butter, salt, 1/2 tsp. salt. Arrange in bottom of greased baking dish. Combine 1 c. flaked canned or leftover cooked salmon with 1 can condensed tomato soup, 1 c. sour cream, 1/2 tsp. salt, 2 tsp. chopped sweet pickle, 1/4 tsp. powdered sugar and 1/2 tsp. dried parsley flakes. Pour over macaroni. Bake 20 to 25 min. in 350° F. oven.

Cottage Pie Old-fashioned though it may be, Cottage Pie still offers one of the nicest methods of using up cooked beef, veal or lamb. To serve 4, put 1/2 lb. chopped, cooked meat in casserole. Add salt and pepper to taste and 1 c. hot water or gravy. Mix 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 c. hot milk, 1/2 cup butter, 1/2 tsp. celery salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, 1/2 tsp. garlic salt with 2 c. hot, mashed potatoes and spread on meat. Garnish well with paprika. Bake at 400° F. until bubbling brown.

Chicken Fricassee For something special in the line of fricassee of chicken, try the following recipe, which makes 6 to 8 portions. Have 2 "fryers" of 2 1/2 to 3 lb. each. Clean poultry and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Melt 4 oz. butter in large, heavy frying pan or deep Dutch oven. Turn heat low. Finely chop 2 medium-sized onions and spread in pot; add chicken. Cover and sauté gently about 10 min., taking care to brown neither chicken nor onions. Scald, skin and cut up 4 medium-sized, ripe tomatoes. Add to chicken with 2 tsp. paprika. Stir together gently; cook slowly another 10 minutes. Mix 3 c. thin cream or rich top milk with 1/2 tsp. baking soda and pour over chicken. Mix gently. Cook, covered, until chicken is thoroughly cooked, about 35 min. To serve, remove chicken to platter and strain sauce over top of chicken, although whole sauce may be served, if preferred.

Lamb Curry Try a curry to take care of leftover lamb. Melt 3 tsp. butter in heavy skillet; add 3 medium onions, coarsely chopped. Cook until onion is slightly browned. Blend in 2 tsp. flour, 1/2 tsp. salt, add 2 c. water, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Add 3 tsp. curry powder, 1 bouillon cube, 3 c. cubed roast lamb. Cover and simmer 20 min. Serve on mounds of hot, cooked rice.
