

Frankie Class of '58 Displays Spirit In Seeking Donations Hope to Aid College To Expand Facilities

The Class of 1958 of St. Francis College, Loretto, has inaugurated a drive to aid the college in its general development program. This is the first of its kind to be inaugurated at St. Francis and it is believed to be the first of its kind in any school in the nation.

The freshman class, through the efforts of team captain, will ask each freshman to contribute $20.00 to the school to be paid at $5.00 each year while at St. Francis.

This is a student endeavor which was promoted by a desire to help their school and not to wait until after graduation. In effect, as a freshman spokesman stated, they are alumni before they graduate. The spokesman also continued by saying that the idea of donating a sum of money to the school on behalf of the 1958 freshman class was a spontaneous idea, not just one or two, but of many of the freshmen.

A college authority stated it is indeed a great tribute to the freshman class to realize at this time the importance of their alma mater.

The unique drive is being moderated by the head of the school's business department, Albert Zambucki. He said he was very pleased, and he believes it is the only college in the country in which freshmen are taking active part in a building program sponsored by the school.

Fledge cards are being circulated by team captains throughout the freshman class. Team captains in this area are John Holz of Ashville and James Dugan of Twin Rocks.

Rev. Father Xavier Crowley, president of the college said, "I have always been proud of the school spirit displayed by our freshman class. It was a pleasant surprise to hear of this additional display of spirit. I am confident that the freshmen will attain the goal they have set for themselves, just as they have succeeded in all their past endeavors."

Lilly Coal Concern Plans Reopening Of Gallitzin Mine Former Argyle Pit Gets New Ownership

New life has been breathed into the Argyle Coal Co. mine at Gallitzin which is listed as still having a life expectancy of about 15 years.

W. H. Piper & Co., headed by Leslie Piper of Lilly, has taken over the operation and will resume production on a small scale starting "in about several weeks."

The mine has been closed down since early this year when it fell a victim to the generally hard times in the soft coal business. Last year it marked only 1,472 tons.

Paul E. Henze of Johnstown is president and general manager of Argyle, which is selling out.

Mr. Piper reported that several weeks' work will be required to make the mine ready for production. He said employment and coal output will be geared to market conditions. If an increased demand develops, more men will be put to work.

Argyle bought the property in 1924 from Inland Coal Co. and operated in the E seam.

However, the coal in this vein was exhausted in 1930 and in the same year the company opened the Bennington B mine, located in Blair County just across the Cambria County line.

The peak year was in 1941, when Argyle had a force of 150 miners and produced approximately 90,000 tons of coal.

Following World War II, however, the output gradually declined and the force was reduced to about 50 men or less.

Torquato Seeking Defense Plants For Pennsylvania Confers With U. S. Secretary of Labor

John R. Torquato, Johnstown, Pennsylvania secretary of labor and industry, during the past week conferred with federal officials at Washington regarding the possibility of locating defense and atomic energy installations in Pennsylvania.

Accompanied by A. Allen Sulcove, executive director of the State Bureau of Employment Security, Torquato met with representatives of about a dozen federal agencies and then talked with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

The agencies represented at a conference in the Labor Department included defense, small business and others that deal with community problems.

The conference was presided over by Assistant Secretary of Labor Rocco C. Siciliano.

Torquato told reporters he contended that Pennsylvania is being bypassed in the government's aircraft, guided missile and atomic programs and urged that Pennsylvania be considered as the site for future installations.

Not only is the Keystone State a logical location for such installations, he said, but new industries are needed to put the state's unemployed to work.

Mr. Torquato said he also emphasized the need for preserving Pennsylvania's coal reserves as a national asset.

He found Mitchell "well informed and interested" in Pennsylvania's problem," he said.

His visit to Washington was in connection with Gov. Leader's economic recovery program. He said he planned additional conferences in the future.
