Fritz Morley of Barnesboro, the western vice commander of the American Legion, will be honored at a testimonial dinner Wednesday evening of next week, Oct. 26, in the Barnesboro American Legion Post Home.

Plans for the event were discussed at Tuesday evening's regular meeting of the Cambria County Legion Committee in the Paul Kuhn Post home, Blandburg. Eighteen county posts were represented at the session.

John F. Stay of Philadelphia state Legion commander, will head a delegation of state officers expected to attend the testimonial, which will get under way at 6:30 p. m. (EST).

In 1951, he was chosen the county's Legionnaire of the Year.

A special tribute also was paid to Walter Stinson of Ebensburg, who served as county secretary for 15 years before ill health forced his retirement recently.

Mr. Stinson, now a patient in Allegheny Hospital, was appointed honorary secretary of the District 20 and was awarded an honorary life membership in the Ebensburg post.

A new county treasurer was appointed. He is Edward J. Gries of Parkhill, who was appointed by Chairman Joseph C. Giles to succeed Paul Lowman who has removed from the district.

District Commander Jones appointed Tony Hillard of Loretto as a district deputy commander. He also announced that all county posts have installed new officers for the year.

William Stein of Crescon announced that plans are under way for the annual county high school district contest, which will feature sports over schools in their districts to participate.

A trophy will be presented to the first county post to go over the top of its membership quota. Member rolls should be submitted to Harrisburg for tabulation prior to Nov. 11.

John Carroll Second As New List Released

Franklin High School team, who last week end didn't play any Inter-County Conference football, look over sole possession of first place in the Western Division of the Inter-County Football Conference as John Carroll, which previously shared the lead with the Blue Jays, dropped to the No. 2 spot, despite a victory over Nanty Glo.

Dealers Take Part In Dryer Buyer Days Promotion In Area

Dealers Throughout the Area are Joining the Fall Season's Biggest Appliance Sales Event

Dealers throughout the area are joining the Fall season's biggest appliance sales event—"Dryer Buyer Days."

The special sale, running from October 15 to November 14, features a money-saving deal on the increasingly popular electric clothes dryer, which is fast becoming one of the most-wanted items in the appliance field. Home laundering experts attribute the recent rapid increase in dryer sales to the fact that homemakers are finding it one of the greatest "Wife Savers" now available, eliminating heavy work and weather worries from washday.

During "Dryer Buyer Days" appliance dealers, distributors and Pennsylvania Electric Company are cooperating to give residents of this area an opportunity to take advantage of a very special offer on electric clothes dryers.

In addition to the special offer, participating dealers are offering their customers a free, no obligation, opportunity to win one of the automatic electric clothes dryers being given away in the territory served by Penelac. Full details on the free dryer can be obtained from any cooperating dealer, easily identified by dryer displays and a sign reading, "Register Here to Win the Electric Clothes Dryer."

In the event a Penelac customer buys a dryer during "Dryer Buyer Days" and later wins one in the drawing to be held Nov. 21, the full price paid for their dryer will be refunded.

The current "Dryer Buyer Days" activity is a repeat performance of a highly successful campaign presented last fall by dryer dealers in which an unusual number of homemakers took advantage of the sale's terms to change to the modern electric way of drying clothes.

AIR POLLUTION

At least 10,000 communities in the United States have a local air pollution problem. There is a considerable lack of definite knowledge and understanding as to what its results from contaminants are. Several notable instances of polluted air have resulted in death and illness, notably the one at Donora, Pa., in 1948.

Do you know that three out of four drownings occur within 60 feet of shore.

Upswing In Coal Industry Is Predicted By J. R. Forsythe

Extreme optimism over the future of the coal industry is voiced in Pittsburgh Tuesday of this week by Joseph R. Forsythe, general manager of the publication, Keystone Coal Buyers' Manual.

Mr. Forsythe, in an address to the Credo Club of the Credit Association of Western Pennsylvania said:

"The coal industry has entered a new era of rapid development and expansion which by 1970 will lead to a 100 percent increase—a potential production of 80-million tons of coal—over 1954's output."

"And within the next five years the industry will reach a potential production level of 500 million tons, or an increase of 50 percent over 1954."

Mr. Forsythe said he was basing his predictions on high demands for energy throughout the world and increased production within the coal industry.

The speaker cited eight major factors supporting the growth potential of the coal industry:

- (1)—Coal's largest consumer, the electric utilities, now have under contract additional facilities which at a valid estimate of a 37 percent increase in coal use can be made for the 1955-60 period.
- (2)—The aluminum industry, faced with a possibility of expansion at a rate even higher, is turning to coal.
- (3)—Overseas export demand is now near an all-time high with every likelihood that it will establish new tonnage records in the next few years.
- (4)—The competition of gas and oil has passed its peak.
- (5)—Coal's top management is developing new techniques in the mining, transportation and in merchandising.
- (6)—The steel industry, dependent on high quality coking coal, is finding it necessary to use coal in a new way. Anthracite coal will be used in the pelletizing of iron ore, which will supply immense quantities of iron ore to steel furnaces, and bituminous coal will be used to supply the electricity required.
- (7)—Chemical industry holds coal's greatest potential for its growth. The development of low temperature carbonization, both for energy and by-products for chemical use is a big factor. In addition, the possibility of making coal to supplant diminishing reserves, is growing.
- (8)—Experimentation with the coal-burning steam turbines is now on the verge of success. It is now a possibility that these units replace diesel for railroad use as well as diesel replaced steamers. Of even greater importance may be other turbine uses in industry.

Mr. Forsythe said:

"To meet the challenge of this growth potential, the coal industry must develop production capacity over the next 15 years at a rate 160 percent higher than its record for the past 15 years. It must invest billions of dollars in new properties and develop new and also must contribute to the welfare and development of the communities in which it expands."

Miners' Hospital Lays Plans For Reorganization Meeting

Additional Parking Facilities Being Studied

Board of Trustees of Miners' Hospital, Spangler, began preparations for its annual reorganization at a meeting last Thursday evening in the hospital.

The November meeting—Thursday, Nov. 17—was scheduled to coincide with a meeting of the hospital Board of Incorporators. At that meeting, the incorporators will move to fill two vacancies on the 18-member Board of Trustees.

Annual reorganization will take place at the January meeting.

It was announced that charity cases which have been cared for during the past several months without state reimbursement have placed a financial strain on the hospital.

The board authorized measures which will assist the hospital to make up the deficit created by the delay in state aid.

Dr. James L. Fieser, hospital administrator, reported that Dr. F. H. Arstad and Thomas J. Berret, administrator and administrative assistant, respectively, of Johnstown are, office of the United Mine Workers of America Welfare & Retirement Fund, visited the hospital last week.

He informed the board that a blueprint of the hospital plant was given to the visitors to be forwarded to national UMW offices in Washington for study.

UMW architectural consultants recently spent some time at the hospital and are expected to return next month to advise on means of getting maximum use of the present plant and on possible alterations.

Improvements on Baker Street, which adjoins the hospital, are scheduled to begin within the next two or three weeks, Dr. Fieser reported. He was authorized to investigate the possibility and costs of expanding parking facilities on hospital property near the street.

The administrator also reported that St. John's Episcopal Church of Barnesboro, through Rev. Jean P. Jordan, pastor, provided the hospital with a quantity of canned goods and fruits and vegetables from the church's annual Harvest Festival.
