

Big Holiday Train Show Now Feature At Planetarium

The Christmastown Railroad, largest train display in Buhl Planetarium's history, will have a featured role in the Planetarium's Christmas season presentation at the popular Western Pennsylvania site located at Federal and West Ohio Streets, North Side, Pittsburgh.

Beginning last Thursday, four separate trains, including passenger and freight, will run on three hundred and fifty feet of track through an 800 square foot winter wonderland. The trains speed through a country village, under and over trestles and bridges, and tunnel through snow-covered, tree-clad hills cut into the broad country landscape. Signals and warning lights operate and gate crossings open and close as the miniature Lionel cars go by. Sky shows will be at 2:15 and 8:30 p. m. weekdays; 11:00 a. m., 2:15 and 8:30 p. m., Saturdays, and 2:15, 4:15 and 8:30 p. m. on Sundays, except Christmas Day, when "The Star of Bethlehem" will be presented at 3:15 and 8:30 p. m.

All residents of this area are cordially invited to visit Pittsburgh's Buhl Planetarium and Institute of Popular Science.
