

FREELAND TRIBUNE.

VOL. II. No. 29.

FREELAND, PA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1890.

$1.00 PER YEAR.

BRIEF ITEMS.

—John J. Brogan, who recently disposed of his stock, has taken a situation with John C. Berner.

—The Freeland Game Protective Club offers a reward of $10 to any person giving information of the game laws being violated.

—Monday was "return day" for the constables of this county. From their reports the people of this section are obeying the law.

—The restaurant at the corner of Pine and Walnut Streets is offered for rent from April 1, 1890. Apply to Mrs. Hannah McCole, on the premises.

—The Union Insurance Co. of San Francisco was organized in 1865 with a cash capital of $750,000, fully paid in gold. Their agent here is W. A. Grimes.

—The fair at Eckley will remain open for some time yet. On Saturday evening a grand cake walk will take place and several articles will be chanced off.

—The committee of arrangements of the St. Ann's Pioneer Corps have elected a vote of thanks to all who assisted them in making their ball such a grand success.

—Freeland borough night school opened on Monday with Prof. J. B. Laubach as teacher. Nearly thirty pupils are enrolled. Several of the Foster schools have also opened.

—Communications upon local or general topics are always welcomed, provided the writer's name accompanies the correspondence. Let us have your views upon passing events.

—Wm. Gillespie, a driver at No. 2 Drifton, had his right foot caught between the car-wheel and the rib Monday morning. The foot was badly squeezed and will prevent him from working for some time.

—The New Year resolutions made by some of our young men partook of the nature of a revolution in their mode of living. They have already undergone the process of evolution and are back to the old ways of '89 again.

—At the Young Men's T. A. B. reading room on Sunday evening a large and instructive address was made by James F. Judge, editor of the Scranton Eagle and ex-secretary of the diocesan union. D. J. McCarthy, vice president of the diocesan union, and Mr. C. A. Johnson.

—According to the old method of counting days and years last Monday was Christmas, and was celebrated as such by the followers of the Russian or Eastern Church. Services were held in St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church at 11 a. m. that day and were attended by a number of the congregation.

—The evils of tobacco smoking have once more been terribly illustrated in the case of a Reading woman who died on Friday. She began smoking at the age of twenty-five and her use of the weed was so excessive that she brought herself to a premature grave at the age of one hundred and two.

—The first annual ball of the Tigers Athletic Association, to be held at the opera house on the 17th inst., has every appearance of a great success. Up to Monday evening 161 tickets had been disposed of to the sporting people and business men of this vicinity. Depeiro's orchestra is engaged to furnish the dancing music.

—Mrs. Catherine McGeehan, aged 64 years, died at her residence in the Points last evening. She had been in poor health for some time past, but not until Saturday did she become seriously ill. The funeral takes place about 11 a. m. to-morrow. The remains will be taken to St. Ann's church and afterwards conveyed to St. Gabriel's cemetery, Hazleton.

—The law passed at the last session of the legislature, making the office of constable elective for three years, is not generally understood as covering those who were elected last spring, and in order to be sure and come within its provisions Constables Sault and Quigley of Foster and Freeland will be candidates before their constituents at the February election.

—A handsome souvenir plush programme, very artistically gotten up, will be presented to each person buying a ticket for the fireman's ball next Thursday evening. The programmes will be ready in a few days and will be placed on exhibition. The proceeds of the ball are to be applied to furnishing a library for the members. The firemen promise a big night to their friends.

—The case of the Commonwealth vs. Owen Williams, Charles Sault, prosecutor, was tried at Wilkes-Barre on Monday. Williams was acquitted, and the costs placed upon Constable Sault. Foster's finest, however, does not relish the work of footing bills and Charles swore that he did not own a dollar or a dollar's worth of goods in the whole wide world. He was then discharged as insolvent and the county paid another unnecessary bill.

TRUTH IN A NUTSHELL.

The following paragraph expresses a volume of truth: "One-third of the fools in the country think they can beat the lawyers in expounding law. One-half think they can beat the doctor healing the sick. Two-thirds of them think they can beat the ministers preaching the gospel, and all of them know they can't beat the editor in running a newspaper."

Burglars Break Out of Jail.

Tuesday's Newsdealer tells how two of the burglars arrested for robbing the store of J. C. Berner and the warehouse of the Freeland Beef Co. on November 10 took French leave from the county jail Sunday night. It says that some time during the night, it is believed shortly after midnight, Thomas Conway and Michael Patterson made their escape by a bold and ingenious plan. They are members of the gang of burglars who were arrested near Freeland some time ago and were in jail awaiting trial for breaking open a couple of safes in that town.

They occupied together a double cell on the upper tier in the main ward. The ceiling of these cells is composed of two large and solid slabs of slate. The prisoners broke two short iron bars off one of the beds and commenced operations on one corner of the ceiling. They broke away sufficient of the wall to allow of the insertion of their crow bars between the top of the wall and the slate slab and then succeeded in breaking off one corner of the slab and making a hole large enough to crawl through.

On emerging from the cell they found themselves in the top between the roof and the cells, and making their way to where a large ventilator rises above the roof they broke their way out. Crawling to the end of the building they succeeded in getting to the ground by means of a rope made out of their bed clothing.

Varden Brockway did not discover their escape until yesterday morning, when he instantly set about effecting their recapture. He put a couple of detectives on their trail, telegraphed and telephoned to every station in this section of the state and had handbills printed giving their description and offering a reward of $100 for the arrest and return of each of them. The descriptions given in the handbills are as follows:

Thomas Conway, about 20 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches height, slim build, weight about 145, dark hair and eyes and freckled face.

Michael Patterson, about 20 years of age, height 5 feet 4 inches, heavy build, weight about 145, dark hair and eyes, stub nose, soft finger on right hand.

Rinker and a Resurrected Dog.

During the hearing of the appeal of Daniel Boyle of Centre Street before the judges on Monday evening, in reference to the exonerating of dog tax, some very interesting facts were brought to light. Mr. Boyle stated that over two years ago he owned a dog, which showed symptoms of rabies, and in order to get rid of the dog he paid High Constable Rinker to kill it. Rinker having a pair of shoes on was fearful lest the canine would go for his feet, and handed the revolver to Mr. Boyle to shoot, which he did. Rinker took away what appeared to be a dead dog, buried it, drew his pay from the borough treasury for doing so, and in eight days thereafter the dog was back at his former home, apparently none the worse for having been buried (?). The dog was subsequently killed by Mr. Boyle and now, after being dead two years, he is placed on the assessment list by His Highness.

To Drain the Ebervale Mine.

That there is millions of dollars worth of coal in the flooded Ebervale mine has for some time been disputed, and it was rumored that the place would never be revived. From the movements on behalf of the company the latter assertion appears untrue. We have just learned that the company will tunnel from the mine through Buck Mountain into Butler Valley and drain the water now in the mine into the little Nescopeck Creek. It is understood that the company has already purchased the right of way from a number of property holders along that stream, while others will consent under any circumstances, claiming that in case the banks would at any time overflow the culm would be washed over their lands and thus ruin them forever.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Report of the Regular Monthly Meeting Held on Monday Evening.

Council met in regular session Monday evening with Messrs. Johnson, Goepfert, Donop and Bachman present. Minutes of the last regular and special sessions were read and approved. The following bills were read, approved and ordered paid:

Freeland Water Co., rent of plums $60 00
Progress, publishing new ordinance 50
Penn'a Globe Gaslight Co. 33 00
John M. Powell, janitor 8 00
John M. Cunniss, lumber 8 38
M. Halpin, repairs on wrenches and tools 3 00
Wm. Williamson, supplies 3 23

The burgess' report was read, showing receipts to be $25.50; police service and commission, $11.50; amount due treasurer, $12.00. The report was accepted and ordered placed on file.

The treasurer's report was presented and read as follows:

Balance at last meeting.....$388 48
Received from collect..... 200 00
Received from burgess..... 8 50
Received from Ex-Col. Williamson..... 35 69

Expenditure..... 6832 67
Balance on hand.....$493 91

The report was accepted.

The report of the street committee in reference to the purchase of property on Pine Street was received and laid over until the next meeting.

A petition of citizens residing on the northern side of Washington and Centre Streets was presented, praying that council place an extra lamp on each street, and on motion it was decided to place two more lamps on those streets.

Daniel Boyle presented himself before council and asked to be exonerated from paying a dog tax, claiming that he did not own a dog for the past two years. Mr. Boyle was exonerated, having proven that there was a mistake in his assessment.

Complaint was made to the council that the planing mill property on Centre Street was fast becoming a resort for boys, and there appeared danger of setting it on fire. The burgess was instructed to notify the owner or agent of the property to have it fenced or boarded up.

The janitor was instructed to procure a book and keep account of all purchases made by him. The burgess was instructed to call on the owner of the council room, hose house or lock up.

Council then adjourned to meet on February 3.

Want to Hear Them Again.

The Welsh people held a National Eisteddfod in Chicago last week, the exercises including musical contests that attracted large and cultured audiences. Some years ago when the main building of the Centennial Exhibition was still standing the Welsh singing societies of Pennsylvania met there and gave concerts (the grand prize of which was won by the Plymouth society) that surprised and delighted all who attended, but unfortunately few except Welshmen knew what was taking place, and consequently the audiences were not as large as the splendid chorus singing should have attracted. The Welsh societies should come down again from the coal regions and let Philadelphians know beforehand the treat that is in store for them.—Phila. Ledger.

Gas Explosions at the Nottingham.

At the Nottingham colliery, Plymouth, on Sunday evening, Superintendent William Beckheiser and John Beckheiser entered the mine and ignited a body of gas. The explosion that followed seriously injured Beckheiser and damaged the workings.

The following evening another explosion occurred and six miners had a narrow escape. One of them, Thomas Richards, was badly burned about the head and body.

Some Things We Should Have Before '91.

Before the dawn of 1891 there are many things remedial to the town that we should like to see, among them being:

A decided movement upon the part of the borough council looking toward the paving of Centre Street, in fact, some movement looking toward the betterment of all the streets of the borough.

A number of the buildings that now adorn Centre Street make way for the erection of good substantial business houses, such as the town can be proud of.

Freeland, Five Points, South Heberton, Bivertown, Alvirntown and Woodsdale consolidated and working under one municipal government.

The pavements—Oh, the pavements. How we would like to see some of those old up and down pavements and the plank fences done away with and good, solid flags or bricks take their places. This is too much to look for we fear.

An energetic board of trade organized that would be successful in securing the establishment of several new industries which will give employment to hundreds of our men and boys now dependent upon the mines for a livelihood.

The Lehigh Valley open up their Upper Lehigh branch and continue the extension to Glen Summit, thus giving Freeland direct communication with the county seat.

Good conscientious citizens elected to all the borough and township offices, regardless of their political affiliations.

A first-class base ball league in the Lehigh region, with Freeland represented by a first-class club.

The widening of Centre Street above Front, and the opening of Chestnut from Washington to Pine.

Saturday's Rooster Fight.

A rooster fight for $75 a side took place at South Heberton on Saturday between the birds owned or backed by two prominent sporting men of town. Over one hundred persons witnessed the affair, all the neighboring towns sending large delegations. A well-known gentleman from Lower Carbon acted as referee and stakeholder. The Philadelphia rules were to govern the contest, but several deviations were agreed upon by both parties before the fighting commenced. The birds should have fought upon ground floor, but carpet was substituted; they should have been weighed in an enclosed bag and 2 ounces deducted for feathers; they were trimmed and then weighed instead; one man from each side was placed with the opposite parties to watch the heeling, and it was also agreed that no dead birds be fought in the pit, thus doing away with the necessity of counting and saving much time. The main consisted of five battles and at the conclusion of the fourth each side had won two. So far everything proceeded smoothly, except that the referee had neglected to cut and examine the heels of all the birds after each battle but the first. Excitement ran high when the first began and the struggle was short, the bird owned by the up-town party killing its opponent. This, according to the agreement that no dead birds be fought, ended the contest, and after the dead bird was removed from the pit the winner picked up his rooster and also the bird owned by the up-town party returned with it, and although it was understood that there would be no counting, he began to count and demanded that the Phila. rules be strictly followed.

The other side claims that even though counting was allowed the owner of the dead bird had no right to do so, as the crippled bird did not show fight last. The referee gave his decision in favor of the dead bird, but exceptions were immediately taken from this, the winners declaring that they had been unfairly dealt with and that the referee was interested in the last battle, having bet $5, which debarred him from fulfilling the position. They offered to fight another battle in order to settle the dispute, but the other side would not accept. Nearly all bets went according to the referee's decision, but the stakes yet remain unpaid until satisfactory terms are agreed upon by both parties. The up-town party offers to fight one or three battles to decide the matter, or will let the stakes and make another match for $150 a side. The referee has been asked if the decision given on Saturday is final, but no answer was received up to this morning.

Congressional Bills.

Among the bills introduced in the house of representatives on Monday was one by Representative Osborne to regulate the expenses of candidates for congress. It provides that it shall be lawful for a candidate for congress to spend money for printing and for the dissemination of information to the public, and for political meetings, demonstrations and conventions. It is made a crime to expend money for any other purpose, or with the intention of influencing the vote of a person to whom money may be directly or indirectly paid.

Representative Kerr introduced a bill that imposes a tax of $1 on each immigrant, to be expended in caring for them under the direction of the secretary of the treasury, who is given entire control of the immigrants. The bill provides for the appointment of inspectors in each port, the salaries to range from $1,500 to $2,000, and to make the duty of these inspectors to look after the immigrant and see that none are allowed to land who are excluded under the provisions of the law. The classes excluded are socialists, anarchists or any person who is engaged in any act tending to overthrow this system of government, and also persons who come under contract to labor or who have had their passage paid or been otherwise aided in immigrating to the United States who are unable to care for themselves.

Representative Reilly introduced a bill to appropriate $100,000 for the construction of a new public building at Pottsville.

That Sewing Machine Case.

The sewing machine agent arrested at Wilkes-Barre had a hearing before Alderman Donohue last week. He is an agent for the Singer Company and went, accompanied by the deputy sheriff, to take a machine from the residence of Thomas R. Lyons. Instead of allowing the sheriff to take the machine Maxfield seized it himself, and when Mrs. Lyons objected pushed her roughly away, throwing her down over a chair and sprained her ankle.

"It is about time that you sewing machine agents began to understand that everything you enter a man's house and run around in, you should be ready to defend the aidman in delivering his judgment in the case. You cannot go into a house and throw the people around any way you choose and take out your machines by brute force. Some fine day you will run against a man who will take the law into his own hands and break your heads for you. I shall hold you in $500 bail for your appearance at court on this charge of assault and battery."—Newsdealer.

Weekly Coal Report.

The anthracite coal trade begins the new year in a quiet and unsatisfactory condition. The snap and activity which should rule at this period of the year is wanting. There is no demand for the domestic sizes worth mentioning, and they continue to accumulate at the tide-water shipping points. The restriction of production continues, and during Christmas week but 47,000 tons were mined, while the output of coal last week was barely half a million tons. The tide-water shipments of anthracite are very light, and the line and city trade are taking but little coal. The first large contract of the season has been secured by the Reading Company, which has contracted to furnish 200,000 tons of broken coal to the Manhattan El-vated Railroad of New York. While the company's sales agent declines to state at what price the contract was secured, it is rumored that $3.53 per ton delivered alongside at New York was the figure that secured it, but we are informed that the actual price to be paid is slightly higher. During the past five years the Lehigh Valley Company has been the successful bidder for this contract, and it is stated that last year the prices received by that company was $3.65 per ton, while in one of the preceding years but $3.45 was obtained. The total amount of anthracite coal sent to market for the week ending

December 28, as reported by the several carrying companies, was 471,780 tons, compared with 460,886 tons in the corresponding week last year, an increase of 10,902 tons. The total amount of anthracite mined thus far in the year 1889 was 35,224,116 tons, compared with 35,064,247 tons for the same period last year, a decrease of 2,840,131 tons.—Ledger.
