Joseph Birkbeck, President. —The Young Men's literary entertain-ment on Sunday evening was well at-tended, and was opened by Peter Carr, who gave some very good reasons as to "How to make a Temperance Society a success." The balance of the programme, as announced in last week's issue, was carried through, and the one for next Sunday announced, after which the meet-ing adjourned. We understand that for a few months the entertainment will be attended only by members of the Society, after which the public will be invited. —The funeral of Watkin Evans, who after which the public will be invited. —The funeral of Watkin Evans, who died at Drifton last week, took place on Saturday and was attended by a large number of friends and rela-tives. The I. O. of O. F. and I. O. of R. M., of which he was a member, also attended in a body; the latter tak-ing charge of the procession. Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Ashland, preached the funeral services. Interment was made in Free-land cemetery. The following were the pall bearers: William Mellon, Christ Miller, Thomas Parry, Thomas Argust, William Drasher and William Silk.

of the Results to be obtained. The Grand Musical Eisteddfod to be held in Yannes' Opera House, Saturday next, is one that should interest all classes. Its orgin dates back to the an-cient bards. The meaning of the word "Eisteddfod" is from Eistedd to sit. The first eminent bard of whose period of existence we have a distinct record was Myrddin, the bard of Prince Emrys, the first Merlin of romance, who fourish-ed about the year 450. The most gifted among modern bards was perhaps Dafydd, as Gwylem sometimes called the Ovid of Wales, the poet of love and song.

Mine Reports. Mine Inspector, G. M. Williams, of the third anthracite district, has just com-pleted his report for 1889. It shows the total amount of coal mined in his dis-trict to be 7,330,149 tons, while in 1888 it was 8,384,493 tons, a decrease of 1,054,-374. The number of fatal accidents were 67 and the non-fatal 214. Such general cessation of business in the mines throughout the district has not been known in years, and great distress is resulting. Thousands are entirely destitute of the means of living, and there is little prospect of work ahead. The report of Inspector Blewitt, of the first anthracite district, for the year 1889 tons as 8,594,949, a decrease of 1,286,929 tons, compared with the previous year. Selections—by the band. Robert Emmet. The Robert Emmet Social Club, of Freeland, have postponed their annual en-ertainment until after lent, and instead vill co-operate with the St. Gabriel's, of fazleton, St. Ann's, of Drifton, and the Young Men's Temperance Society, of Freeland, in rendering the "Historical Drama of Robert Emmet," the Martyr of Irish liberty, at the Freeland Opera House, Wednesday evening, March 5th, 890.

The proceeds of the entertainment are to be devoted towards the fund being raised by the above societies for the en-dowment of the Father Mathew chair, in the Catholic University at Washing-

This grand drama, together with the costumes and scenery, should be seen to be appreciated. As the play goes on the audience is held spell hourd until the final scene. The trial, speech from the dock and sentence of Emmet are instructive to the lovers of liberty. There is nothing in the play to hurt the sensibilities of the most fastidious, but on the contrary will inspire the beholder with a more fervent love of liberty, and a harred of the oppressor, no matter to what land he may lay claim. We hope, that on this occasion, to see the spacious half filled from floor to galleries. The price of admission has been placed at tickets can be purchased at Geritz's jewelry store, opposite the Trancxs of fice.
