EDITOR TRIBUNE:—Soon, we are told, the post-office will have a change in its head. Before such takes place we desire to note our hearty appreciation of the old Postmaster's efforts to do his full duty to the patrons of the office—the general public.

Perhaps, the best endorsement that could be given him would be the expressed wish, that his successor will be as courteous and obliging, and follows in his steps in the matter of hours for opening and closing the office.

He was a young man, being but 29 years of age, married and the father of two children.

Being reared right here, and holding the office of Justice of the Peace for a second term, he was thoroughly identified with everything that pertained to the betterment of this section of the country; and as such he possessed the confidence of the whole people. His funeral took place on Sunday last from his late residence and was in charge of Union Council No. 300, of the Legion of Honor, of which he was a member. The people of Freeland and surrounding villages turned out in large numbers to pay their last tribute of respect to him. Among those from other towns we noticed the following: Anthony Coll, of Laurytown; P. Latham, E. P. Williams, Geo. W. Miller, Benj. Clewell, J. G. Eddy, E. P. Rouse, Samuel Harleman and Dan Rouse, of Weatherly; Thomas Clemens and J. T. Mulhearn, of Lansford; Hon. W. M. Rapsher and Hon. ## St. Patrick's Day Parade.

As stated in the previous issues of the Thinks, the annual parade of the Irish Societies and Green Men of this section of the country took place. The day opened with every indication of a March storm, but inrued out to be very fine before noon.

Mass was celebrated at St. Ann's Church, by Rev. M. J. Fallihee, promptly atten o'clock. After mass the Rev. Gentleman gave a very eloquent discourse on atten o'clock. After mass the Rev. Gentleman gave a very eloquent discourse on the life and labors of St. Patrick; from his landing in Ireland to his death, also how the faith planted by him spread through England, Scotland, Wales and even penetrated Europe, finally taking root in this country. The Rev. Gentleman advised his hearers to follow the example of, their Patron Saint, to be ever vigilant in prayer and good deeds, and predicted that if they persevered in such practices that heaven would be their reward.

At the close of the mass the parade was formed and took up the march as follows:

The route as laid out by the committee was followed, and the parade broke up on Luzerne street, when all retired to their homes satisfied that this was one of the largest parades of its kind ever held in Freeland.

The outgoing trains in the afternoon took a number of our people to Hazleton. Wm. A. Mulhearn acts the part of Marshal for St. Patrick's Society like an

A lack of music was noticed at many a point along the route. This should be avoided in future.

From the starting of the parade to its finish everything was in unison with the programme laid down. There were a few horsemen in the procession, which gave the small boy full scope to follow the band.

Marshal O'Donnell of the St. Ann's Pioneer Corps can ride and steer a horse as well as handle the throttle of the "Iron" horse.

Daniel Boyle, of Jeddo, acted as Marshal for the Green Men, and Barney Carr looked after the interest of the Eckley men in a like capacity.

The St. Patrick's Cornet Band favored the spectators with music suitable to the occasion. Their latest quick step, "Caed Mille Faltha," with its fine trio, was rendered in good style. They done well and received many fine comments from strangers.

strangers.

Many would prefer to see Rev. M. J.
Fallihee on horseback, as in the good old days of yore, instead of in the carriage.
They must not forget that time passes, and that as he grows older he becomes less active. But what is lacking in physical activity is made up in patriotism.

Constable Gift on Saturday afternoon served a warrant on A.* C. Heiney, residing at No. 224 North Seventh street, charging him with embezzlement, on a cath of Kleppinger & Kneer, the wholesale grocers, by whom he was employed. Heiney was taken before Alderman Worman. He was unable to furnish bail and was committed to prison for trial. Heiney is over fifty years of age and was employed by Kleppinger & Kneer since they have been in business, a period of three or four years. He travelled all through the Lehigh Valley and in Monroe and Carbon counties. Last September the firm got wind of the fact that Heiney had failed to turn in between $300 and $400 which he had collected from their customers. At Heiney's earnest request they did not prosecute him, but retained him in their employ. Heiney promised faithfully to replace the money. He failed to do so, but instead continued his pilferings, so that the firm loses about $500. The firm then determined to prosecute and Heiney is now behind the bars. Heiney lost the money in gambling.—Allentown City Rem.

Mr. Heiney was well known in this part of the country, having, for a number of years, conducted the large boarding house & Roown as the Drifton, and later the Central Hotel in this borough. Much sympathy is expressed for him, as he was always considered a trustworthy gentleman.

—John Moran was found dead in the house of his uncle, Michael Murphy, at Hokendauqua, on Saturday night. He had been drinking heavily a few days previous, and had a sum of money, for which, it is believed, he was murdered. Three men—Michael Murphy, his son Patrick and Richard Hurley—are in jail charged with the crime.

—A largely attended public meeting was held in Wilkes-Barre Monday afternoon, in which all the churches and benevolent associations united, and organized for the relief of the distressed miners. A central storehouse is to be established at once, to which all contributions are to be brought and from which the various committees will draw their supplies for distribution. Relief will be extended to the needy in all parts of the Wyoming Valley, and great quantities of supplies will be required to meet the demand. It is believed that the local contributions will not suffice, and other cities may be asked to aid.

John P. McDonald. The election returns show that Groff received 56 votes; Davidson, 110, and McDonald, 99. On Monday Mr. McDonald commenced contest proceedings in court. A lengthy petition was filled in which it is claimed frame was committed, and that the board erred in not receiving votes from qualified electors of the ward.
