Sunday afternoon the pumpway of No. 4 slope at Sandy Run was discovered to be on fire. DRIFTON WHIPS AUDENRIED

Quite an interesting game was played at the Drifton park on Saturday afternoon between the Audenried and Drifton clubs in the presence of about eight hundred spectators. The Drifton club began their run-getting in the second inning and kept adding to their score until the end of the game, when they found it to be 8 to 3 in their favor. The game was replete with brilliant plays, the Drifton boys especially doing fine work in every department. Both clubs had out their strongest players and the work of both sides was splendid. Peter Gallagher, pitcher of the Audenried club was struck in the fourth inning by a batted ball.

The principal feature of the game was the terrific batting of Boner, who pounded the ball for two two-baggers and three singles. The score by innings as follows:

About nine hundred enthusiastic base ballists assembled at the Freeland park on Sunday afternoon to witness the game between the Clippers, of Wilkes-Barre, and the Freeland team. The game was interesting throughout and at the end resulted in another victory for the Freeland boys by a score of 13 to 3. Umpire Boner called the game at 3 o'clock with the home team at the bat, who were retired without a run. The visitors were also blanked in their half of the first inning. The Clippers, however, took the lead in the second inning, having scored two runs, and maintained it until the fifth, when the home players began

At the meeting of the Bristol Board of Trade on Thursday night, H. G. Peters, the Chairman of the Committee on Retail Business, took the residents of the place to task for going to Philadelphia to make their purchases instead of patronizing the local dealers. "There are people of this town," he said, "and I regret to say it, who, if they want a pound of coffee, a yard of tape, a collar-button or a toothpick, will send or go to Philadelphia for it. It is unjust to the reputable business people of this community." Further discussion of the subject was then postponed until the next meeting of the Board.—Phila, Record.

The same state of things exists in Freeland to-day. Many of our people go or send to Hazleton for their supplies in preference to the home merchant who pays rent, mercantile and other taxes, and is helping to improve our town. We are sorry to say that in most cases of and is helping to improve our town. We are sorry to say that in most cases of this kind it is the people who own their own homes are the ones to aid the foreign business men. If they had left their earnings with the company stores, where they are employed, no one could blame them, but to order their supplies from outside parties who do not leave a dollar a year in our town is too much. Patronize home trade. When trouble, sickness, or any other misfortune befall you these people of Hazleton and other you these people of Hazleton and other towns will give you the cold shoulder, and then what are you to do? Whereas, if you dealt with a home merchant, you will be sure of being taken care of.

Under New Management.

The Catholic Record of Scranton has passed into new hands and is now issued in an improved form and with an addition of one column to each page. Its former proprietor, Mr. J. C. Vaughan, has retired from the business and T. H. C. Maloney is now in charge of the editorial department. Mr. Maloney is a bright journalist and after perusing the the first issue under his management we are convinced that he is thoroughly capable of expounding the principles advocated by the paper over which he has been placed. It has also undergone a slight change in the name, being now known as the Diocesan Record.

The Place to Get Your Clothing.

I. Reiforwich, the clothing merchant and gents' furnisher, is at No. 37, Centre street, Freeland, with a stock of goods, that for quality, cannot be surpassed in this region. Hats, Caps, Boys' and Men's Clothing a special feature. A large stock of suits made to order for $25.00 reduced to $17.00. This is a saving to persons of limited means over ready-made clothing. Clothing made to order by experienced workmen at short notice and at the lowest prices. A large stock of piece goods to select from. Ready-made clothing of all sizes and styles.

Our Girls and Boys.

Our Girls and Boys.

There were two little girls at Newport last summer, says the Boston Traveller, who attracted more than the ordinary interest attached to children of wealthy people. These two maidens were Gertrude and Consuelo Vanderbilt, and in a few years they will be the richest heiresses in society.

They are not sisters, but cousins, and as entirely dissimilar in appearance and character as though no drop of the same blood flowed in their veins. But they are close companions and apparently fond of one another, and when one drives out in her little dog-cart the other is sure to appear also.

Getrude is the oldest daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt. She is about 13 years old, and the fairies have given her the fair beauty of the "Snow Princess" as well as her pot of gold. Her resemblance to little Elsie Leslie of "Fauntleroy" fame is often commented upon. She has the same long curls, deep blue eyes, oval face, and pearly complexion. She is tall for her age, and has such a pretty, willowy little figure, dainty hands, and slender, arched feet. Her nature is sweet and sunny. Naturally shy with strangers, she is full of merriment with those she knows.

Little Consuelo is about the same sketches, rides, and drives, and knows more about the stars and the waves than many a college graduate.

Some day each of these children will probably have a fortune of at least $10,000,000, and when they make their debut into society they will eclipse all other heiresses of the time. Both girls are always simply dressed—pretty ginghams trimmed with white emproidery, russet shoes, and big flower-trimmed hats for the morning, and soft white mulls and muslis, with broad sashes, white hats, and fine black stockings and patent leather ties, for the afternoon.

They are never seen at a fine time wave.

is full of merriment with those she knows.

Little Consuelo is about the same age, and is the oldest of W. K. Vanderbilt's children. She is named for Lady Blandeville, and is an old little creature, with a thin, graceful little figure, and a dark Mignon face, it by two serious gray eyes as deep as wells and as bright as stars. Her hair is like a tangle of dark shadows about her head, and her little mouth, which often has such mutinous curves, is as scarlet as a pomegramate.

She has been twice around the world in the Alva, and in many strange countries; and the little sprite can talk in Japanese and Italian as well as in German and French. In fact she is highly educated as though she were a princess royal, plays classical music, sketches, rides, and drives, and knows more about the stars and the waves than many a college graduate.
