A Mystery Solved.

What promised to be a great sensation, and one that is true, would bring disgrace to our borough, was quietly nipped in the bud on Sunday afternoon. For the past two weeks an umbrella mender has made his home in the brush below Maine street, almost in a direct line with the proposed new road now being opened from Freeland to Highland, and during the day time plied his vocation among the neighboring villiages; while at night he retired to his couch beside the creek and slept the sleep of peace with no fear of a landlord's warrant to frighten him. As was often done before on Sunday he took a day off and in the creek washed his under clothing and other garments, while he beaver like proceeded to build himself a dam to enable him to take an ablution in the clear spring water that flows through the creek. While busily engaged at such work his nerves were unstrung by his hands coming in contact with what he supposed was the bones of a human being. After considerable trouble he unearthed a bundle of old rag carpet wrapped with wire and supposed to contain a skeleton of a child. The gentleman sought the officers of the law in the persons of Squire Buckley and Constable Quigley, and to them imparted his tale of a deep crime having been committed by some person or persons unknown to him and as a dutful citizen said "that it was his duty to so report it." With visions of an inquest and the prospect of making a trip to the county seat with the culprit, the two dignitaries of the law, together with some half a dozen others, made all possible speed to the scene of the supposed tragedy, and there lying on the bank of the creek, and in close proximity to the camp fire of our nomadic citizen, lay a heap of bones, prominent among the lob being the head and jaws of a ca. It is needless to say that the cavalcade retraced their stops in slower measure than when they went there.

The question which has agitated the members of the council for the pank of the creek, and in close proximity to the camp fire of our nom court Monday morning, refusing the plea for a new trial. All of the grounds asking for another chance for the prisoner, carefully and searchingly prepared by his attorneys, were gone over by Judge Rice and their unstability explained in full. The decision is in accordance with the wishes of the people, and Moss will hang unless the Board of Pardons or the Governor interfere, which is not likely. Moss was sentenced by Judge Rice on Tuesday to be hanged in the county jail. However, it is to be supposed the defendant's attorneys will make a strong effort to have the sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.

Weekly Coal Report.

Weekly Coal Report.

There is a marked improvement noted in the anthracite coal trade. There is considerable inquiry for coal, and the local demand has very materially increased during the past week. Egg coal has become scaree for immediate delievery, and stove and chestnut sizes are now moving more actively than they have been for several months past. While there is considerable free burning white ash coal being sold at a discount from the circular prices, because of its uncertain quality, yet the superior brands of anthracite from well known colliciries are commanding figures very close to if not the full circular prices. There is a strong disposition on the part of the Lehigh and Schuylkill operators to advance the prices for coal to the line and city trade, and an increase of about 15 cents per ton is looked for about the 15th instant. The accumulated stocks of anthracite at tidewater shipping points are decreasing, and the Reading Company has now less than 90,000 tons of all sizes at Port Richmond, while a month or two ago it had over 150,000 tons stored there. The Western trade is also Improving, and the increased demand for chestnut, stove and egg sizes from that quarter has resulted in prices for coal at the breaker being advanced from $1.800\pmus per ton to $202.15. There is little new demand for anthracite from the East, but there is still considerable coal being shipped to New England and Long Island Sound ports on old contracts at the prices which ruled prior to the last advance.

The total amount of anthracite coal sent to market for the week ending August 30, as reported by the several carrying companies, was $21,444 tons, compared with $65,145 tons in the corresponding week last year, a decrease of $45,701 tons. The total amount of anthracite mined thus far in the year 1890 was $21,035,982 tons compared with $25,400,-408 tons for the same period last year, a decrease of $464,426 tons,—Ledger.
