FREELAND, PA., OCTOBER 22, 1891

A GOOD many voters in Pennsylvania would not be disposed to hold the Republican party responsible for the incompetence, carelessness or dis-honesty of individuals, but they will nonesty of individuals, but they win hold it responsible for any endeavor to shield its members from a perfectly proper investigation, or to protect them from any punishment that they deserve. And that is just what the Republican Senate is attempting to do by its delays and petty objections to a thorough investigation of the

The candidates on the Democratic county ticket are as clean a set of men as ever asked for a vote in Luzerne as ever asked for a vote in Luzerne for the success of the whole ticket. There is not the slightest evidence of discord among them, and they speak of one another, privately and otherwise, in the most commendable terms. They are in the field to win, but they do not wish to secure victory by sacrificing any one man on the ticket. "All of us or none of us" appears to be their motto, and their manner of conducting a campaign inspires the conducting a campaign inspires the ranks with that harmonious feeling so

No Chief Executive of an American State was ever called upon to publish in an official document a record of collusion, fraud and robbery in public collusion, fraud and robbery in public office so widespread and monstrous as that to which Governor Pattison placed before the State Senate in a special message last week. The message is a characteristic document, just such a paper as might have been looked for under the circumstances. It is a plain unwarighed extenset. is a plain, unvarnished statement of the facts and alleged facts which have been brought out during the various inquiries which have followed the revelation of the crime of John Bardsley, and which implicates two of the most trusted officials of this State.

The ecumenical Methodist confer The coumenical Methodist conference in session at Washington last week, at which every branch of that denomination and nearly every country in the world was represented, discussed many subjects of interest to those who are not connected with Wesleyism. Among the papers read were several on the attitude of the Church to labor, and the opinion of the delegates was unanimous in favor the delegates was unanimous in favor of the Church taking part in the social of the Church taking part in the social problems that now confront the world. That the laboring element is not receiving justice was conceded by all, and the views expressed on the question were in marked conformity with those enunciated in the recent encyclical letter of Pope Leo. That two of the leading denominations, though differing widely in religious affairs, should begin work on similar lines is another evidence that the solution of the labor question is one of utmost importance to Christianity and must be solved as soon as possible. cyclical letter of Pope Leo. That two of the leading denominations, though differing widely in religious affairs, should begin work on similar lines is another evidence that the solution of the labor question is one of utmost importance to Christianity and must be solved as soon as possible.

Happy and content is a home with "The Rochester; a lamp with the light of the morning. Catalogues, write Rochester Lamp Co., NewYork.

In New York the Republican party leaders insist that national issues shall be ignored as irrelevant, and the contest confined wholly to questions of State and municipal policy. The sins of Tammany Hall—past, present and prospective—constitute the main issue of the Republican campaign. In Pennsylvania, on the other hand, the machine organs manifest a peculiar reluctance to discuss State questions, while they vehemently declare that the tariff and free silver are the chief issues involved in the election of an Auditor General and a State Treasurer. Yet up to this time none of the organs has been able to give an intelligible interpretation of the meaning of the party platform in Pennsylvania on the silver question. Last year—when the whole representation organs has been able to give an intelligible interpretation of the meaning of the party platform in Pennsylvania on the silver question.

Last year—when the whole representation in the Federal House of the membership of the United States Senate renewed through State Legislatures then to be elected—was declared to be an "off year" in national politics as a ready way of accounting for overwhelming defeat. But this year's election of an Auditor General and a State Treasurer in Pennsylvania, it is pretended, is fraught with the most momentous issues in Federal politics and legislation. These partisan inconsistencies loss nothing of their absurdity and puerility by frequent repetition in the public ear. What near or remote influence could the election of one or two State officials in Pennsylvania have upon the deliberations of the next Congress? What influence could such an election have upon the choice of a President and a Congress next year?

Relieved temporarily from the warfare of national politics, why should not the people of Pennsylvania avail themselves of their financial affairs? They have seen their State Treasury pillaged through the connivance or neglect of its custodians. The official confession has been made to them that the laws for investing the money of the Sinking Fund, and for thus preventing needless accumulations in the State Treasury, have been treated with contempt. Whatever may be their differences of opinion on the tariff, or reciprocity, or free silver, why should they not come for the maintenance of official abuses and to secure the spoils they are intolerable nuisances in the State. Instead of advancing the public welfare, they are engines of political corruption and cpression.

The only solution of the State issue that advancing the public welfare, they are engines of political corruption and cppression.

The only solution of the State issue that has been brought to the door of every citizen in Pennsylvania is in making a complete change in the Auditing and Treasury Departments at Harrisburg, Giving General Gregg and his colleague, Captain Morrison, credit for the best intentions in the world, they could not, if elected, escape from their environment. Should they resolutely apply the ax to prevailing abuses and iniquities they would be met with the cry of "ingratitude" from the machine managers and spoils-mongers to whom they owe their nominations. In making choice of their subordinates, and in the general management of the affairs of their departments, they would be subject to the advice of their "friends." But by aiding to elect Robert E. Wright and A. L. Tilden to the offices of Auditor General and State Treasurer respectively the independent Republicans of Pennsylvania would give another signal proof of their fidelity to the interests of the Commonwealth. They would thus crown the work which they accomplished so nobly last year. Let them not be deterred from this patriotic purpose by the idiotic cries of "tariff" or "free silver," nor by other insidious appeals that have not the least relevancy in this State contest.—Record.

Wanamaker Pushing Free Delivery.

An edict has gone forth from Republican State Headquarters to sacrifice county candidates to insure the election of Gregg and Morrison. That accounts for the "break away" among the Republican nominees in this county. Every candidate is going it blind, advocating the election of "me" alone. The hap-hazard campaign they are running, with everybody for himself, is evidence of the confusion into which the proclamation has thrown them. They are already beaten, but for the sake of appearances they keep up their ludicrous individual booming. If every Democrat will do his duty the county vote will only be a question of majority. Bring out every voter and bury them deep.

McCamant promises to pan out as great a thief and embezzler as Matt Quay. The latest charge against him is made by the Harrisburg Pattriot, which tells of a suit of the State against a prominent railroad company for delinquent taxes to the extent of $1,000,000. It was a dead sure thing and there was no escape for the corporation but to pay the money, yet McCamant compromised for $100,000. The records of the office rhow that only $75,000 reached the Treasury. Not content with defrauding the State out of $900,000 McCamant and his tribe must steal $25,000 in one suit idone. Then we have demagogic editors and orators who say his office ober not need investigating. Vote for Wright and Tilden, who will show who the thieves are.
