THE CHURCH TROUBLE.

An Explanation of the Greek Priests' Meeting.

THINK THE CZAR OF RUSSIA HAD A HAND IN SHAPING THE COURSE OF RECENT EVENTS HERE.

The recent meeting at Hazleton of the priests of the Greek Catholic Church has aroused considerable discussion among the members of that denomination in this vicinity, according to interviews with members here. It will be remembered that a movement was started at Rome some years ago which resulted in a partial agreement between the Austrian branch of the Greek Catholic Church and the Roman Catholic Church and the Roman Catholic Church and it was understood that the rule of cellibacy should be gradually established. Their forms of worship were similar in all respects, save that of language, the Greek Church using the language spoken in each country where it was established, while the Roman Church insisted on a universal language, Latin.

The influx of the denomination to this country was followed by priests of their church, who were sent here by Archbishop Sembratovich, of Lemburg, Austria, to build churches and otherwise attend to the spiritual needs of the foreigners. This was done and the priests and congregations were afterwards transferred to the jurisdiction of the Roman Catholic bishops of the diocesses in which they are located, the two bodies working harmoniously. The majority of these priests, however, were married, but the American bishops desired to have them replaced by single men and, it is stated, forwarded a request to that effect to Rome. They also wanted to enforce the substitution of the Latin rites. This request was granted and the married priests ordered to return to Europe. Some of them were inclined to rebel at this, and to discuss the subject the recent convention was called. According to the report of their proceedings they are constituted and considered a turn to Europe. Some of them were inclined to rebel at this, and to discuss the subject the recent convention was called.

According to the report of their proceedings they received and considered a communication refusing their request to be permitted to conduct services in the language understood by their people and to have a bishop of their own race and also to marry. They resolved upon their ultimatum as to these points and unless they receive a favorable reply declare their purpose to refuse a llegience to the church of Rome. Those who are rebelling will meet again to take final action at Wilkes-Barre on February 1.
The number proposing to act independently does not include one-half of the Greek priests in the United States, and these are opposed in several places by the congregations, which prefer to remain obedient to Rome. Among those who refused to take part in the revolt is Rev.
Cyril Ganvolies, the pastor of St. Mary's Greek Church of Freeland. He declines to have anything to do with the movement, and is satisfied to remain under the rule of Bishop O'Hara. He is unmarried and has the unanimous support of the congregation for the position he takes.

Prominent members of the church of the congregation for the position he takes.

Prominent members of the church here give it as their opinion that the trouble was commenced at the instigation of the main body of the Greek Catholic Church, the head of which is the Czar of Russia, who is endeavoring to win back the Austrian branch. As proof of their suspicions they point to the case of Rev. Alexander Toth, of Minneapolis, who was the leading spirit in the convention and a prospective candidate for the bishopric he wanted created. Since his return from Hazleton he has taken over with him his congregation to the orthodox Greek Church, and announced that the Russian Government would hereafter aid and give them financial support.

Trouble Among Typos,

Trouble Among Types.

The proprietor of the Philadelphia Record, Wm. M. Singerly, locked out his compositors Tuesday evening, and the paper yesterday bore evidence of "rat" work. The trouble arose over a demand made by the Typographical Union upon the publishers of the morning papers for an advance in wages. The rate asked has been paid for some time by the Record, excepting upon two sizes of type, and when the committee proposed a uniform scale per 1000 ems the men, eighty-two in number, were locked out. All the other publishers employing union men granted the demand, some under protest. Non-union employes were taken on, and the Record is now down to the level of the Press as a scab sheet. Singerly was regarded, next to Mr. Childs, of the Ledger, as the printers' best friend in that city, and in a private letter to this office President Somers states the union people believe he will reconsider his hasty action. The Record can scarce; afford to incur the enmity of the thousands of friends it has made among the laboring element, yet it is likely organized labor will take suitable action in the matter. The Press is yet smarting under the blow it received for locking unit is men, as the prosperity of its rival, the Inquirer, testifies.

Blown Up by Dynamite.

Frank Litz, a six-years-old boy of i'ly-mouth, stole a large stick of dynamite, and to show some other boys how it exploded he put it on a stone, and picking up a smaller one dashed it down on the dynamite. He was blown twenty or thirty feet, his clothing all torn from his body, and his face and neck burned. A large hole was blown in the ground.

Separated Forty Years.

In 1851 Miss Mary Evans, then a lass of 25, came to this country from Wales. On the vessel she met James Evans. They fell in love and agreed to marry in time, but became separated in New York. Miss Evans married a man named Rowe some years after. James Evans did better. He married four times. His fourth wife died two years ago. Mrs. Rowe's husband died years ago and she remained a widow ever since. About three months ago the widower Evans and the widow Rowe met by accident in the village of Taylor-ville, this county. Their trip across the Atlantic as lovers was recalled, marriage was proposed and an agreement was entered into. The ceremony took place on Saturday. The groom is 89, and bride four years younger. A trip to Wales will consume the time alloted to the honeymoon.

ine politicians of Foster are beginning to arouse themselves for the spring election and among the candidates in the field is Condy O. Boyle, of the Points, who aspires to the Democratic nomination of tax collector. Mr. Boyle began an active canvas this week among the voters of his party and received assuraces of support from all parts of the township. Since his residence in Foster he has been an active worker for the ticket at every election, and besides being well-qualified for the position he is one of the most popular young men hereabouts with citizens of both parties. If successful in securing the nomination Mr. Boyle will undoubtedly be elected at the polls.

Mr. Gallagher is well-known throughout the township, having resided there for twenty-four years. He also served as school director for two terms. His many friends will work hard for his success.

Teachers in Session.

The twenty-fourth annual session of the Luzerne County Teachers' Institute opened on Monday with the largest attendance of any institute held in this county. Judge D. L. Rhone delivered the address of welcome. He furnished a few interesting facts on school statistics. Luzerne County public schools has over 36,000 scholars; $300,000 is the amount of the teachers annual pay roll; Luzerne's tax levy in 1890 was the highest in the State, 20.4 mills; the total amount of school and building tax levied for 1891 being $424,086.92. being the largest in the State, 20.4 mills; the total amount of school and building tax levied for 1891 being $424,086.92. being the largest in the State except Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties. Dr. I. Freeman Hall, superintendent of schools, at Nantick, Mass., spoke on "Langnage," and Professor Arnold Tompkins, of Terre Haute, Ind., on "The Fundamental Principle of School Management." In the evening Dr. James H. Hedley, of Ohio, lectured on the "Sunny Side of Life," and the Independent Glee Club sang.

A novel suit has been brought against the management of the Berwick Opera House by Henry Hilbert of that town. Mr. Hilbert purchased a ticket for a performance held there, but was prevented from witnessing the show by the immense hats worn by two ladies sitting directly in front of him. He politely asked the young ladies to remove their hats which was refused and his appeal to the usher met with no better success. He then went to the box office and demanded the return of the money but was informed that a settlement had been made for the performance with the company and his money could not be refunded. Thereupon Hilbert brought suit against the manager to test his rights. The outcome will be watched by theatrical managers, as this is the first ase in which the opera hat has reached the courts, though it has frequently lessened men's chances of salvation.

Monday evening while an entertainment was in progress at the Opera House, Centralia, a fire broke out in the house of James Haggerty, and for a time the confusion prevailed. The people rushed frantically out of the building, but fortunately none were seriously injured. The fire spread rapidly, and gained such head way that it was found necessary to call upon the Ashland Fire Department for assistance. Six houses were destroyed. They were owned by James Haggerty, James Grant, Irvin Bros. and O. B. Millard. William Thomas, a fireman, fell from the roof of one of the buildings and was badly injured. Another feli into the fire and was seriously burned. The loss will exceed $25,000.

Coal Trade Dull.

The trade is dull and unsettled, and prices are consequently weaker, while there has been a falling off in the demand for coal during the past week. OPERA HOUSE GOSSIP.

That Come Here.

LILLIAN KENNEDY'S BIG SUCCESS IN "SHE COULDN'T MARRY THREE"-"UNCLE'S DARLING" LAST NIGHT-

rope.

The truth of the old phrase, "advertising pays," was proven last week. Freeland does not give a hearty welcome to companies lacking a local reputation, and it usually requires something more than a name to fill the Opera House. The managers of Lillian Kennedy seemed to be aware of this fact, and the extensive advertising done by them the past six weeks had a telling effect on Thursday evening, when "She Couldn't Marry Three' was given before the largest house of the season. Messrs. Hassenforder have a good company and a good play, and are not afraid to tell the public of it.

The scene of the piece is laid along the coast of Cornwall County, Eng., and the portrayal of the Cornish dialect, so familiar once in the mining regions, was perfect. The representation was a pleasant change from the monotonous characters with which the stage is crowded, and the successful efforts of the actors were fully appreciated. Of course Miss Kennede was the star, but she is surrounded by a capable company, and divided the honors with her brother. John J., and E. P. Sullivan. Two of the other members, Messrs. Williams and Irving, were seen here before, the former in the "Irish Corporal" and the latter in "Mountain Pink."

The scenery used was excellent, but the audience was denied the privilege of seeing some of the best portions, owing to the inadequate stage facilities of the Opera House. More than one-half of the seenery, including the fine reproduction of the Dingley Tunnel, had to be omitted on this account. The same trouble has been experienced on previous occasions, and will probably have to be endured until Freeland has an opera house in which plass of the character Messrs. Fowler & Boyle wond like to be character in the poor light furnished. Considering the exhorbitant price paid per night by the lessees it is strange if the proprietor cannot afford to make gas that will burn. "Uncle's Direction of the propriet of the propriet of an an an which Hettie Bernard Chase is star-cannot afford to make gas that will burn.

"Uncle's Darling," the Alaskan drama in which Hettie Bernard Chase is starring, gives that lady abundant opportunity to display her talent, and she made excellent use of it last evening. The play and plot are of the regulation sort, containing the customary villian, hero, etc., and ends in the good old way, but instead of their trials and troubles being enacted in a drawing-room they are located in the ice-bound fields and coast of British Columbia and Alaska. The realism of the scenery serves to strengthen the piece throughout, and some picturesque scenic effects were shown. The animals introduced play only a small part in the show, and their appearance is made at the most appropriate time. The tableau at the conclusion of Act 1 was the finest yet produced on the stage here. The acting was generally spirited and the audience well pleased.

Wednesday Evening. December 23.

American Tin.

The first consignment of American madetin to arrive in Freeland can be seen at Birkbeck's hardware store. It was so manufactured at Demmler, near Pittsburg, and is claimed to be equal for all practical purposes to the imported article. The order had been placed over two months ago, and owing to the great demand was not filled until 'this week.

St. Ann's Pioneer Corps is making extensive arrangements for its annual ball on New Year's Eve. There is no better way to welcome the coming of 1892 than by attending a festivity of this kind, and the Corps can be relied upon to do its share in making the event an enjoyable one.
