A CURE FOR THE GRIP.

Some Facts About the Kind of Medicine to be Used.

PURE LIQUOR URGED AS A REMEDY AND PREVENTIVE—THE BEST IN THE COUNTRY CAN BE OBTAINED IN FREELAND.

In order to stave off the grip and take proper precaution against the malady, it is the belief of many that the moderate use of good liquor, applied internally in small quantities, is a safe remedy, or at least a good prevention against the disease. This is the belief of many who have conversed with the subject, and it is being used for that purpose, even by those who have not heretofore been using such. It is published in the public press that Duffy's malt whiskey will cure the grip. Now, there is better malt whiskey in Freeland than Duffy's. There is malt whiskey in Freeland, imported by the writer in 1873 and awarded the prize at the Centennial Exhibition in 1876, so that is more than can be said for Duffy's malt, with all its celebrity as grip medicine. Somebody has said that all kinds of whiskey are good, but that some kinds are much better than others. Now if this proposition be admitted, and it cannot be well denied, as it was decided in the affirmative over two years ago at the polls by over five millions of people in Pennsylvania, then good whiskey should be superlatively efficacious.

We desire to inform the people of this community that we have in bond, under seal of the government, the best brands of rye whiskey in Pennsylvania, viz., the Gibson, Dougherty and Headville pure whiskeys, part of which is in stock in this store. Now these are the best brands of whiskey in America, and they come to this store directly from bond; pure as they are distilled, as the compounder has no change of mixing them. The Gibson rye is distilled with 20 per cent. of barley malt, which makes it unrivalled in the market. We have also in stock the Hennessy French Brandy, the best brand imported, and nobody can say nay.

Now we have no hesitation in saying that in no other liquor store in this county is such a variety of "straight" rye whiskeys kept, and looking for "straight" pure rye is like hunting for needles in a haystack. So it behooves you to get an accommodation in any community to have one place in which pure liquors for medicinal purposes can be had when required, but it seems like "casting pearls" in keeping such goods where they are not appreciated.

These whiskeys we have always in stock pale ale of the finest and best quality, one barrel of which costs more than two of lager beer and intrinsically is worth three, and still some people prefer the lager, as it is sweet. Babies like candy, where liquor is concerned, it is best to give them the sweet. One is the extra of barley and hops and is consequently most nutritious and substantial, while the other contains 94 per cent. of water and six of alcohol, with a little sweetening and some other ingredients to give it a head. Like old whiskey one improves with age, while the other sours and rots in a few days; but in trying to convince a man against his will he is of the same opinion still. If people would use better judgment and less talk in their dealings they would show better sense—even in a five-cent cigar there is a difference in quality. Manufacturers and producers of all kinds in these days vie with each other in making the lowest grade of all kinds of goods, and although inferiority be there yet many cannot see it, nor will they admit of it. It is not human to admit of poor judgment. Now we have diverged from the subject, but we shall state a few more pertinent facts thereto.

Some people there are who think themselves wiser than their fathers and who have all their grip medicine sent by express from a large city and from a large establishment, such as Smith, Jones & Co. for instance, men whose integrity is beyond suspicion and from whom they expect something superior. But alas for human expectations! Little do these wise men know that all the wholesale dealers in the city are licensed compounders, "blenders" of liquors, but in plain words mixers, for which privilege they pay the government of the State and Nation some two thousand dollars yearly.

These compounders mix probably one-fourth rye with three-fourths common "rot-gut" whiskey, or as it is called, "Jersey lightning," or "kill at forty rods" and with these and some syrup and other ingredients the "blend" is well-cooked and when finished is certainly palatable. So would a little sugar and water be when the man who drinks all at home tastes the "blend," by imbibing twenty grains, he smacks his lips and says to his bosom cronie: "That is most delicious—Life's elixir." Little he knows what the component ingredients are, but what a man does not know does him no harm, and the things which some people do not know would fill a great book. But the "blend" is there and this wise man can't see it, and we would like to see the man who can tell the proportion of the constituent parts of the "blend" or mixture. He would be an oracle.

Now our purpose is not to write an essay on the liquor business. We have written more than we intended. A knowledge of any business is not acquired in a day, and he who embarks in any business, without a knowledge of the same and without sufficient capital, his labor is vain. Some dealers say: "If a man have a good thing for sale, he should let others know he has it." So our object in writing this is to inform this community that if any one may at any time require pure domestic or imported liquors for medicinal or other purposes, they can be found here without deception or misrepresentation and where all are treated alike. We do not sell two kinds of liquor out of the same spigot at two different prices or "blend" whiskey, as we are not licensed compounders. The liquors come directly from distillers and importers through the government bonded warehouses, and they are sold at their value and there is no house can give better value, as the goods are bought for cash and in quantities, with some knowledge of the business. If anybody despise these facts let him come hither, equipped with cash and test the validity of these facts.

Although liquors are kept in this store for sale we do not desire to contaminate the atmosphere of this borough of many churches; lower the standard of morality of this community; violate the rules of law and order or desecrate Sunday with the sale of liquor. The inebriate the habitual drunkard; the man on a "spree"; or the sober man who is not working from the effects of liquor, or the man who is in any way non compos mentis or exhibiting any symptoms of intoxication can have no liquor in this store at any time, and we do not desire the job of trying to convince men who ask for liquor here that they have had too much already. Neither will we sell a man any liquor to carry home if he be not sober. If he get the liquor he may unhook the flask by the way, as he knows not what he is doing, and the consequence is that he may be found perished with the flask by his side next morning. We do not want a drunk man or his money in this store. The store is closed from Saturday night until Monday morning, and no liquor is sold to friend or stranger within the gates during that time.

If a man comes to this store who is temporarily off the path of rectitude, and if his equilibrium be not too much impaired to retard his locomotion, he can repair to a more hospitable hostelry in which, providing the "dimes" are forthcoming, he can repose his weary and careworn head on the soft side of a pine bench, unmolested from urchins, crabs, snakes or other reptiles which beset poor mortals through life's path. But when the last nickel is gone he is told to wake up, and shake the dust of Freeland off his heels and have one "bracer" which will stay him against adverse winds on his way home and fortify him against the vengeance of a wretched and forlorn wife who sits nursing her wrath to keep it warm, in sorrow and in tears awaiting his untimely coming. The words of the poet apply here: "How many sage advises the husband from the wife despises." If this poor sinner should survive a warm greeting with boiling water, etc., he would have tongue at all his meals that day.

Now we are not trying to advocate prohibition, as we have no faith in the doctrine. Whiskey was not made to be used as water for washing dishes. It is made for the purpose of warming the body, and if taken in moderation, when he comes home at night, cold and wet from centre to circumference, a drink of good liquor then will thaw the ice from around his heart and start circulation in his veins. We take pleasure in waiting on such men, and for such the latching strings hang outside. If people would use a little less in quantity and better in quality this grip medicine would be more conducive to health and happiness.

T. CAMPBELL.

Female Labor in Demand.

The weatherly silk mill and the Lehigh hosiery factory are unable to procure sufficient labor to operate these industries to their full capacity. The silk mill is compelled to rely considerably upon the help it receives from towns about here, Drifton, Jeddo and Freeland being largely represented on its force. At Lehigh it is stated the hosiery mill will soon shut down if the number of employes cannot be increased. Just what the exact trouble is in the localities mentioned cannot be ascertained, but it is certainly not on account of a lack of girls, which is about the only kind of labor in demand. There seems to be a feeling among the residents of the two towns that their daughters or female relatives can be better employed at home than in mills and factories, even though their work would contribute forty or fifty cents a day to the support of the family, and that this feeling is increasing may be seen by the fact that the establishments are forced to seek their employes from towns a distance from where they are situated. It is questionable whether industries that employ female labor help or hurt a town.

A Billion and Half.

The above is estimated to be the amount due to heirs of unclaimed estates in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, France and Germany. The heirs are supposed to be chiefly in the United States, descendants of people who crossed the ocean years ago. You who read this are earnestly requested to correspond with the undersigned, if your people came from across the sea. Remember that a letter to this country requires a five-cent stamp. Be sure to write your name and address plainly. Also send 25 cents to pay for postage and correspondence. We charge nothing for investigating. William Lord Moore, 5, Ingersoll Road, Shepherd's Bush, London, England.

The Coal Record.

The coal trade during the past week has been improved by the correcting of the wind. The lower temperature and higher winds in various parts of the country have increased the consumption of fuel, and to some extent the accumulated stocks have been depleted. Of the total product in 1891, 52.82 per cent. was from the Wyoming region, 15.78 per cent. from the Lehigh region and 31.50 per cent. from the Schuylkill region. The Lehigh region in 1891 produced 6,381,838 tons, an increase of 32,188 over the preceding year.

Deputy Sheriff Missing.

Deputy Sheriff Donaghy, of Hazleton, who is well known around here, has been missing from his home since Sunday evening. His family and friends are very anxious about him, and as it is known that he had nearly $1500 in money at the time some fear he was murdered and robbed. His accounts and books have been found all right, and his disappearance is a mystery. The speaker says a party will start to-day to search the mine holes in that vicinity for his body.

LEHIGH VALLEY WON.

A Decision Rendered in the Famous Suit.

COXE BROS. & CO.'S ANTI-DISCRIMINATION CASE IS SETTLED BY THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT IN FAVOR OF THE RAILROAD MEN.

Judge Acheson has filed an opinion in the United States Circuit Court, at Philadelphia, in which Judge Butler concurs, refusing the application made by the Interstate Commerce Commission for an injunction against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, in the Coxes Bros. & Co. coal freight discrimination suit. The matter was argued a short time ago, when Attorney Jerome Stone, of New York, appearing for the commission, contended that the order which had been made on the railroad company was binding, and that the court should hold it to be final. John G. Johnson, appearing for the railroad company, urged in opposition to this that the finding of the commission should be considered but prima facie evidence, and that the whole matter should come before the court so that both sides could be heard.

The controversy arose in this way. Coxes Bros. & Co. alleged that coal shipped by them from sundry places in this region, over the Lehigh Valley Railroad, to Perth Amboy, N. J., was subjected to higher rates than coal sent by the Lehigh Valley Coal Company. The matter was before the Interstate Commerce Commission, which decided it in favor of Coxes Bros. & Co., but the decree for contempt of a compliance with its order could not be enforced. The court's aid was asked and an injunction applied for to restrain the railroad company from continuing the alleged discrimination.

The court decided, in view of the denials and averments of the defendants, that the motion must be dismissed, but with the exception of the right of the petitioner to file a re-application. The effect of the decision, as summed up by a prominent railroad man, is as follows: The findings of fact and the points of law decided by the Interstate Commission are not conclusive in this application, and the whole question must be re-inquired into and passed upon by the court hereafter, the same as though the order proceeding had not been taken, but with this exception only, that instead of compelling Coxes Bros. & Co. to take the burden of proving the facts, the decision of the court has the effect of putting upon the Lehigh Valley Railroad the burden of overcoming the conclusions of the commission and establishing the reasonableness of the existing rate of tolls.

So far as the matter has gone, however, it is plain that the Lehigh Valley Railroad has the right to manage its own business in its own way without the interference of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This decision, coupled with a similar decision in another circuit, denies the assumed power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to decide finally upon what are reasonable rates of tolls, and to make its own influence, a result that will not be welcome to the vast numbers of investors in railroad securities who have been viewing with some trepidation the recent tendency of irresponsible people to take advantage of the residents of the country and imperil and assail this species of property.

It has not yet been given out by the Drifton operators whether they will push the case any farther, but it is unlikely, as their dealings with the Lehigh Valley have almost if not entirely ceased since the opening of the D. S. & S. It would not be of any pecuniary benefit to the firm to continue the struggle against discrimination, and Coxes Bros. & Co. are not the people to whom the time is being wasted when nothing of personal interest is at stake.

Mondays for Holidays.

An examination of the list of legal holidays for 1892 reveals the curious coincidence that most of them come on Monday. February 22, Washington's Birthday, comes on Monday; May 30, Memorial Day, is also on Monday; July 4, Independence Day, is booked for Monday; September 5, Labor Day, comes as usual on Monday, and Christmas Day falls on a Sunday, but, of course, is celebrated on Monday. Next New Year's Day will be observed on Monday also. From this it will be seen that Good Friday, April 15, and Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 24, are the only legal holidays celebrated on any other day besides Monday. The two days observed more or less in this section in addition to the above are St. Valentine's Day, Sunday, February 14; St. Patrick's Day, Thursday, March 17; Easter Monday, April 18; Assumption Day, Monday, August 15, and Father Mathew Day, Monday, October 10. Out of these thirteen legal and other holidays Monday gets ten, a very unusual occurrence.

Luzerne Criminal Court.

The trial list for the January term of criminal court has been made up by District Attorney Garman. Among the cases from around here to come off on the 28th inst. are the following: Nicholas Cabbage, charged by Thos. A. Buckley with assault and battery; Chas. Dushek, assault and battery; Jennie Matrikian, pros.; and Nathan Valone, stealing D. S. & S. tools. Wm. Seiwel, pros. On February 1 the trials of Thos. C. Fox and Ferry are to be held. Higgins Eveland and Gallagher, charged with the Kester murder, will be tried on February 2.

The End of a Spree.

Early Tuesday morning the crew of a Lehigh Valley train found a dead man lying between the tracks at Hazle Brook Station. He was identified as James Williams, aged about fifty years, who boarded near that place. In his pockets were found two cents, some crackers, a pair of spectacles and a bottle of Jamaica Ginger, and by his side was a can of sardines. Williams had been working at Hazle Brook for the past fourteen months, and had been in the habit of going on periodical sprees. He left his boarding house on Saturday to receive his pay and failed to return again. He was seen about the station on Monday considerably under the influence of liquor. It is supposed he died from the effects of the train's coal wheel, there as there were no marks of violence about him to indicate foul play. The deputy coroner decided it was unnecessary to hold an inquest, and the remains were given to Undertaker Boyle, of Hazleton, who, at the request of the relatives or friends, will ship them to a Philadelphia medical college. Williams had resided in several of the towns about here for a number of years, and a step-daughter of his is said to reside at Levittown.

LIFE IN HAZLETON.

One Day's Record of Crime and Disorder in the Would-be County Seat.

Lawlessness and disorder still reign supreme in the new city, despite the strenuous efforts put forth by its two police officers to keep the criminally-inclined inhabitants within the bounds of the law. On Saturday and Sunday sensation after sensation followed each other in quick succession, and between highway robberies, attempted murders, fires and the danger of being dropped into Pardes' mines the residents lived a life that the people of this town do not envy, even though Freeland cannot boast of a city charter. Visitors to the town on the other side the hill should go there prepared to offer up their lives as a sacrifice to Hazleton's inefficient police service, according to the following report of a day's doings, which is taken from Monday's daily papers.

During the twenty-four hours beginning at 9 P. M. Saturday, Hazleton experienced more forms of excitement than at any previous time in its history. The excitement really began at noon Saturday, when J. A. Seelye, the East Broad Street boot and shoe maker on the Jeanesville hill, Seelye was brought home in an unconscious state, suffering from a ruptured blood vessel at the base of his skull. His assailant escaped, of course.

David Bevan, of Milnesville, was stopped by two footpads outside the city and terribly beaten. His watch and money were taken. As might be expected there were no arrests.

In the evening Constable Boyle and Coal and Iron Policeman Cook had an assault and battery warrant for Leonard Colonisio, who was in an Italian boarding house on Donegal Hill. Boyle tried unsuccessfully to force open the back door. Cook got in the front door and the whole special and regular force was then called out, and nine Italians were arrested while thirty-one escaped.

Later Lieut. Ferry and a detail of police, failing to arrest a tough citizen named Robino, were defied by three Poles on Wyoming street. After a slight struggle these were arrested. The station house was getting well-filled by this time with typical Hazletonians, but the end was not yet.

Shortly before midnight a detail of special police went on the jump to Harleigh, where a gang was in a fight. Three had been stabbed before they arrived. The injured were taken to the hospital and two Poles arrested. This included the blood and thunder part of the programme.

About 8 P. M. Sunday night fire broke out in Loughran's store on South Wyoming Street. The fire plugs were frozen, the engine was late in arriving and for over half an hour the flames had their own way. Loss, $8,000.

While this was going on Mann's block on Broad Street took fire and was partly burned. The loss was about $6,500.

At the same time Francis Minzenberger's house on Chestnut Street caught fire, and was extinguished by the pocket brigade. That ended the fire record.

The flames had scarcely been put out when the cry came that a number of houses were going down. There was a rush for South Cedar Street, and the crowd began to group around the snow-covered streets, looking at the gaping cracks in the pavements and the falling cellar walls. Fourteen houses were directly affected, which is as serious as what has occurred. Cedar Street was down about four feet about four feet.

With such a record Hazleton wants to be a county seat. Sublime audacity.

A. O. H. Men Will Parade.

The Luzerne County Board of the A. O. H. of America, met in Wilkes-Barre on Saturday afternoon. Officers of the Luzerne County Board were present and invited the Luzerne County Board to take part in the parade in Scranton on St. Patrick's Day. The invitation was accepted and twenty-one divisions of the A. O. H. of America, and four divisions of the United Order of Sons of America, comprising in all 1100 men, will go to Scranton.

Offices to be Filled.

The offices to be filled in this borough on February 16 are as follows: Burgess, tax collector, two school directors, two councilmen, justice of the peace, high constable, judge of election, two inspectors of election, auditor and an assessor. In Foster: Tax collector, assessor, two supervisors, two school directors, township treasurer, township clerk, auditor and a judge and two inspectors in each election district.

Stabbed Three Times.

Wm. Murphy, bartender in Mrs. Sibbitt's saloon, corner of Carbon and Washington Streets, was stabbed three times with a pocket knife during a fight on Saturday night. John Broderick, Sr., of Highland, was charged with the deed, but was acquitted at a hearing before Justice Buckley on Monday, there being no evidence to show that he was implicated in the affair. Murphy is recovering.

Fourth Annual Ball.

The fourth annual ball of L. A. 335, K. of L., to-morrow evening, promises to be one of the best of the season. The committee is at work decorating the hall with emblems of the order, besides the usual flags and bunting. The public can depend upon old reliable 335 to give satisfaction and a good time. DePiero's Orchestra will furnish the music.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Paragraphs From Freeland and Nearby Towns.

LITTLE ONES OF INTEREST ABOUT PEOPLE YOU KNOW AND THINGS YOU WISH TO HEAR—SHORT NOTES FOR HURRIED READERS.

Markle & Co.'s collieries have been idle considerable this week. No sale for coal.

A ball at Audenried last evening was attended by a number of young folks from Freeland.

Remember the ball of L. A. 335 at the Opera House to-morrow evening. It is going to be a large affair.

Patrick Gillespie, formerly of Upper Lehigh, is lying seriously ill with the grip at his home in Manunk.

W. D. Kline fell upon the ice near his residence Saturday evening and received serious injuries about the head.

White Haven Lodge of Odd Fellows will celebrate the fortieth anniversary of its organization on February 22.

It is likely that St. Ann's Dramatic Company will make its appearance in a new play before the season is over.

Foster Republicans will hold their delegate elections on Saturday evening, and the convention at Highland on Tuesday.

Dr. John L. Wentz, of Drifton, and Miss Ada Stecker, of Hazleton, will be married at the latter place on Wednesday evening.

James H. Carrigan, a Lehigh Valley brakeman of East Mauch Chunk, is enjoying a week's vacation with his parents at Jeddo.

A marriage license was granted at Wilkes-Barre on Saturday to Evan John, of Mahanoy City, and Miss Mary Knoss, of Upper Lehigh.

In case of hard cold nothing will relieve the breathing so quickly as to rub Arnica & Oil Liniment on the chest. Sold at Schlicher's drug store.

Work was suspended at the Drifton collieries to-day and yesterday on account of the breaker machinery being frozen by the severe weather.

The P. O. S. of A. Band ended its fair on Tuesday evening with a ball, when all the articles were disposed of. The fair was a big financial success.

Mrs. Ann Burns, widow of the late James Burns, of Sandy Run, has been granted a pension of $8 per month, dating from November 20, 1890.

All those who have used Baxter's Mandrax Bitters very strongly in their prize. Twenty-five cents per bottle. Sold at Schlicher's drug store.

DeComale, who was acquitted of murdering the little girl at Lattimer, became insane from the disgrace attending the arrest, and he was taken to Danville yesterday.

Up to yesterday there had been filed in this county 840 applications for license. The total number last year was 1050. Monday is the last day for filing applications.

"Muggs' Landing" was given before a large audience Monday evening. The piece is a well-arranged series of comedy sketches, with the semblance of a plot running through. It took well.

The will of the late Mrs. Hannah Moore was entered at Wilkes-Barre on Saturday. The personal estate is valued at $350 and the real estate at $1400. It is bequeathed to her son James.

Rev. John O'Donnell, formerly a student with Rev. J. J. Marron, at Audenried, was last week ordained to the Catholic priesthood by Archbishop Ryan. He celebrated his first mass at Audenried on Sunday.

The name of N. H. Downs' still lives, although he has been dead many years. His Elixir for the cure of coughs and colds has already outlived him a quarter of a century, and is still growing in favor with the public. Sold at Schlicher's drug store.

Three breasts in No. 2 Highland caved in yesterday, making quite a large hole on the surface and taking down part of the Foster turnpike between Jeddo and Highland. Several of Contractor King's teams had just gone over the road before it went down.

The struggle for the control of the Democratic State Committee at Harrisburg yesterday resulted in the success of the Cleveland faction and the election of J. Marshall Wright, of Lehigh, as chairman by a vote of 44 to 32 for Mr. Kerr, the late chairman. Harritt was elected a member of the National Committee in place of W. L. Scott, deceased.
