Foster Republicans Nominate a Full Ticket.

FAIRCHILD FOR TAX COLLECTOR—JENKINS AND SERRICKS CAPTURE THE ROADS—QUIET CONVENTION AND NO ENTHUSIASM.

Foster Republicans prepared themselves for election day by nominating a ticket at Highland school building on Tuesday evening. There were very few contests that excited any interest, and the convention seemed more like a quiet little family gathering than a meeting of politicians. It lacked the sharp competition among the candidates that is so conspicuous in a Democratic caucus, and the delegates were easily handled by a few good talkers. The eight districts of the township were represented by sixteen delegates, and the convention organized at 7.30 o'clock by electing James Long as chairman and Alonzo Woodring as secretary. To several of the delegates the business of making a ticket satisfactory to the party was new, but they succeeded in getting down to work after some difficulty.

For tax collector Thomas Brown and John Fairchild were named, the vote resulting as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Name, Votes. Includes Fairchild (9), Brown (7), Davis (11), Drumtra (5), Wm. Jenkins (9), J.S. Serricks (8), John W. Davis (7), John B. Moser (6), Serricks (8), Davis (5), Moser (3), Wm. Jenkins (9), J.S. Serricks (8), John W. Davis (7), John B. Moser (6).

Catholic Statistics. Advance sheets of Hoffman's Catholic Directory, show that there are 4042 Catholic churches in the United States, 3552 churches, 1683 chapels, 223 orphan asylums containing 25,518 orphans; 54 seminaries, with 1729 students; 138 colleges; 653 academies; 3406 parochial schools, in which 709,753 children are taught; 9662 clergy, and a total Catholic population of 8,647,231. The United States census gives the Catholic population as 6,250,045, but excluded all persons under nine years of age, and these are in the full number of the registered members of the body. Philadelphia has 157 churches and a Catholic population of 400,000. There are 800,000 Catholics in the city of New York, about one-half the entire population.

Prison Commissioners Appointed. The appointments announced by the court are somewhat in the nature of surprises, says the Plain Speaker. The prison commissioners, Hon. Eckley B. Cox, of Drifton, and S. L. Brown, of Wilkes-Barre, were named. To the general public this was a revelation, as no intimation had been received that either of these desired the positions. Their appointment, as both are Democrats, is generally received as a pretty straight tip that there will be a change in the jail officials, and that Tom Hayes, the boom friend of Commissioner Harry Evans, and Chief Clerk Norris, the faithful henchman of Congressman Shonk, will have to go.

Announcement of Coming Events. Ball of Young Men of Drifton, Opera House, January 29. Masquerade ball of Italian Band, Opera House, February 16. Ball of Fear Not Athletic Association, Old Fellows' Hall, Drifton, February 17. Ball of Tigers Athletic Association, Opera House, February 29. Ball of St. Patrick's Beneficial Society, Opera House, March 17.

Seven Hanged Last Year. During last year seven legal hangings took place in Pennsylvania. They were Henry March, at Ebensburg, Cambria County, February 26; William West, at Washington, February 26; Oliver William Stanley, at Mauch Chunk, March 26; George J. Moss, at Wilkes-Barre, March 26; Joseph and David Nicely, at Somerset, April 26, and John McManus at Philadelphia, December 3.

To Form a Big City. Schuylkill County papers are booming a scheme to incorporate a city composed of the boroughs and towns of Ashland, Girardville, Rappahannock, Colorado, East Creek, Wm. Penn, Brownsville, Jackson, Yatesville, Mahanoy City and Shenandoah. It would have sixty thousand population.

LOCAL RAPID TRANSIT.

An Open Field for the Investment of Capital.

MEN WHO WILL BUILD A STREET RAILWAY FROM FREELAND TO UPPER LEHIGH AND JEDDO CAN REAP A RICH HARVEST.

In many portions of the State where two or more towns are located in close proximity capitalists are giving the question of electric street railways much attention. The vicinity of Wilkes-Barre is covered with a perfect network of electric roads, connecting all the suburban places with the city proper. Work is progressing rapidly upon the line running through Ashland, Girardville, Shenandoah and Mahanoy City. In the spring a road will be built joining Tamaqua, Coal Dale, Lansford and Summit Hill. Upper East and Old Mauch Chunk has good prospects of seeing electric cars before another year, and it is more than probable that Lehigh, Weissport and Packerton will soon be connected in the same manner. A charter has been granted to a company to run through Hazleton and West Hazleton, but it is doubtful if anything will be accomplished in the new city for many years.

The other towns mentioned above, however, seem to be in earnest in the matter, and it has any chance of success in some of them. It would be a most profitable investment for our local capitalists to try something similar here. A road commencing at Upper Lehigh and ending at Jeddo, taking in South Heberton, Freeland and Drifton, would be one of the best paying concerns in the State. It is not probable that there would be any difficulty in obtaining the right of way through these towns, and the trade that an electric line could command would make it profitable from the start.

The traffic to and from Freeland in the direction of Upper Lehigh and Drifton is surprisingly large, and it is certain there would be very few pedestrians between these points if moderate fares were charged.

It is not possible to state what amount would be necessary to equip a street railway of the kind proposed, but there is no doubt that the money can be procured if the work is placed in the hands of energetic men. From investigations in places where railways are in working operation it is learned that the running expenses of a line of this kind are comparatively small. If the matter is taken up at once the company could obtain control of the electric light plant, which is for sale, and by locating the plants for light and transportation in the same building would be enabled to furnish the former to the town at a figure much lower than was charged by the present light company.

The TRIBUNE is not advocating the building of a street railway for the sake of making a noise or turning the public's attention towards impracticable investments. It believes that a company organized for the purpose would receive the support, financial and otherwise, of this community, and if a few good reliable men of town would take the preliminary steps in the matter they would be given all the assistance necessary to carry the project out successfully. The opportunity will not always be so advantageous to local parties as now, for a promising field like this for capital will come under the hammer some day or long. A home company is generally more favorably received than one organized by strangers, and for that reason the TRIBUNE would prefer to see the merchants here interest themselves in the movement.

It is of special importance to the business people of Freeland to see that they control the trade of surrounding towns, and to do this they should offer every inducement within their means. By making travel more rapid, pleasant and enticing as possible, merchants will be offering an inducement that is certain to bring their friends and customers here more frequently than if the same people had to trudge through snow and mud, as is usually the case at present. By interesting themselves rather than by heavy over-production or real inherent weakness in the coal markets. They have not, however, gained any advantage by this method of endeavoring to force sales on an already over-supplied market or by attempting to intimidate the larger companies who are in a much stronger position than themselves, though the latter have quickly responded by not only meeting the reduced prices but in some cases making a greater cut.

The total amount of anthracite coal sent to market for the week ending January 16, as reported by the several carrying companies, was 705,687 tons, compared with 763,289 tons in the corresponding week last year, a decrease of 57,602 tons. The total amount of anthracite mined thus far in the year 1892 was 1,377,568 tons, compared with 740,504 tons for the same period in 1891, a decrease of 362,936 tons.—Ledger.

No Space Sold to Usurpers. Because the TRIBUNE refuses to bend to Reynolds' money and whoop it up for the defeated candidate in his contest against Congressman Shonk the Wilkes-Barre Times, one of these sit-on-the-fence sheets, gets on its high horse and acts as though it had a paralytic stroke. All we have to say is that Reynolds, although he is a coal operator, has not money enough to buy one line of praise in the TRIBUNE, unless he deserves it. Then it is given free gratis. Can Editor Snyder say as much for his alleged independent Times?
