

OUR LIVELY SUBURBS.

NEWS AND GOSSIP FROM SURROUNDING TOWNS.

All the interesting items of the Past Few Days Gathered by "Tribune" Correspondents—Detailed Report of the Tarriers' Last Meeting.

Special and regular correspondence from the surrounding towns is solicited by the Tribune. All writers will please send their names to this office with communications intended for publication, in order that the editor may know from whom the correspondence comes.

UPPER LEHIGH NOTES.

The Tarriers assembled at the usual meeting place on Saturday evening and had an interesting time. The Grand Tarrier being absent, the Blizzard took the chair and opened the session with prayer (revised edition). The calling of the roll showed everybody present but the Grand Tarrier. The secretary read a communication from Hon. W. H. Hines, requesting the club to support him for congress in the coming campaign. It was laid over for future action, as one of the members said that he stole Joe McGinty's papers and if it could be proven Hines was a dead duck. An invitation was read, requesting the club to attend a "Goslin Supper" at Freeland on the 27th inst. The invitation was accepted, and the Cyclone instructed to prepare a barange for the occasion. The Motor Man had considerable trouble performing the duties of sentinel, and a motion to furnish him with a gun to repel intruders was made. An amendment was offered that it be one like St. Ann's Cadet guns, so as to avoid accidents. It was so ordered.

Here the Expert wanted the Tribune man expelled for seditious desecration of the Tribune. The motion was ruled out of order, because of the popularity of the Tribune. The Jigger moved that eight cents be donated by the club toward the purchase of an engraved copy of the ten commandments to be presented to one of the docking bosses, so that he can study the seventh, which reads: "Thou shalt not steal." The motion was carried without a dissenting voice, and the Jigger appointed to make the purchase and presentation.

Two applications for membership were read and rejected, one for degrading himself by performing the duties of hostler and the other for carrying water for the women without just cause. Wide John asked for information about the election of officers, and was told by the Blizzard it would take place the first meeting in August. A bill of $4.52 from Harmond Holland, of South Heberton, was presented, for chickens, ducks, five drinks of weiss beer and damage done to garden by the Motor Man on July 4. It was ordered paid, providing the two cents is thrown out of the bill.

The Cyclone wished to make a few remarks on the trouble at Homestead, but on account of the lateness of the hour he was requested to bottle his speech until he found whether or not Manager Frick had gone to meet the angels. The Tarriers then adjourned.

Some of the machinery that was taken out of No. 4 breaker has been replaced. It looks as if the breaker may be used again.

Another new craze in the line of dancing has just been brought to light in this place. German, one of our popular young men, has sole control of it. It is called the "goat dance."

A farewell party was given by Miss Jeannette Keenan in honor of her two young friends Misses Synyard and Jennie Lynn, who returned home last week. A large party of young people were invited and had an enjoyable time.

What gall that game club must have to be offering a reward for the conviction of illegal fishing after allowing the streams to be robbed until now. They talk of a game club at this place. There is no such a thing and there is not likely to be. The warden is sufficient here.

While the work here may not be the best in the region it may be truthfully said that we are making the best time of any place in the region. Five days a week is the least we work.

Four of our young men who have been trying to imitate Captain Bogardus one day last week concluded to try their aim on a chicken. After firing eighteen shots between them at the distance of ten yards one of the party went and killed it with an axe.

Walter Pritchard and family will make their future home in Bristol, Pa.

Dennis Ferry has been on the sick list for the past week.

Evan Lewis, of this place, has gone to Sydney, N. Y.

Patrick McGuire is visiting Treskow friends this week.

James Burns will in a short time make his future home in Canada.

The Jeddo base ball club and our boys played a one sided game here on Saturday evening. Score 21 to 8 in favor of the home club.

Julius Lesser, of South Heberton, has moved to this place.

Johnny says weasels are getting more than plenty about town. We would advise to get Pat to "sick" the game club on them.

DRIFTON ITEMS.

Six men who were employed in the big blacksmith shop were suspended on Saturday for an indefinite period. Scarcity of work is said to be the cause.

Mrs. Elderman and daughter, of Ohio, are visiting at the residence of Al. Zeisloft at No. 2.

On Friday evening a thunder-storm passed over here and the vivid flashes of lightning frightened the whole community. A house was slightly damaged by it at No. 2.

In the early part of the week a horse driven by John Hoffmeyer ran away from the Lehigh Valley depot and completely wrecked the rig. It became frightened at a passing locomotive.

Miss Mary A. Jenkins, of Upper Lehigh, was visiting here on Friday.

Miss Mamie Reilly, of Harleigh, is visiting at the residence of J. J. McCarty.

For several months past there has been considerable hustling going on here among the newspaper men. Each of the Hazleton papers have correspondents and solicitors drumming up the town every week. The correspondents'

WOMAN'S WORLD.

INTERESTING MEDICAL COMMENTS ON A RECENT LECTURE.

A Young Woman Blacksmith—A Summer Skirt—Co-operation in a Small Town—Feminine Courage Rewarded. A Poetess Remembered.

The unscientific emotions evoked in certain quarters by the publication of Sir James Crichton-Browne's lecture on "Sex in Education" having now subsided to a certain extent, it will be interesting to consider a few of the facts ascertained and set forth by the lecturer. There can be no doubt, for instance, that in the matter of weight there is a marked difference between the male and female brains. The difference corresponds to a difference in size.

The female brain in human creatures is smaller than that of the male and it is lighter. The difference in weight is considerable. The average man's brain is between four and five ounces heavier than the average woman's. The reason, it may be said, is that the woman herself is smaller than the man in size and weight. That accounts partly for the difference, but not entirely.

It is shown by many and careful observations that if women were as tall as men and as heavy, the average weight of their brains would still be smaller than that of men by more than an ounce. The diminished size and weight of the brain is said to be a fundamental sexual distinction in the human species. It is not peculiar to civilized men and women, but is found universally among savages, wherever sufficient observations have been made. The difference in weight does not exhaust the catalogue of diversities. There is said to be also a difference of balance between the various parts of the compared brains. The occipital lobes, which preside chiefly over the physical functions of the organism, are declared to be more voluminous in the female than in the male, a physiological fact which is contrary to common belief. A third striking diversity is that while the white matter of the brain, which has no thought of function, is almost identical in weight in the two sexes, the specific gravity of the gray or thought matter is decidedly higher in the male than in the female. Now, these are facts.

It is true that Sir James Crichton-Browne has set them forth, but it is not true that he has originated them. If any lady is disposed for a quarrel on the occasion she should not quarrel with Sir James Crichton-Browne, but with niggard nature, or with Mr. Matthew Arnold's unchivalrous "stream of tendency." It appears to be unquestionable that in purely intellectual endowment the man is superior to the woman. On the other hand, in the equally noble emotional capacity the woman is superior to the man. If these be the facts, as they certainly appear to be, it is well that both the sexes should recognize and make the best they can of them.—London Hospital.

Feminine Courage Rewarded.

Representative George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, appeared before the board which awards medals for heroism in saving life and urged that a medal be given to Miss Bertie O. Burr, of Nebraska, for rescuing two young ladies from drowning in the Blue river, near Crete, Neb., last summer. A number of young ladies were bathing in the river, when one of them threw up her hands and disappeared, sinking twice in twenty feet of water before Miss Burr could go to her rescue. Miss Burr was the only swimmer in the party of five or six and plunged boldly into the swift current, bringing the drowning young woman safely to shore.

Another young woman waded so far out into the stream under the excitement of the moment that she was carried off her feet by the current and Miss Burr swam out again and brought her safely to shore. Miss Burr had learned to swim at Lasell female seminary, at Auburndale, Mass. The principal of the seminary, Professor Bragden, wrote a strong letter on the subject to Representative Williams and Mr. Williams went to the treasury department and presented the case so strongly to the examining board that it was voted unanimously to grant a medal.—Boston Transcript.

A Poetess Remembered.

Years ago a young woman of Madison, Ind., who has since obtained celebrity as a poetess, met an exiled German officer of high degree who was traveling in this country and who became enamored of and proposed marriage to her. She refused him three times, and then he departed, never marrying and occasionally sending letters to her. She subsequently married. Six years ago the German officer died and left a will bequeathing to her all of his estate, valued at $2,000,000, providing she was alive at the end of seven years, otherwise the entire estate to revert to his nephew.

The woman in the case is Mrs. Louise Bowman McClain, wife of the Rev. Thomas B. McClain, of the southeast Indiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, who is at present pastor of the church at Milton, Ind. Her parents died in Madison, where she attended school, several years ago. Her three brothers—Charles, Milo and Elijah Bowman—are citizens of Madison. She is a kinswoman of the venerable Methodist bishop, Thomas Bowman.

Mrs. McClain has been chosen as Indiana's representative poetess at the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago.—Madison Cor. Chicago Tribune.

A Honved Veteran.

The Hungarian papers report the death of Frau Marie Hoche, aged sixty-two, who was an "ober lieutenant" in the Honved army and gained the medal for bravery on the field of battle. In 1848 Marie Hoche was eighteen and entered the Vienna Volunteer corps without being recognized as a woman. She then went to Hungary and became a "jager." On the field of battle she was promoted to a lieutenant and decorated with the medal, having been badly hurt in one foot. She became a hussar, and as such she was advanced to first lieutenant.

By a mere chance her sex was discovered shortly afterward, and a major, who had long had a liking for the "plucky young fellow" in his regiment, married her. The warlike couple were wedded by an army chaplain. At Vilagos the wife was taken prisoner, and a child was born in the fortress. After the death of the major his widow married Lieutenant Hoche, whom she also survived. She was very poor during the last years of her life, but Maurus Jockay, the Hungarian poet, called public notice to her and obtained some relief for her.—Vienna Cor. London News.

Mrs. Ingersoll's Humane Act.

Mrs. Ingersoll is one of the most enthusiastic members of the Henry Bergh society. A few weeks ago she was stepping out of her New York residence to her carriage, when she saw a poor specimen of a horse dragging an immense cartload of flowers up Fifth avenue, urged on by the butt end of a whip in the hands of the burly driver. Mrs. Ingersoll walked out into the street, caught the bridle and turned the horse into the sidewalk, greatly angering the man. Finding she had not her authority papers with her, she returned into the house and procured them.

Catching up to the jaded nag as it reached the top of the hill, Mrs. Ingersoll turned the horse to the sidewalk, oblivious to the curses of the man; and as soon as a policeman came along she had the nearest police station and man taken to the nearest police station and saw him locked up. Before returning to her carriage Mrs. Ingersoll bought four quarts of oats for the starving horse.—New York Letter.

Co-operation in a Small Town.

Ableme, Kan., is a town of 4,000 inhabitants. For fifteen months fifty of the most prominent families there have been practicing a species of co-operation, and with such success that those engaged in it are looking forward to a more permanent organization. The object of the club, as stated in its bylaws, is to reduce the expense and annoyance of housekeeping by consolidation and co-operation. The club took a house for which it pays twenty dollars a month. Its working staff consists of a cook, with two assistants, and three dining room girls. The charges are $2.50 and $3 a week for grown persons and $1.25 for children. The membership is limited to the number of chairs in the dining room will hold. Families have private tables, and if they furnish their own table linen and silver they pay only $2.50 a week. Visitors are charged twenty cents a meal for two days. Over that time weekly rates are paid for them. All board is paid on Saturday morning in advance. The executive committee of three meets on Saturday afternoons with the head cook and audits accounts and pays bills. The club buys so far as possible from the trades people, and thus earns their good will. Thus far each week's receipts have been sufficient for the expenses, and no bills have been carried over from one week to another. The club furnishes three warm meals a day. All complaints must be made to the proper person, the officers taking this service upon themselves in rotation.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Why Women Are Paid Less Than Men. There are reasons why women are not in every case paid as well as men, and they are large economic reasons which deserve consideration. Among them are these: There is undoubtedly a cheaper standard of living among women than among men; women as a class have less good equipment for life work than men, because the expectation in many cases is that the work will be interrupted by matrimony; and, most of all, women have come into the industrial field as a new economic factor, and industry has not yet adjusted itself to her.—Forum.

To a Fair Correspondent. A London journal advises a correspondent who asks for information concerning an outfit for America that "old fashioned dresses are not to be thought of in America, where ladies study dress to excess and know how to turn themselves out well." Washing of linen, it is warned, is "very dear." Also, "American trunks are best," and "everything is most perfectly arranged for convenience of traveling."

Speaking in Public. During her recent visit in Chicago Miss Susan B. Anthony said: "I wish you would urge upon women the necessity of cultivating their voices and learning to speak so that they may be heard before they attempt to come before the public. Nothing is more unjust than for an audience to be taxed by straining the attention to catch fragments of sentences and now and then a disconnected word."

A Queen's Message. Queen Christina, of Spain, upon receiving the announcement that the thousandth baby had been named after her husband, sent the parents a layette, silver baby service, and a handsome nest egg, with the graceful message, "To the thousandth Alfonso, from a woman whom two Alfonsos have made happy."

Over that gather a full founce of the lace edged silk two fingers deep. Make a heading and run on the founce with a cord. Tie back the back breadths closely with an inch wide sash ribbon. Fit the skirt in front with three darts, and let all the fullness go to the back. Then will it be a joy and delight unto you to raise your severely plain tailor serge skirt and show the pretty garment that is sure never to fray and fade.—New York Press.

Well Known Trained Nurses. There are trained nurses that have a worldwide reputation, among them Edith King, Louisa Jane Mackay and Emma Durham, who were decorated by Queen Victoria with the new order of the royal red cross for services with the British army in South Africa and Egypt; Mme. Henrietta Saby, who was awarded the cross of the Legion of Honor for twenty years of exceptional services in the hospitals of Oran, and Miss Alice Fisher, of the English hospitals, recently appointed superintendent of the Philadelphia Training School for Nurses.—Detroit Free Press.
